ORDER

This Court held a hearing on June 23, 2015, at which time both parties indicated that they are making progress toward a resolution of discovery requests made by the Plaintiffs with regard to the Government's belated revelation that it had implemented portions of the November 20, 2014 DHS Memorandum prior to the February 18, 2015 start date provided to Plaintiffs and the Court by defense counsel. Given the fact that counsel for both sides indicated that progress has been made and have requested more time to reach an agreement, this Court granted the parties additional time to seek a resolution of these pending issues. The parties are to file a status report with the Court describing any agreement reached on Plaintiffs' discovery requests and any resolution with regard to the approximately 108,800 individuals who were granted benefits pursuant to the 2014 DHS Memorandum between the date of that Memorandum and this Court's injunction. The parties have until July 31, 2015, to file that status report. The Court will resolve any and all questions regarding future discovery and/or sanctions once it reviews the parties' report.

This, however, does not resolve the issue as to the approximately 2,000 individuals that were given various benefits in violation of this Court's order after the injunction was issued. The Court was first apprised by the Government of the violations of its injunction on May 7, 2015. It admitted that it violated this Court's injunction on at least 2,000 occasions—violations which have not yet been fixed. This Court has expressed its willingness to believe that these actions were accidental and not done purposefully to violate this Court's order. Nevertheless, it is shocked and surprised at the cavalier attitude the Government has taken with regard to its "efforts" to rectify this situation. The Government promised this Court on May 7, 2015, that "immediate steps" were being taken to remedy the violations of the injunction. [See Doc. No. 247]. Yet, as of June 23, 2015—some six weeks after making that representation—the situation had not been rectified. With that in mind, the Court hereby sets a hearing for August 19, 2015, at 10:00 a.m. Each individual Defendant must attend and be prepared to show why he or she should not be held in contempt of Court. In addition to the individual Defendants, the Government shall bring all relevant witnesses on this topic as the Court will not continue this matter to a later date. The Government has conceded that it has directly violated this Court's Order in its May 7, 2015 Advisory, yet, as of today, two months have passed since the Advisory and it has not remediated its own violative behavior. That is unacceptable and, as far as the Government's attorneys are concerned, completely unprofessional. To be clear, this Court expects the Government to be in full compliance with this Court's injunction. Compliance as to just those aliens living in the Plaintiff States is not full compliance.

If the Government remedies this situation and comes into compliance with this Court's injunction by July 31, 2015, it shall include a summary of that situation in the July 31, 2015 report to the Court. If the Court is satisfied with the Government's representations, it will cancel the August 19, 2015 hearing. Otherwise, the Court intends to utilize all available powers to compel compliance.

This Court began its last hearing by explaining its reluctance to sanction any party or attorney. If nothing else, sanctions bog both the parties and the Court down on side issues that detract their attention from the real focus: the merits and resolution of the case.

Nevertheless, no reasonable person could possibly consider a direct violation of an injunction a side issue. Furthermore, at some point, when a non-compliant party refuses to bring its conduct into compliance, one must conclude that the conduct is not accidental, but deliberate. If these violations have not been corrected by the end of this month, absent very compelling evidence, which this Court will be glad to consider, the only logical conclusion is that the Government needs a stronger motivation to comply with lawful court orders. Neither side should interpret this Court's personal preference to not sanction lawyers or parties as an indication that it will merely acquiesce to a party's unlawful conduct.

Signed this 7th day of July, 2015.

LA Times: Obama Moving to Ban Millions of Social Security Recipients From Owning Guns

July 20, 2015/0 Comments/in Featured, News /by Fox News

The Obama administration wants to keep people collecting Social Security benefits from owning guns if it is determined they are unable to manage their own affairs, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The push, which could potentially affect millions whose monthly disability payments are handled by others, is intended to bring the Social Security Administration in line with laws that prevent gun sales to felons, drug addicts, immigrants in the United States illegally, and others, according to the paper.

The language of federal gun laws restricts ownership to people who are unable to manage their own affairs due to “marked subnormal intelligence, or mental illness, incompetency, condition, or disease” – which could potentially affect a large group within Social Security, the LA Times reported.

If Social Security, which has never taken part in the background check system, uses the same standard as the Department of Veterans Affairs – which is the idea floated – then millions of beneficiaries could be affected, with about 4.2 million adults receiving monthly benefits that are managed by “representative payees.”

The latest move is part of the efforts by President Obama to strengthen gun control following the Sandy Hook Elementary School massacre in 2012. (Read more from “Obama Looks to Ban Social Security Recipients From Owning Guns” HERE)

If You Receive Social Security... the Obama Administration is Coming for Your Guns!

If you've got a gun and you receive Social Security, you are now being targeted by the Obama administration.

In the latest stealth effort by the Communist administration, the Social Security Administration is wanting to list the names of those who receive Social Security benefits to the National Instant Check System (NICS) as "prohibited persons." This would effectively ban them from being able to purchase a gun and would target those who already own guns.

It would also be a clear violation of the Fifth Amendment's due process clause.

The LA Times has the story:

The push is intended to bring the Social Security Administration in line with laws regulating who gets reported to the National Instant Criminal Background Check System, or NICS, which is used to prevent gun sales to felons, drug addicts, immigrants in the country illegally and others.

A potentially large group within Social Security are people who, in the language of federal gun laws, are unable to manage their own affairs due to "marked subnormal intelligence, or mental illness, incompetency, condition, or disease."

If Social Security, which has never participated in the background check system, uses the same standard as the VA, millions of its beneficiaries would be affected. About 4.2 million adults receive monthly benefits that are managed by 'representative payees.'

The Veterans Administration has been involved in this for years now, as they have sought to disarm our veterans, those who have fought to defend the very rights they are being deprived. My good friend Leon Puissegur seems to have been targeted in such a manner.

Just like the VA, the Social Security Administration would have no judicial oversight, which would mean they would end up violating the Constitutional rights of American citizens under the Second and Fifth Amendments.

We already know that the NICS system is being used to build a database, despite it being against the law to do so.

Owning a gun is not a crime. Being a veteran is not a crime. Being elderly is not a crime. Even being marked as having “subnormal intelligence, or mental illness, incompetency, condition, or disease” is not a crime. Therefore, people’s rights should not be infringed because a mentally ill, criminal usurper thinks they should be.

Any way this criminal administration can think of restricting or confiscating guns, they are looking to do it. Whether it is through the Veterans Administration, more background checks, or putting people on a random no-fly list, they are openly defying God, the people and the Constitution.

WTC TWIN TOWERS – AS WELL AS WTC BUILDING #7 – WERE DESTROYED BY CONTROLLED DEMOLITION, AS CLEARLY
PROVEN BY THE LAWS OF PHYSICS; THIS DEMOLITION COULD ONLY HAVE BEEN AN “INSIDE JOB.”

In an interview that appeared in the German press in January 2002, Andreas von Bülow, Germany's former research minister, said: I can state: the planning of the [9-11] attacks was technically and organizationally a master achievement. To hijack four huge airplanes within a few minutes and within one hour, to drive them into their targets, with complicated flight maneuvers! This is unthinkable, without years-long support from secret apparatuses of the state and industry.

Plaintiff is informed and believes that the evidence compels us to add to the exploits of the (possibly non-existent) nineteen thugs and amateur pilots such feats as equipping one or more of the commercial aircraft with missile pods, firing projectiles into one or both of the Twin Towers a fraction of a second before impact, and bringing down the Twin Towers in a controlled demolition. Under such scenarios, “professionals must have done the overall job,” which is to say a government, acting through “black ops” agencies, or its military, or in collaboration with powerful corporate interests that can be trusted to keep silence (or kill those who might not).

Myriad circumstances establish to a near certainty that all three of the World Trade Center buildings that collapsed on 9-11 – i.e., the Twin Towers (WTC Buildings 1 and 2) and the 47-story WTC 7 (which collapsed about 5:20 P.M. on 9-11) --were brought down in deliberate, controlled demolitions. (See below.) Controlled demolition of the World Trade Center necessarily implies unimpeded prior access to both towers, access to explosives, a high level of technical expertise in laying explosive charges, avoiding detection between the placement of the explosives sometime prior to 9-11 and the date of the attacks, and accomplices not on the planes, who detonated the demolition charges. The U.S. government can, e.g., by viewing video and consulting engineers and demolition experts, discern whether the Twin Towers were demolished (as opposed to collapsing due to the structural effects of the aircrafts' impact, and/or fires started by burning jet fuel). If the Twin Towers were demolished, and explosives for that purpose were placed in the towers prior to 9-11, then to a virtual certainty there has been and there continues to be a cover-up, and the case for official, high-level complicity is very strong indeed.

The evidence for such controlled demolitions is impressive. Consider, first, that all three skyscrapers collapsed relatively tidily, symmetrically, into their respective footprints. That is the very purpose of the science of controlled implosions. Inward collapses are triggered by precision-timed explosives, placed on strategic, load-bearing columns and beams, to demolish large structures in congested areas while limiting damage to structures nearby.

Probably the most conclusive evidence that each of the Twin Towers fell in a controlled demolition is that the tops of the respective buildings reached the ground almost as quickly as if they had fallen in a vacuum. From a height of 1,360 feet, an object falling in a vacuum would take a little more than 9 seconds to reach the ground. As a matter of physics, if concrete and steel of the bottom 80 stories or so of the towers that lay in their respective paths, the towers could not possibly have collapsed as quickly as they did. Some part of the energy that, in a vacuum, would be available for falling downward at an accelerating rate would have to be expended instead in tearing through the many stories of concrete and steel that lay between the top of each WTC tower, and the street.

96. Not long after 9-11, FEMA produced a bogus study that claimed that fire produced the collapse of World Trade Center 7. Yet, a year later — although the revelation produced no significant public reaction — Larry Silverstein, head of the company that took a 99-year lease to the WTC just weeks before the attacks, admitted on television that WTC was “pulled.” In context, what Silverstein’s little-reported remarks clearly meant was that WTC 7 (landlord to the IRS, Secret Service, Securities and Exchange Commission and the CIA) was demolished. In a PBS documentary first aired in September 2002, entitled “America Rebuilds,” Silverstein said: I remember getting a call from the, er, fire department commander, telling me that they were not sure they were gonna be able to contain the fire, and I said, “We’ve had such a terrible loss of life, maybe the smartest thing to do is pull it.” And they made that decision to pull and we watched the building collapse.” (Emphasis added).³¹

Hours after the attack, Van Romero, an explosives expert and former director of the Energetic Materials Research and Testing Center at New Mexico Tech, stated, “My opinion is, based on the videotapes, that after the airplanes hit the World Trade Center there were some explosive devices inside the buildings that caused the towers to collapse.” Although he would recant days later – with some prodding, perhaps, from representatives of the

Indeed, there are multiple sites on the Internet on which one can see videos of the collapses of the towers, displaying “squibs” (lateral explosions, blowing out windows at intervals of roughly 5 stories, descending just ahead of the dust cloud) and other visual indicia of controlled demolitions.

Plaintiff notes also that there was a “power down” condition in the South Tower, ostensibly due to the need to carry out a “cabling upgrade,” on the weekend of September 8-9, 2001. This could have afforded Enterprise demolition agents the opportunity to implant explosives in the South Tower, without being recorded on security cameras. Plaintiff notes further that Stratesec, a company of which Marvin Bush, the President’s brother, was formerly a director, provided security in the WTC Complex.

Never in the history of steel reinforced concrete skyscrapers have such buildings collapsed due to fire – except, we are supposed to believe, in three separate (if coordinated) occurrences on 9-11. Implausible, also, is that the towers did not merely fail structurally, but produced mushroom clouds of fine powder, supposedly as a result of the fires. It can be demonstrated -- again using laws of physics not subject to distortion by Enterprise-friendly Supreme Court Justices -- that the energy needed to produce mushroom clouds of the dimensions seen on 9-11 was more than could have resulted from collapses due to fire, without powerful explosives being present as well. There are also multiple incongruities with claims of the “Official Story” that burning jet fuel so weakened floor trusses or angle clips that the towers “pancaked” and fell as a result. Many skeptics have pointed out that the WTC, when constructed one of the world’s tallest buildings, was built with a safety factor of at least 600%. Molten steel was found at bedrock, seven stories below street level and 80 stories or more beneath the points of impact, although the melting point of steel is on the order of 1500 degrees Celsius, and burning jet fuel does not produce flame temperatures higher than about 1000 degrees Celsius. While steel may be weakened sufficiently short of melting to fail, claims that “infernals” led to the towers’ collapses (among other flaws) confuse flame temperatures, and the temperature of the steel coming into contact with it. Upon information and belief, it is not likely that the structural steel of the WTC reached temperatures higher than approximately 360 degrees Celsius – far short of the approximately 550 degrees Celsius which is a threshold temperature in that, at that temperature, steel starts losing its elasticity. Even at the higher temperature, however, the WTC steel would have retained about 60% of its structural strength – sufficient to support three times its rated load.

Accounts supportive of the Official Story indicate that the design of the WTC included no significant lateral support for the walls against wind loading, whereas in reality, at about 13'4" intervals the perimeter walls were affixed to 24" x 18" metal plates covered with shear studs, and set in the concrete slab. In addition, pairs of foot6-foot long, flat steel bars connected directly on the perimeter columns. Thus, owing to the composite action between the concrete and the steelwork, achieved by extending the diagonal web members of the joists through the steel decking, and embedding them in the slab of each floor, it is not true that nothing more than the so-called “angle clips” held up each floor. In addition, a number of “mechanical floors” in each tower, stories that would be subjected to extraordinary loads for things such as air conditioning equipment, used solid steel beams in their flooring. Moreover, the embedding of the tops of the trusses in the concrete slab means that, even had the trusses been heated to the point of failure, the concrete slab would have held the trusses up. Had one truss failed, its load would be redistributed to the concrete slab, and all remaining trusses associated with that slab. So the failure of one, or even many, trusses would not lead to overall failure, and it is impossible that the trusses collapsed one after the other, as the Official Story supposes.

In addition, even if we suppose that fires within the building could have heated the bolts or flanges sufficiently that they fell apart, or tore through the steel, for each of the Twin Towers to have fallen symmetrically, presumably all of the joints between the platter and the central columns would have to have been heated at almost exactly the same rate, in order to collapse tidily, at the same time, and at the same rate as the joints with the outer columns on all sides.

Further fallacies inherent in the “jet fuel inferno” elements of the Official Story include that:

- a. “Infernos” are inconsistent with the sooty (oxygen-starved and hence not very hot) fires observed (especially in the North Tower);
- b. Much of the planes’ jet fuel burned outside the buildings (especially in the case of the South Tower, which was struck at an oblique angle, producing an orange fireball which, although impressive visually, consumed much of the fuel outside the building);
- c. The jet fuel fires would have been brief – most of it burning off or evaporating within 30 seconds, and all of it within about 2-3 minutes. The energy produced by the burning jet fuel, not absorbed by the concrete and steel within this brief period, would have been vented to the exterior;
- d. Had temperatures over any appreciable area within either tower climbed to 700 degrees Celsius, the glow produced by such temperatures would have been clearly visible (and nothing of the sort may be seen in the videotapes available);
- e. Official Story historians neglect that, on February 23, 1975, the North Tower experienced a fire that burned for 3 to 4 hours, demonstrating the truss-slab combination’s survivability in such circumstances;
- f. The Official Story does not explain how the 47 massive central core columns, which held up the greater part of the weight of each building, failed; and
- g. It has been calculated that if the entire 10,000 gallons of jet fuel from the aircraft was injected into just one floor of the WTC, and the jet fuel was then burned with perfect efficiency, no hot gases leaving the single story of the building and no heat escaping by conduction, the jet fuel would have raised the temperature to a maximum temperature of 280 degrees Celsius.

The existence of “infernos” is disproved also by eyewitness testimony. Whereas the Official Story has it that temperatures were hot enough to cause the trusses of the South Tower to fail, eyewitness-survivors state, to the contrary, that temperatures were cool enough for them to walk away:

The impact floors of the South Tower were 78 through 84. Donovan Cowan was in an open elevator at the 78th floor sky-lobby. He stated, “We went into the elevator. As soon as I hit the button, that's when there was a big boom. We both got knocked down. I remember feeling this intense heat. The doors were still open. The heat lasted for maybe 15 to 20 seconds I guess. Then it stopped."

- b. Ling Young was in her 78th floor office. She said: "Only in my area were people alive, and the people alive were from my office. I figured that out later because I sat around in there for 10 or 15 minutes. That's how I got so burned."
- c. Photographs of the aircraft impact area of the North Tower show a survivor peering out – hardly consistent with an "inferno" of 800 degrees Celsius;
- d. Although, suspiciously, certain segments of the same have been classified, FDNY audiotape from 9-11 reveals that the fires were believed to be under control (far from "infernos" capable of melting steel) and that firemen on the scene had no indication that either of the towers were unstable or might fall, or of their own impending doom. been clearly visible (and nothing of the sort may be seen in the videotapes available);

Jet fuel fires as the effective cause of the Twin Towers’ collapses are discredited also by seismic evidence. The Lamont-Doherty Earth Observatory in Palisades, New York (in Rockland County, roughly 21 miles or 34 km north of the WTC) recorded seismographs on 9-11 that show seismic events at the beginning of the collapse of each of the Twin Towers. There was a 2.1 magnitude earthquake just as the South Tower began its 10-second collapse at 9:59:04, and a 2.3 magnitude earthquake as the North Tower began its collapse at 10:28:31. Jet fuel – most of which was burned off or evaporated at levels 80 stories or more above the ground level, within a few minutes following the impacts cannot account for the fires that continued to burn, deep in the pile of rubble within the buildings’ footprints, for 100 days after 9-11. The only reasonable explanation for the earthquakes as the buildings began to fall, and for the long-lasting fires, is that the true perpetrators of the attacks placed and detonated explosives below ground level beneath each of the towers, where the columns were affixed to bedrock. This also helps explain how the towers fell so quickly (almost as fast as if in an unimpeded free fall) and almost entirely within their respective footprints.

The obvious difficulty that the seismic recordings present to the believer in the Official Story, however, is that, in addition to having the resources and the skill to pull off the hijackings and the flying of the planes into buildings, for the Official Story to be credible the hijackers had to have, first, obtained explosives sufficient to produce the massive explosions recorded. Then, they would have had to gain access to sub-basement areas of each building, some seven stories below street level. They would have had to know how and at what locations to place the explosives in advance of 9-11, so as to produce the effect of blowing out massive steel columns connected to bedrock. They would have had to have the cunning to prepare and place the explosives without being detected, and to detonate or cause the detonation of the explosives 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 hours after their “martyrdom.”

Finally, in addition to the resources and the skill to accomplish all of the foregoing, it seems the “terrorist hijackers” would need to have had the influence to prevent, and to continue to prevent for more than 3 years following the attacks (throughout which time they have been the object of nationwide revulsion) widespread disclosure of the full extent of their deeds (i.e., the placement and detonation of huge explosive charges beneath each of the towers). In fact, the evidence was whisked away with astonishing speed. (See below)

As, clearly, the entire approach of the Bush II Administration since 9-11 has been to maximize public fears of terrorism, not to assuage them, a cover-up of the facts of the explosions and of the demolitions of the Twin Towers can only indicate that the Defendants intend that such facts remain little-known because they are fatal to the Official Story, and argue powerfully that the WTC attacks were an “inside job” done by, or with the complicity of, the U.S. government. Were this not so, the government would be trumpeting these facts, with the aim of showing that “Muslim terrorists” are even more frightful than supposed, and as justification for more surveillance, more military spending, and more abridgements of Constitutional rights.

Finally, there are video images that appear to depict each of the supposed “Flight 11” and “Flight 175” shooting projectiles into the North Tower and the South Tower, respectively, just prior to impact. The North Tower video is from the Naudet Brothers’ “Fireman’s Video” which became the basis of the television documentary “9-11.” Allegedly, those who taped the documentary on home VCR machines, or purchased the VBS videotape, can see the “flash” of the projectile ejecting from the plane just before it hit the North Tower. The later, DVD “collector’s edition” of the documentary allegedly was digitally edited to remove the “flash.”

Evidence wholly independent of video images purporting to show missiles being fired into the WTC towers amply shows (1) that the planes’ impact and jet fuel fires do not sufficiently explain the collapse of the towers; and (2) there is abundant evidence of high explosives at the foundations and controlled demolitions. Even more shocking than the consumer-quality videotape of the Naudet Brothers are the images that can be seen on www.letsroll911.org. These images from major news sources show “Flight 175” as it strikes the South Tower on 9-11. When slowed down, the images appear to show (albeit not very distinctly)(a) an apparatus on the underside of “Flight 175,” believed to be a missile pod, not normally found on the Boeing 757; and (b) a bright object projected from the location of the pod preceding (by perhaps 1/3 second) the plane into the South Tower. No major media outlet has reported on these images, as the same are presented on the www.letsroll.911.org website. As the website owner himself admits, many thousands of copies of the “Flight 175” images from CNN and other major media outlets must exist on Americans’ shelves, as the second strike occurred when millions had their TV sets on and, no doubt, many people taped the terrible events as they occurred. Thus, as the www.letsroll911.org webmaster, Phil Jayhan, states by way of a challenge, if the images presented on that website are not genuine, refuting them ought to be an easy task.

The “letsroll911” video images remain controversial even within the growing community of 9-11 skeptics, and perhaps they are insufficiently clear to establish the “missile and pod” theory beyond a reasonable doubt. Nevertheless, the number of “hits” on the website and other evidence suggests that many agencies of the U.S. government and the media claiming to have produced the images have repeatedly visited the www.letsroll911.org website, and certainly the images are convincing enough at least to demand careful examination. One would think, certainly, that if some activist were attracting huge attention (if only on the internet) by publicizing major media images from 9-11 that had been doctored to add a missile being fired from “Flight 175,” the media would have reacted publicly, or sought a court injunction to disavow and discredit the doctored images. Upon information and belief, none of the media have claimed the images appearing on the website to be anything but genuine. If they do show the firing of a missile, and they are genuine, then clearly the Official Story—although “alive and well” as Enterprise, CNN, Fox News and other captive media propaganda sources — is, in objective fact, a dead letter.

From the foregoing, missiles firing or not, Plaintiff submits it is evident that the Twin Towers were demolished, and that the “jet fuel inferno” account is disproved as a sufficient cause of the collapses. The discrediting of such critical elements of the Official Story, coupled with the lack of any true investigation of the actual events, establishes a cover-up. Moreover, if the Twin Towers were demolished, unless the 19 alleged hijackers were superhuman, then some element of the United States government, some secret service, some extremely powerful actors were participants in the attacks.

A supposedly definitive technical study concerning the collapses of World Trade Center 1 and 2 (the North Tower and South Tower) appeared just two days after 9-11, but the actual evidence (the rubble from the destroyed buildings, especially the structural steel) was kept under the exclusive control of FEMA, removed from the site, and shipped overseas with haste that dismayed engineers, and astonished everyone. Called by its right name, this was the destruction of evidence, and an obstruction of justice, brazenly carried out in plain view.

The predominant public view of FEMA is that it is a well-intentioned if lethargic service bureaucracy that parcels out rebuilding funds after floods and earthquakes. FEMA does perform some useful disaster-relief functions, but its principal (and largely secret and “black budget”) function is and always has been “Continuity of Government.” Its main objective is to make sure that centralized federal control – if need be, in the hands of executives neither elected by, nor indeed known to, the electorate, who already function as a “shadow government” – continue, no matter what. To that end, it has constructed dozens of secret underground bunkers, capable of sustaining the select few admitted to them following any catastrophe. It has budgets with millions for disaster relief, but billions for unspecified “other purposes.” Like the CIA, it receives unknown sums in black-budget appropriations and, also like the CIA, upon information and belief finances its secret operations in significant part by drug dealing, gun running, and assassinations.

If and when martial law comes to America at large, it will be under the auspices of the shadowy Federal Emergency Management Agency (“FEMA”), a massive, secretive agency operated from a huge, fortified bunker in Virginia, and established by unconstitutional means to carry out an unconstitutional and indeed anti-constitutional program.

Many Americans who listened to the televised hearings of the (limited) investigation of the Iran-Contra scandal were surprised to hear a committee member inquire about an article alleging secret White House plans to suspend the Constitution. Even more surprising was that committee chair Sen. Daniel Inouye interrupted the speaker, demanding that all discussion on that question take place in closed session, out of public hearing.

Lest Plaintiff’s allegations concerning a parallel government be dismissed as sheer paranoid fantasy, Plaintiff annexes as Exhibit “B” the full text of an article that appeared in the “mainstream” Miami Herald for July 5, 1987. That article alleges a secret, parallel government from the earliest days of the Reagan Administration, its activities extending far beyond the secret arms sales to Iran and aid to the Nicaraguan “Contras” then under investigation, and plans drawn by Lt. Col. Oliver North and others to suspend the Constitution in the event of a “national crisis” including “widespread dissent or national opposition to a U.S. military invasion abroad.”

Today, a large number of the Reagan and Bush I Administration’s most controversial personnel, including several notable figures convicted of crimes relating to Iran-Contra, have joined the Bush II Administration. There being credible allegations (raised by, among others, General Wesley K. Clark) that the Bush II Administration envisages a series of wars and violent “regime changes” around the globe,³⁴ it is fitting to ask if the Iran-Contra plans for the mass internment of dissenters or opponents of empire are again being taken seriously, and to look more closely at FEMA.

Established without Congressional advice, consent or objection, wholly by a series of Presidential Executive Orders of doubtful constitutionality, FEMA had its origins in Kennedyera orders that granted the federal government the power to seize a variety of private or local functions in event of emergency. President Nixon consolidated and enlarged those powers in 1969, with Executive Order 11490.

President Ford signed Executive Order #11921, which, in the words of Dr. Henry Kliemann, political scientist at Boston University, “was understood by FEMA to mean that one day they would be in charge of the country. As these bureaucrats saw it, FEMA’s real mission was to wait, prepare, and then take over when some ‘situation’ seemed serious enough to turn the United States into a police state.”

A few years after President Carter, again by Executive Order, made FEMA “official,” President Reagan appointed as its head Gen. Louis Giuffrida, who had written a paper advocating the declaration of martial law in response to black militancy. His plan could have sent millions of African-Americans to detention camps. Giuffrida also wrote “Martial rule comes into existence upon a determination (not a declaration) by the senior military commander that civil government must be replaced because it is no longer functioning anyway.”

Indeed, the author for President Carter of Presidential Memorandum 32 was Harvard Prof. Samuel P. Huntington, who wrote in the mid 1970s that democracy and economic development are outdated ideas. As co-author of the book Crisis in Democracy, Mr. Huntington said:

We have come to recognize that there are potential desirable limits to economic growth. There are also potentially desirable limits to the indefinite extension of political democracy. A government, which lacks authority, will have little ability short of cataclysmic crisis to impose on its people the sacrifices that may be necessary. Perhaps the Bush II Administration’s unprecedented and reckless budget deficits are intended to bankrupt the United States, so as to bring about a collapse of democratic institutions and usher in a FEMA-run police state.

In an interview in the December 2003 issue of Cigar Aficionado, Gen. Tommy Franks, who led the U.S. military operation to overthrow Saddam Hussein, asserted that, were there to occur another mass-casualty attack, the “grand experiment that we call democracy” would come to an end, and the Constitution would be discarded in favor of a military government.

In a joint statement dated September 30, 1973, Senator Frank Church (D-Idaho) and Charles McMathias (R-Maryland) stated: “While the danger of a dictatorship arising through legal means may seem remote...recent history records Hitler seizing control through the use of the emergency powers provisions contained in the laws of the Weimar Republic.” Although, to be sure, non-Enterprise terror and terrorism exist, and are evils to be combated, the Enterprise and the Bush II Administration are embarked on a program to exaggerate the threat of terrorism, and to aggrandize their own power and wealth via measures that would not be accepted absent a perceived emergency, but which are succeeding because of a climate of fear, created in part by acts of terror sanctioned and carried out by or with the approval of the Enterprise itself.

It is intriguing, and circumstantial proof of Enterprise foreknowledge of the 9-11 attacks, that on September 7, 2001, just four days before 9-11, the President's brother Jeb Bush, as Governor of Florida, issued an Executive Order (#01-261) delegating to the Adjutant General of the state of Florida, "all necessary authority . . . to order members of the Florida National Guard into Active Service." Immediately after the collapse of the South Tower on 9-11, Governor Jeb Bush signed Executive Order #01-262, declaring a state of emergency in Florida that upon information and belief remained in effect for a year or longer, despite the fact that no acts of terrorism have occurred in Florida. Under an open-ended state of emergency, the Director of the Division of Emergency Management has (among others) all of the following martial-law powers:

- a. To suspend the effect of any statute or rule governing the conduct of state business;
- b. To suspend the effect of any order or rule of any government entity;
- c. To seize and utilize any and all real or personal property as needed to meet this emergency;
- d. To order the evacuation of any or all persons from any location in the State; and
- e. To regulate the return of the evacuees to their home communities.

Upon information and belief, FEMA directly or indirectly received funds from "Operation Watchtower," a drug smuggling operation including U.S. Army Special Forces personnel. "Operation Watchtower" entailed the placement and operation of low-frequency radio beacons to guide low-flying pilots from Colombia to Panama. It also consisted of making available to the drug pilots the radio frequencies and schedules of drug interdiction aircraft so as to enable them to avoid detection.

According to an affidavit made by Colonel Edward P. Cutolo, a purported copy of which is annexed as Exhibit "D," numerous individuals met their deaths under suspicious circumstances who had posed a threat to "blow the whistle" on yet another U.S. government exercise in funding "black ops" with laundered proceeds from drug dealing.

Col. Cutolo himself died in a one-car accident near Skullthorpe, England, in 1980. His affidavit states that Mossad agents associated with Operation Watchtower were protected by CIA Director Stansfield Turner and George H. W. Bush, and Washington military authorities had approved the drug trafficking operation. Cutolo stated that he was told by CIA operative Edwin Wilson that Operation Watchtower was but one of a number of similar operations around the world, and that 70% of its proceeds were laundered through banks in Panama.

Wilson, according to Cutolo, described to him an additional secret operation, Operation Orwell, which spied on politicians for purposes of blackmail. Allegedly, information gathered on politicians was forwarded to Washington, D.C. and disseminated to private corporations who were developing weapons systems for the Department of Defense. Those corporations were encouraged to use the sensitive information gathered from surveillance of U.S. senators and representatives as leverage, which is to say blackmail, to induce them to vote to approve whatever costs the weapons systems incurred. Upon information and belief, such blackmail has continued and is ongoing at the present time.

The extraordinary, police-state powers granted to FEMA and to other federal bodies by Executive Orders (“EOs”) include but are not limited to the following:

- a. To take over all modes of transportation, and control of highways and seaports (EO 10990);
- b. To seize and control the communications media (EO 10995);
- c. To take over all electrical power, gas, petroleum, fuels and minerals (EO 10997);
- d. To take over all food resources and farms (EO 10998);
- e. To mobilize civilians into work brigades under government supervision (slave labor) (EO 11000);
- f. To take over all health, education and welfare functions (EO 11001);
- g. To compile and to operate, acting through the Postmaster General, a national registration of all persons (EO 11002);
- h. To take over all airports and aircraft, including commercial aircraft (EO 11003);
- i. To relocate communities, build new housing with public funds, designate areas to be abandoned, and establish new locations for populations (EO 11004);
- j. To take over railroads, inland waterways and public storage facilities (EO 11005);
- k. To put all Executive Orders into effect in times of increased international tensions and economic or financial crisis (through the Office of Emergency Planning);
- l. Through the Department of Justice, to enforce plans set out in Executive Orders, institute industrial support, to establish judicial and legislative liaison, control all aliens, operate penal and correctional institutions, and advise and assist the President (EO 11310); and
- m. To develop plans to establish control over the mechanisms of production and distribution, energy resources, wages, salaries, credit and the flow of money in U.S. financial institutions in any undefined national emergency. (EO 11921) This Executive Order provides further that, when the

President declares a state of emergency, Congress cannot review the action for six months. General Frank Salzedo, then Chief of FEMA’s “Civil Security Division,” stated in a 1983 conference that he saw FEMA’s role as including the denial of “access to U.S. opinion” to “dissident groups” in times of crisis. In other words, if the President declares a state of emergency, the First Amendment is a dead letter, and FEMA's role includes the suppression of dissent.

In 1979, President Carter consolidated FEMA's powers to include:

- a. The National Security Act of 1947, which allows for the strategic relocation of industries, services, government and other essential economic activities, and to rationalize the requirements for manpower, resources and production facilities;
- b. The 1950 Defense Production Act, which gives the President sweeping powers over all aspects of the economy;
- c. The Act of August 29, 1916, which authorizes the Secretary of the Army, in time of war, to take possession of any transportation system for transporting troops, materiel, or any other purpose related to the emergency; and
- d. The International Emergency Economic Powers Act, which enables the President to seize the property of a foreign country or national.

The ideological inspiration for what we know as FEMA today can be typified by a few noteworthy U.S. government pronouncements. In February 1948, for example, George Kennon of the U.S. State Department Planning Staff stated in Policy Planning Study No. 23 that:

[T]he U.S. must devise a pattern of relationships that will permit them to maintain 50% of the world's wealth while only having 6% of the world's population. The U.S. must cease to talk about unreal objectives such as human rights, raising of the living standard and democratization.

In National Security Memorandum No. 200, Henry A. Kissinger stated in 1975 that:

[A] reduction of the rate of population of these states [third world countries] is a matter of vital U.S. security since the U.S. will require large and increasing amounts of materials from abroad, especially from Less Developed Countries (LDC's). That fact gives the U.S. enhanced interest in the political, economic and social stability of these supplying countries.

Wherever a lessening of population can increase the prospects of such stability, population policy becomes relevant to resources supplied and to the economic interest of the United States.

While many Americans, whatever their racial background, will no doubt be shocked and repelled that genocide in the interests of white economic supremacy is an unacknowledged bedrock of U.S. international policy, a report commissioned by President Carter, "Global 2000 – Report to the President" (1978) asserted that: There will be zero population growth for the whites on the earth by the year 2000, and in order to preserve the survival of the white race, lands that contain resources that the U.S. needs must be freed of its surplus population.

In the short term, it has suited the Enterprise and the extreme right wing to allow huge numbers of undocumented and largely Hispanic and nonwhite immigrants to enter and remain in the U.S., to depress wages and working conditions here, and to “divide and conquer” the majority of the population, by fueling tensions between native-born Americans and This, perhaps, explains why so little is being done by the United States to relieve the AIDS pandemic, in Africa and elsewhere. “Freeing” lands of “surplus population” is doublespeak for killing poor people of color, or hastening their mortality.

61 immigrants. The Enterprise has long recognized, however, that a program of empire and even genocide aimed at the nonwhite nations and economies of the third world, intensifying as U.S. demand for resources – especially oil and other fossil fuels – grows more acute, could well lead to restiveness on the part of nonwhite persons living in the U.S., and a great many others as well.

Thus, quietly, a parallel government, in its essentials a police state readying “all the odious apparatus of Nazi rule,”³⁷ has been erected alongside the Constitutional government to provide for the day when the governing elite deems it useful to jettison the Constitution. That day may be fast approaching.

Presidential powers were further increased with successive Crime Bills (particularly those enacted in 1991 and 1993). This legislation increased the power to suspend rights guaranteed under the Constitution, and to seize the property of persons including suspected drug dealers, and individuals who participate in a public protest or demonstration.

Notwithstanding the real dangers posed by non-Enterprise terrorists, justification for substantially all of the “emergency” powers now held by FEMA (a black-budget agency existing thanks to Executive Orders and minimally subject to Congressional oversight) is manifestly weaker today, years after the dissolution of the Soviet Union, than during the Cold War, when thousands of nuclear warheads were aimed at United States territory.

Although the fact is no doubt unknown to ninety percent or more of the population of the United States, “emergency” plans are in existence, for which expansive logistical preparations have been made for suspending the Constitution, turning the reigns of government over to FEMA, and appointing military commanders to run state and local governments. FEMA would further be empowered to order the detention, indefinitely and without trial, of anyone whom it believes “might” engage in, or conspire with others to engage in, espionage or sabotage.

A national police force, with the euphemistic name of the Multi Jurisdictional Task Force, wearing black uniforms and composed of specially-selected US military personnel (those willing to fire on Americans), foreign military units with UN identification cards and specially-trained police groups from larger U.S. cities, will enforce martial law, under the direction and control of FEMA.

Even short of full-scale police-state measures, the “war on terror” can be used as a pretext for draconian powers. For example, on March 16, 2003, a Gannett News Service article reported that Sid Caspersen, Director of the Office of Counter-Terrorism for the State of New Jersey, stated at a news conference that “If the nation escalates to ‘red alert,’ which is the highest in the color-coded readiness against terror, you will be assumed by authorities to be the enemy if you so much as venture outside your home.” The article also stated, “A red alert would also tear away virtually all personal freedoms to move about and associate.” Caspersen was quoted as saying “You literally are staying home, is what happens, unless you are required to be out.”

A February 14, 2003 article in the Washington Post reported that Washington, D.C. area schools were planning to prevent parents from picking up their own children in the event of a terrorist attack. A parent from Bolton, Massachusetts telephoned a radio talk-show, saying he had received a letter from the Nashoba Regional School District, telling parents they would not be allowed to pick up their children during a “red alert” and that the children would in such event be bused to a secret location that cannot be disclosed to parents.

Reportedly, children attending the Milbourne Elementary School in the rural community of Milbourne, Arkansas, were held on Friday, March 21, 2003 beyond their release time, forced to watch terrifying videos of terrorist attacks, and locked in their classrooms (as were their teachers) by men in dark blue uniforms with rifles. The children were then marched outdoors where they saw prison-style school buses with US ARMY written on the side. The children were then returned to their classrooms, the armed men and buses disappeared, and only then were the children permitted to go home.

In March 1999 – before 9-11 -- Marines and elements of the U.S. Coast Guard took over the Hobbs Middle School in Milton, Florida. The Marines told terrified children that the mock takeover “was a way to illustrate what martial law is all about.”³⁹ Why, plaintiff asks, is there the need to instruct Florida schoolchildren regarding “what martial law is all about”?

The foregoing powers are utterly irreconcilable with the Constitution of the United States, including but not limited to Article IV, Section 4, and the Tenth Amendment. They are, simply stated, a prescription for a police state, for a totalitarian state very much like those ruled by Josef Stalin and Adolph Hitler.

For many years, FEMA denied the existence of its primary bunker, Mount Weather in Virginia. Even after admitting to its existence, FEMA refused to disclose its purpose, even to its ostensible bosses in Congress. At 1975 hearings, retired Air Force General Leslie W. Bray, the director of FEMA's predecessor, the Federal Prepared Agency, stonewalled a U.S. Senate subcommittee, insisting, "I am not at liberty to describe precisely what is the role and the mission and the capability that we have at Mount Weather, or at any other precise location." Is that not information to which the people's elected representatives are entitled?

Since Hurricane Andrew and 9-11, however, it has become somewhat more widely known that Mount Weather houses an entire parallel and unelected government – with a president, who by protocol must be addressed as "Mr. President," and a cabinet not confirmed by the Senate, nor known to the public, all ready to take over the country in an "emergency" which, per President Carter's order, embraces "any accidental, natural, man-caused, or wartime emergency or threat thereof, which causes or may cause substantial injury or harm to the population or substantial damage to or loss of property."

The foregoing definition, of course, is ample enough to authorize a FEMA takeover based on whatever the President, or the director of FEMA, declares to be sufficient cause. Back in 1975 – the stone age of computer technology – the Senate hearings that failed to learn the purpose of Mount Weather did learn that "... the facility held dossiers on at least 100,000 Americans. [Senator] John Tunney later alleged that the Mount Weather computers can obtain millions of pieces of additional information on the personal lives of American citizens simply by tapping the data stored at any of the other ninety-six Federal Relocation Centers." The subcommittee concluded that Mount Weather's databases "operate with few, if any, safeguards or guidelines." It appears a foregone conclusion that the unelected parallel government's intrusion into the private lives of Americans could only have increased exponentially in the years since 1975.

9-11 provided the occasion for a practice exercise in "continuity of government." According to the Washington Post,⁴⁰ "Within hours of the synchronized attacks on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center, Military District of Washington helicopters lifted off with the first wave of evacuated officials." "Only the executive branch is represented in the full-time shadow Barton Gellman and Susan Schmidt, "Shadow Government Is at Work in Secret," Washington Post, 03/01/2002 administration," the Post noted, and "[m]any departments, including Justice and Treasury, have completed plans to delegate statutory powers to officials who would not normally exercise them.” Thus, if a disaster can be fabricated sufficient to serve as a pretext to declare martial law, the executive branch could exercise power through persons neither elected by the public nor confirmed by the Senate, and indeed the checks and balances traditionally supplied by the legislative and judicial branches would effectively be nullified. It is no wonder that Republican Party stalwarts such as William Safire have floated “trial balloons” foreseeing terror attacks immediately before the scheduled 2004 presidential election.⁴¹ According to sources with the FBI and the CIA, the White House from some time has been manufacturing terror alerts to keep the issue alive in the minds of voters, and to bolster President Bush’s approval ratings.

As recent revelations of the widespread, systematic abuse of Iraqi detainees by U.S. and British forces (which came to public notice only in April 2004 although at the highest levels allegedly knew of the abuse for many months⁴³ at least since December 2003), there have again emerged “expert” predictions that a “dirty bomb” will create panic and death in a Western city. On information and belief, these “predictions” are issued at such strategic times to take attention off the horrific, unconscionable offenses that are now coming to light. Indeed, the mere planting of such rumors tends to diminish outrage and demands for accountability among the American public. Why be concerned that Iraqis are being tortured, humiliated, and abused, when a “dirty bomb” might spew deadly radiation in our hometown?

Evidence of the moral degradation to which the Bush II Administration is leading America is that Rush Limbaugh, far-right commentator and hero of the Republican Party, with an audience of 20 million, dismissed the abuse of Iraqi prisoners in the following terms: . . . Somebody has to provide a little levity here. This is not so serious as everybody is making it to be . . . We act like . . . “What can we do to make these people feel better? Let’s just pull out of there, and let’s just go.” . . . I mean, it’s ridiculous. . . . This is a pure, media-generated story. . . . we’re going to hamper our military effort, and then we are going to really hammer them [the troops accused of abusing Iraqis] because they had a good time. . . . I’m talking about people having a good time . . . you ever heard of emotional release? You heard of need to blow some steam off?

In 1984, the Iran-Contra affair spurred planning to suppress a possible flow of refugees in the event the United States were to go to war against the Sandinista regime of Nicaragua. “Readiness” exercises under the code name REX-84 were conducted on the assumption that FEMA might have to detain a large number of refugees. Detention centers were set up at least ten military bases to provide for such a contingency.

REX-84 coordinated 34 federal departments and agencies in “readiness exercises” held from April 5-13, 1984. The training exercise included the use of the military to control civil disturbances, major demonstrations and strikes. It also included exercises in conducting large population movements, and imposing martial law.

REX-84 was so secretive that special metal security doors were placed on the fifth floor of the FEMA building in Washington, D.C., and many long-standing Civil Defense employees were denied entry. The emergency plan was vehemently opposed by then-Attorney General William French Smith. It was drawn in large part by Lt. Col. Oliver North, infamous for his Iran-Contra exploits, and for his blatant perjury before Congress. This “dry run” for fascism advocated the roundup and transfer to “assembly centers or relocation camps” of at least 21 MILLION African-Americans in the event of large-scale rioting or disorder, a proposal Hitlerian in inspiration and stunning in its scale.

“Operation Garden Plot,” or United States Civil Disturbance Plan 55-2, provides for federal military assistance to be given to local and state law enforcement agencies during times of civil disturbances to control the civilian population. This operation will target people or groups that the government considers “disruptive elements,” defined very broadly to include resistance groups, tax protesters, right-wing extremist groups, non-conformists, or people protesting the imposition of martial law. It expressly authorizes the use of deadly force to suppress civil disorder. Operation Garden Plot came into play, for example in 1992, at the time of the riots in Los Angeles, California, following the acquittal of the white police officers who had beaten black motorist Rodney King.

Under the host of Executive Orders that give the President dictatorial powers in the event of an emergency, the President can declare martial law, give FEMA the authority to take control of the economy and infrastructure of the United States, and suspend the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

Under Executive Order 12919 and DODD 3025.12, FEMA would be empowered to hold civilian detainees in concentration camps. It could also use the detainees as forced labor, which would be monitored by the Department of Defense, but supervised by the FBI.

There are a number of fully-prepared “detention centers” ready to receive large numbers of civilian detainees. Those established in the early 1980s included Fort Drum (NY), Fort Indian Town Gap (PA), Camp A. P. Hill (VA), Fort Benning (GA), Fort Stewart (GA), Eglin AFB (FL), Fort Chaffee (AR), Fort Huachuca (AZ), Oakdale (CA), Fort McCoy (WI), Batwood (PA), Florence (AZ), Wicksburg (AZ), El Rio (OK), Tooly Lake (CA), Maxwell AFB (AL), Camp Krome Detention Center (FL), Alderson (WV), Greenville (SC), Fort Jackson (SC), Avon Lake AFB (CA) and Elmendorf AFB (AK). Upon information and belief, many more detention facilities are located on active military bases that have been closed and converted to that purpose, and a remarkable number of them are located in Texas. Upon information and belief, the construction and expansion of concentration camps has accelerated greatly during the Bush II administration, with camps being constructed mostly in remote locations, in secret, and under tight security.

Although reports of FEMA concentration camps (and foreign troops training in remote national forest areas declared off-limits to the public, ostensibly to protect endangered species) are scoffed at by many as “urban legends,” many photographs of what certainly appear to be recently-constructed facilities have appeared on the Internet, and there are a large number of former U.S. military installations which, while inactive (some of them for years) for their traditional defense purposes, remain secured out of the public’s view.

Between 1976 and 1983 (from the latter part of the Ford Administration when George H. W. Bush was CIA Director, through the entire Carter Administration and the first three years of the Reagan Administration) the Argentine government conducted a “Dirty War,” which, upon information and belief, was known to and abetted by elements of the government of the United States. Approximately 340 secret detention centers, referred to by the Armed Forces as “Prisoner Assessment Centers,” formed an unofficial Argentine prison system that operated alongside the legal structure. The secret detention camps were intended to hold thousands of people who disappeared in Argentina on the orders of the military dictatorship. Thousands were illegally detained, tortured and murdered as supposed threats to “national security” and the “Western Christian way of life.” Although rationalized as a defense against terrorism of the extreme left, the “Dirty War” targeted dissidents, trade unionists, social reformers, human rights activists, nuns, priests, pacifists, psychologist, journalists, students, teachers, lawyers, actors, workers, housewives – thousands of persons not guilty of any crime whatsoever. Having countenanced such measures in allied countries, there is no reason to suppose that elements of the United States government involved in the Enterprise are incapable of themselves conducting themselves in the same manner toward U.S. residents.

A memo from C. Dean Rhody, Director of Resource Management for the Department of the Army, dated July 27, 1994, makes reference to a “Civilian Inmate Labor Oversight Committee” and procedures “to establish civilian inmate labor programs” and “civilian prison camps” on Army installations. The referenced plans have not emerged into public view, but former Congressman Henry Gonzalez of Texas admitted in an interview, “The truth is, yes, you do have these standby provisions . . . whereby you could, in the name of stopping terrorism . . . invoke the military and arrest Americans and put them in detention camps.”

Although the very notion of an “American gulag” might appear incredible, recent reporting by distinguished investigative reporter Seymour M. Hersh indicates that Donald H. Rumsfeld has, presumably with the knowledge and consent of President George W. Bush and Vice President Cheney, created a worldwide American “Gulag,” consisting of secret prisons whose operations and existence were largely or totally concealed from Congress and the public, in which detainees – arrested without formal charges, held incognito and without access to legal assistance -- are systematically tortured and abused. Reportedly, this Bush II Administration “Gulag” is so repellent to worldwide human rights norms that the CIA, not renowned for its delicacy concerning torture and other human rights abuses, is objecting to it.

Similarly, Secretary of State Colin Powell is publicly repudiating the doctrine reportedly set forth in a memo from White House counsel Alberto Gonzales a few months after 9-11, asserting that the attacks created a “new paradigm” under which the Geneva Convention’s limitations on the questioning of enemy prisoners had become “obsolete,” and even “quaint.” As a former military officer, Gen. Powell no doubt has concerns that America’s repudiation of the Geneva Conventions might lead to the abuse and torture of American military personnel taken prisoner in current and future conflicts. Conduct at Abu Ghraib, Mr. Gonzalez’ memo and other actions suggest that the Bush II Administration is prepared to scrap fundamental human rights norms overseas “because we can” -because-because there is no power forceful enough to constrain it as the world’s sole superpower. If so, preparations to scrap Constitutional rights at home are not difficult to believe.

The turnover of the federal government to FEMA under martial law will be a clear violation of Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution, which provides that “The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.” FEMA police-state rule is not a republican form of government. FEMA is not elected by the people to govern the country; it is a largely secret, black-budget operation set up by persons with suspect motives, now in the hands of the Enterprise.

The public needs to be made fully aware of the preparations for martial law (a euphemism for a “police state”) and large-scale detentions being made by FEMA, largely under the pretext of a “war on terrorism.” The United States did not need FEMA during World War I, World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War or, as events proved, the Cold War. Although Like the CIA, which combines legitimate intelligence-coordination activities with criminal “black ops,” FEMA’s activities may include a component of legitimate disaster-relief activities. However, following criticism of FEMA in the wake of its inept relief efforts following Hurricane Andrew, Congress found out that FEMA – long before 9-11 – was spending a dozen times more on secret bunkers and “black operations” than on disaster relief.

Further, the blurring of distinctions between the U.S. military and civilian law enforcement should be halted and reversed.⁴⁹ Under the Posse Comitatus Act (1879) it is unlawful to employ the Army for the purpose of executing laws, but after 9-11 the U.S. Army established a “Northern Command,” including the entire territory of the United States, under Gen. Ralph Eberhart. This is the same Ralph Eberhart who was in charge of NORAD on 9-11. If the 9-11 attacks were not carried out or approved by the Enterprise, acting as and through the United States government, General Eberhart would have been court-martialed for dereliction of duty.

C. DEFENDANTS DELIBERATELY CONCEALED THE FACT THAT THEY HAD AMPLE WARNINGS OF TERRORIST ATTACKS AND FAILED TO ACT ON THEM, A WAR ON TERROR BEING NECESSARY TO JUSTIFY THEIR POLITICAL AGENDA.

In unsworn May 2003 “testimony” to the Commission, Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta stated, “I don’t think we ever thought of an aircraft being used as a missile. We had no information of that nature at all.”

FAA Administrator Jane Garvey said before the Commission, “I was not aware of any information about [airplanes] being used as weapons that was credible.”⁵¹

The denials by Mr. Mineta and Ms. Garvey merely reiterated numerous Bush II Administration claims made since 9-11. For example, National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice stated in May 2002, “All this reporting about hijacking was about traditional hijacking.”⁵²

President Bush himself stated in a speech to NATO, “Never did anybody’s thought process about how to protect America (sic) did we ever think that the evildoers would fly not one, but four commercial aircraft into precious US targets – never.”⁵³

lies and were patently false, and known to be false when made. A review of the record and of information that has come into the public domain from government sources and “mainstream” (corporate, mainly pro-Bush II Administration) media makes plain that the aforementioned officials could not reasonably have believed them to be true when they made them.

Sibel Edmonds, a former translator for the FBI, has stated that she saw documents prior to 9-11 that belie claims that the Bush II Administration had no knowledge of the possibility that terrorists might use hijacked airliners against buildings. Edmonds has been and continues to be harassed by the FBI, and has been threatened with jail if she reveals more of what she knows. Plaintiff alleges on information and belief that the Bush II Administration has resorted to a rarely-used “State Secrets” privilege to hide the fact that it lied, over and over again, to the American people.

Edmonds has stated that the claim by Condoleezza Rice that there was no information suggesting the possibility of an al-Qaeda attack using aircraft is an “outrageous lie.” Edmonds told the Commission “details of specific investigation files, the specific dates, specific target information, specific managers in charge of the investigation. I gave them everything so that they could go back and follow up. This is not hearsay. These are things that are documented. These things can be established very easily.”

On July 6, 2004, a federal judge appointed by President George W. Bush, Reggie B. Walton, threw out Ms. Edmonds’ whistle-blower suit on “national security” grounds, accepting claims by Ashcroft and a senior FBI official that allowing publication of Edmonds’ claims could expose intelligence-gathering methods, and disrupt diplomatic relations with foreign governments. According to Edmonds, Judge Walton dismissed her lawsuit without hearing from her attorneys, although reportedly he met at least twice with government lawyers. Judge Walton himself admitted to some “consternation” that he was, as he admitted, dismissing a lawsuit solely on the say-so of the executive branch, before any of the facts could be heard, a “draconian” measure.⁵⁷ So much for the avoidance of ex parte communications, the separation of powers, and the even-handedness and independence of the federal judiciary in post-9-11 America.

Historically, there have been many attacks using airplanes as weapons; an obvious example being the “kamikaze” strikes by Japanese pilots on Allied ships during World War II. In 1994, there were three separate attempts to hijack airplanes and fly them into buildings. A disgruntled Federal Express worker tried to crash a DC-10 into a company building in Memphis, Tennessee, but was overpowered by the crew. Also in 1994, a lone pilot crashed a small plane onto the White House grounds, just missing President Clinton’s bedroom. That same year, an Air France flight was hijacked by a terrorist group said to be linked to al-Qaeda, with the aim of flying it into the Eiffel Tower. French Special Forces prevented the strike by storming the plane while it was refueling.

In January 1995, acclaimed 9-11 “mastermind” Khalid Shaikh Mohammed and others reportedly were within weeks of carrying out a massive plot named “Operation Bojinka,” when Philippine authorities foiled them. This plot involved the simultaneous bombing of up to a dozen passenger airliners flying over the Pacific Ocean. Note that, in some variations of this plan, planes were to be hijacked and flown into “key structures” in the United States. According to a U.S. intelligence analysis shortly after the plot was uncovered, “The World Trade Center, the White House, the Pentagon, the Transamerica Tower, and the Sears Tower were among the prominent structures that had been identified in the plans that we had decoded.”

One would-be “Bojinka” pilot, Abdul Hakim Murad (who learned to fly in U.S. flight schools) confessed that his role was to crash a plane into CIA headquarters.⁶¹ 177. Details of Operation Bojinka were widely known within the U.S. government; Yet Khalid Shaikh Mohammed escaped capture, and later stated that the 9-11 attacks were essentially a refinement and resurrection of Operation Bojinka.⁶² In 1997 the intelligence agency of Qatar, where Mohammed had been hiding, told the U.S. that Mohammed was once again planning “to hijack some planes.” In June 2001, U.S. intelligence additionally learned that Mohammed was interested in “sending terrorists to the United States” and was planning to assist their activities there.

Not only did the Bush II Administration have detailed forewarnings about probable attempts to use commercial airplanes as weapons to carry out mass-casualty attacks against U.S. landmarks, but astonishingly — given the ineptitude of the response to actual events on 9-11 — the government carried out exercises that were supposedly intended to enable it to counter attempts to carry out such attacks, and was carrying out such an exercise on the very morning of September 11, 2001.

Earlier, on October 24-26, 2000, Pentagon officials carried out a “detailed” emergency drill, based on the crashing of an airliner into the Pentagon.⁶⁵ In other words, incredibly, in repeated statements Condoleezza Rice and other high government officials feigned surprise at the occurrence of a scenario identical to that against which the Pentagon had held detailed practice drills — the flying of an airplane into the Pentagon, obviously a target of great objective and symbolic value to potential terrorists or to enemies of the United States. Shortly after 9-11, the Enterprise caused to be “scrubbed” from the internet website of the Military District of Washington an article concerning the Pentagon’s exercise simulating the crash of an airplane into the Pentagon conducted on from October 24-26, 2000. However, a copy of that article was “mirrored” by researchers, and is annexed to this Complaint as Exhibit “A”. As may be seen from the article, attributed to Dennis Ryan of the Military District of Washington News Service, the “Pentagon Mass Casualties Exercise” of October 24-26, 2000 was conducted from the conference room of the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Jake Burrell, identified as a member of the Pentagon Emergency Management Team, is quoted and said to have coordinated similar exercises for four years.

US Medicine magazine reported that in May 2001, “[Department of Defense] medical personnel had been trained” to respond to “an ersatz guided missile in the form of a hijacked 757 airliner” crashing into the Pentagon.

On June 1-2, 2001, NORAD sponsored a multi-agency planning exercise named “Amalgam Virgo 01,” which involved the hypothetical scenario of a cruise missile launched by “a rogue [government] or somebody” from a barge off the East Coast. None other than Osama bin Laden was pictured on the cover of the proposal for the exercise. The attacks of 9-11 occurred, of course, while the sun was in the astrological sign of Virgo, in the year “01.”

Prior to 9-11, a follow-up program to “Amalgam Virgo” was planned, to involve a simultaneous hijacking scenario.

Additionally, at some time prior to 9-11, NORAD conducted another drill, the complete details of which have not been made public, except that it involved a plane hijacked from a foreign airport slamming into a highly visible target within the United States. Perhaps most astonishing of all is that, on the very morning of 9-11, “[John] Fulton and his team at the CIA were running a pre-planned simulation to explore the emergency response issues that would be created if a plane were to strike a building.”⁷⁰ Fulton’s team was part of the National Reconnaissance Office, which “operates many of the nation’s spy satellites. It draws its personnel from the military and the CIA.” The simulation was to start at 9:00 A.M., just four miles from where one of the real hijacked planes had just taken off.

Also on 9-11, NORAD was conducting a periodic war game, this one known as “Vigilant Guardian.” Details have not been made public, but it is known that the scenario was supposed to test “an imaginary crisis to North American Air Defense outposts nationwide.” According to one NORAD employee, “everybody” at NORAD initially thought that the real hijackings on 9-11 were part of the exercise. If top-level U.S. government personnel, civilian and military, were complicit in the attacks, then having a war game in progress, involving a scenario very much like what actually transpired on 9-11, was an ingenious way to confound first responders, and delay an effective response to the attacks. If the U.S. government was not affirmatively complicit in the attacks, then the concurrent “Vigilant Guardian” and other exercises are among the impossible number of supposed 9-11 "coincidences," and the torpor and ineffectiveness of the defense response to the hijackings on 9-11 is all the more astounding.

Further belying the claim that the defendants "never thought of an aircraft being used as a missile" are a litany of warnings of that nature, going back at least to 1996. In January 1996, U.S. intelligence received information concerning a planned suicide attack by individuals allegedly connected with al-Qaeda. They wanted to fly from Afghanistan to the U.S., and crash into the White House. In October 1996, an Iranian plot to hijack a Japanese plane over Israel and crash it into Tel Aviv was exposed.

On November 24, 1996, several Ethiopians took over a passenger airliner, and let it run out of fuel. Hijackers fought with the pilot as the hijackers tried to steer the plane into a resort on a Comoros Islands beach, but seconds before reaching the resort, the pilot was able to crash the plane into shallow waters about 500 yards short of the resort. 123 of 175 passengers and crewmembers died.

In August 1998, a CIA intelligence report asserted that Arab terrorists were planning to fly a bomb-laden aircraft from a foreign country into the World Trade Center. Later, other intelligence information connected this group to al-Qaeda.

In September 1998, information given to U.S. intelligence suggested that al-Qaeda's next operation might involve crashing an aircraft loaded with explosives into a U.S. airport.

In November 1998, the U.S. learned that a Turkish group, cooperating with al-Qaeda, planned to crash an airplane packed with explosives into a famous tomb during a government ceremony. They were arrested before they could carry out the plot.⁷⁸ ¹⁹¹ In 1999, an Egyptian pilot flew a passenger airliner into the ocean, killing everyone on board reportedly acting on instructions from Osama bin Laden met in October 2000 to discuss this plot.

In July 2001, President Bush attended the G-8 Summit in Genoa, Italy. The Egyptian government warned that al-Qaeda planned to assassinate President Bush and other heads of state, using "an airplane stuffed with explosives."⁸¹ U.S. intelligence also learned of this plan to attack the G-8 Summit from Russia and other sources. The government surrounded the summit with antiaircraft guns, kept fighters in the air, and closed off local airspace to all planes. Reports of plans to attack the July 2001 G-8 Summit were taken so seriously that President Bush stayed overnight on an aircraft carrier offshore. The planned attack was not attempted; possibly because the plot was reported in the media before the summit began. 192. Numerous foreign governments warned the U.S. that it was likely to be attacked by airplanes used as weapons. In 1999, the British warned that al-Qaeda had plans to use “commercial aircraft” in “unconventional ways, possibly as flying bombs.”⁸⁶

In early August 2001 — the month preceding 9-11 — Britain gave a categorical warning that the U.S. should expect multiple airline hijackings. This warning was passed on to President Bush a short time later.

In June 2001, Germany warned that Middle Eastern terrorists were planning to hijack commercial aircraft and to use them as weapons to attack “American and Israeli symbols, which stand out.”

In August 2001, Russia’s President Putin warned the U.S. that suicide pilots were training for attacks on U.S. targets.

In late July 2001, “Egyptian Intelligence [learned] . . . from one of its operatives in Afghanistan that 20 al-Qaeda members had slipped into the U.S. and four of them had received flight training on Cessnas. To the Egyptians, pilots of small planes didn’t sound terribly alarming, but they passed on the message to the CIA anyway, fully expecting Washington to request information. The request never came.”

Around the end of August 2001, Egyptian intelligence followed up with a warning that al-Qaeda was in the advanced stages of executing a significant operation against an American target, probably within the U.S.

The government of Jordan passed on the message that a major attack, code named the “Big Wedding,” was planned inside the U.S., and that aircraft would be used.⁹² Later, “Big Wedding” was claimed to be al-Qaeda’s secret code name for the 9-11 attacks.⁹³

Reportedly, in mid-August 2001, the government of Israel warned that between 50 and 200 al-Qaeda terrorists had slipped into the U.S., and were planning an imminent, “major Frankfurter Algemeine Zeitung, 09/11/2001, Washington Post, 09/14/2001, Fox News, assault on the United States.” They said it was likely to be on a “large scale target.” The CIA has denied it received this warning.

On August 23, 2001, the government of Israel even gave the CIA a list of 19 terrorists within the U.S. who were about to stage an attack. This list is known to contain the names of at least four of the alleged hijackers of 9-11: Nawaf Alhamzi, Khalid Almihdhar, Marwan Alshehhi and Mohamed Atta.

Apparently, Israeli intelligence had for months prior to September 2001 monitored at least some of the alleged 9-11 hijackers. For example, beginning in December 2002, agents took up residence a few blocks from Marwan Alshehhi and Mohamed Atta, and observed them “around the clock.”

In the autumn of 1998, U.S. intelligence heard of an al-Qaeda plot that involved aircraft in the New York City and Washington, D.C. areas.⁹⁷ At about the same time, Osama bin Laden declared a worldwide fatwa, a religious call to arms, against U.S. targets and American citizens anywhere in the world. By December 1998, a U.S. intelligence assessment stated, “Multiple reports indicate bin Laden is keenly interested in striking the U.S. on its own soil.” Later in December 1998, a Time Magazine cover story, entitled “The Hunt for Osama,” reported that intelligence sources had “evidence that bin Laden may be planning his boldest move yet – a strike on Washington or possibly New York City...”

In July 1999 an agent of Pakistan’s intelligence service, in the United States to buy illegal weapons for al-Qaeda and the Taliban in Afghanistan, pointed to the World Trade Center and stated, “Those towers are coming down.” An FBI informant recorded him saying this and similar threats against the World Trade Center on two other occasions. This information reached higher officials, including the office of Senator Bob Graham, who was chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

In September 1999, U.S. intelligence learned of a planned al-Qaeda attack in the United States, possibly against landmarks in California and New York City.¹⁰¹ Two months later, in December 1999, an al-Qaeda bomb attack on the Los Angeles International Airport was narrowly averted. Ahmed Ressam was arrested by an alert Washington State border guard, who noticed his nervousness. Documents found with Ressam led to co-conspirators in New York, Boston and Seattle. Enough people were arrested to prevent a series of “Y2K” attacks planned for December 31, 1999. National Security Council Chief of Counter terrorism Richard Clarke later said that, as a result, “I think a lot of the FBI leadership for the first time realized that . . . there probably were al-Qaeda people in the United States.”¹⁰³

In April 2000, a man walked into the FBI office in Newark, New Jersey, and claimed he had received hijacking training in an al-Qaeda camp in Pakistan. He also stated that he was supposed to meet five or six other individuals in the U.S. and participate in the hijacking.

Pilots in the hijacking team would either fly the plane to Afghanistan or blow it up. This individual passed an FBI polygraph, but the FBI did not verify his story, or identify his contacts in the U.S.

Until just a few months before 9-11, U.S. officials were negotiating with the Taliban for rights to construct a pipeline across Afghani territory, and the U.S. was supplying financial aid to the Taliban regime. Late in July 2001, Wakil Ahmed Mattawakil, the foreign minister for the Taliban, tried to warn the U.S. that al-Qaeda was planning a “huge attack” on targets inside America. The attack was imminent, and would kill thousands. Muttawakil’s message was given to U.S. officials, although it remains a secret just how high within the Bush II Administration this warning went. Then, according to a CIA official, “There was something specific in early August that said to us that [Osama bin Laden] was determined in striking on U.S. soil.”

“Shortly before” 9-11, reportedly there was even an intercept of a conversation between Osama bin Laden and an associate, talking about an incident to take place in the U.S. on or about 9-11, and its implications.

Denials to the contrary, for years prior to 9-11 government experts had considered the use of an airplane as a weapon to attack a national landmark. For example, in 1993, an expert panel commissioned by the Pentagon suggested that very possibility. The panel was not allowed to mention this in its published report. However, in 1994, one of the participants in Senate Intelligence Committee, 09/18/2002. See Julie Hyland, “Further Evidence that FBI Was Informed of 9/11 Terror Attacks,” www.WSWS.org, 6/10/2004.

The Independent, 09/07/2002, Reuters, 09/07/2002. More than two years after the attacks, it is incomprehensible that disclosure as to which high-level officials learned of this warning poses any danger to lives or property. This information is held in secret to protect members of the Enterprise, not the American public. the Pentagon study wrote in Futurist magazine, “Targets such as the World Trade Center not only provide the requisite casualties but, because of their symbolic nature, provide more bang for the buck. In order to maximize their odds for success, terrorist groups will likely consider mounting multiple, simultaneous operations with the aim of overtaking a government’s ability to respond, as well as demonstrating their professionalism and reach.”¹⁰⁹

The popular author Tom Clancy published a novel in 1994, in which terrorists tried to destroy the U.S. Capitol by crashing a radio-controlled airplane into it. In a Time magazine cover story the next year, Senator Sam Nunn referred to Clancy’s idea and said it was not “farfetched.”

During every quadrennial Olympic games going back to 1972, security officials have specifically attempted to prevent terrorists from crashing airplanes into crowded stadiums.

During the 1996 Olympic games held in Atlanta, Georgia, airplanes were banned from over flying Olympic venues, and helicopters and jets were deployed to intercept suspicious aircraft approaching too near. At the 2000 Olympics in Sydney, Australia, six planes were kept in the sky at all times to intercept any aircraft. Officials considered al-Qaeda the foremost threat, and the idea of a “fully loaded, fueled airliner crashing into the opening ceremony” was one of their greatest fears.

In September 1999, a report by a group advising the president and U.S. intelligence on emerging threats contained the following ideas: “Al-Qaeda’s expected retaliation for the U.S. Morning Herald, 09/20/2001 cruise missile attack . . . could take several forms of terrorist attack in the nation’s capital. Al- Qaeda could detonate a Chechen-type building-buster bomb at a federal building . . . Suicide bomber(s) belonging to al-Qaeda’s martyrdom Battalion could crash-land an aircraft packed with high explosives (C-4 and Semtex) into the Pentagon, the headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) or the White House. . . . Whatever form an attack may take, bin Laden will most likely retaliate in a spectacular way.”¹¹⁴ The Bush II Administration later claimed to have never heard of this publicly released report until after 9-11, even though the New York Times said the report was “widely shared within the government.”¹¹⁵ On the day that President George W. Bush received the briefing entitled “bin Laden to Strike in US” (August 6, 2001), he “broke off from work early and spent most of the day fishing.”¹¹⁶ In the moments that followed his learning of the attacks on the morning of 9-11 itself, the Commander-in-Chief also displayed astonishing nonchalance. Plaintiff asks: Was this because President Bush knew that the planned attacks had been co-opted if not indeed planned and carried out by members of the Enterprise, that they would inure to the advantage of the Enterprise, and would constitute the “catastrophic and catalyzing event for” for which the PNAC had expressed such fervent hope?

While many additional instances could be cited, from the foregoing it should be clear that government claims that the 9-11 attacks were not foreseen, and could not have been foreseen or prevented, were false and were known to be false when made. Not surprisingly, the Bush II Administration has refused to allow many of the findings of the Congressional inquiry into 9-11 to be made public, and has stubbornly — and, to date, successfully — prevented any genuine investigation into 9-11.¹¹⁷

The Bush II Administration has even sought to have material already in the public domain “reclassified.” The Congressional inquiry was not allowed to reveal which warnings reached which officials. Its final report, released in July 2003, withheld 28 pages of critical information. Until it was leaked to the press in May 2002, the Bush II Administration withheld from the public the title of the CIA’s daily briefing to President Bush on August 6, 2001: “Bin Laden Determined to Strike in U.S.”

Given the number and the specificity of the warnings we now know to have reached the U.S. government prior to 9-11, the response of patriotic officials, mindful that their paramount duty is the protection of the U.S. population and U.S. territory, would have been to take decisive steps to prevent the hijacking of commercial airliners and the use of such planes as weapons to strike high-profile targets. But because the Enterprise affirmatively wished for a “new Pearl Harbor,” a “catastrophic and catalyzing event” that would “shock and awe” the public and Congress into giving the Bush II Administration and the Enterprise carte blanche to wage war for empire and for oil, precisely as advocated by Brzezinski and the Project for the New American Century in their polemics, the government did nothing to prevent the attacks or to thwart them as they unfolded on 9-11. The lack of special preventive measures has been admitted: Transportation Secretary Mineta was asked at the May 2003 hearing before the Commission, “Did this higher level of [terrorist] chatter...result in any action across the government? I take it your answer is no.” Mr. Mineta replied, “That’s correct.” Plaintiff asks: how is it that the officials, civilian and military, who permitted these attacks to occur, remain in their jobs (and, in some instances, have been promoted)? Unless the media and Congress have been corrupted or intimidated, unless nearly all Americans fear for their careers if not indeed their lives in posing the questions posed by this complaint, how could it be that to date, no one has been held to account for what, in the most indulgent possible view, involved (1) repeated warnings; (2) no preventive measures by those responsible, including many of the defendants here; (3) mass casualty attacks, precisely as predicted, with almost 3,000 deaths resulting; (4) an utterly impotent response on the day of the attacks itself; and (5) repeated lies by President Bush and other senior officials, claiming that the warnings had not happened?

On the day that President George W. Bush received the briefing entitled “bin Laden to Strike in US” (August 6, 2001), he “broke off from work early and spent most of the day fishing.”¹²⁰ In the moments that followed his learning of the attacks on the morning of 9-11 itself, the Commander-in-Chief also displayed astonished nonchalance. Plaintiff asks: Was this because President Bush knew that the planned attacks had been co-opted if not indeed planned and carried out by members of the Enterprise, that they would inure to the advantage of the Enterprise, and would constitute the “catastrophic and catalyzing event” for which the PNAC had expressed such fervent hope?

D. DEFENDANTS CONSPIRED TO AND DID ALLOW THE ATTACKS TO HAPPEN BY DELAYING MILITARY INTERCEPTION OF THE HIJACKED PLANES.
WHETHER BY MULTIPLE CONCURRENT WAR GAMES OR ATTACK SIMULATIONS OR BY AN UNPRECEDENTED “GROUND STOP,” THE EVIDENCE SHOWS THAT THE AIR FORCE AND AIR NATIONAL GUARD WERE CAUSED TO “STAND DOWN” AS THE 9-11 HIJACKINGS BECAME KNOWN, AND THAT MOST OR ALL OF THE HIJACKED AIRCRAFT COULD HAVE BEEN INTERCEPTED BY A TIMELY RESPONSE.

People tend to excuse the military for not promptly responding to the attacks of 9-11 because they have been led to believe that the only military alternative was to shoot down planes carrying civilian passengers; but this is not the case. Standard military procedure when a plane deviates off course (something air controllers know immediately) is to send up fighter planes to locate the “lost” plane, fly beside it, peer into the windows to see what is going on, and try to guide it to safety. None of this was done with any of the four hijacked planes, despite ample time in each case. In the case of Flight 77, the military had nearly an hour to do it; yet fighters were never sent up to accompany or communicate with the airliner before it crashed into the Pentagon.

Despite all of the warnings and the obvious fact that Washington, D.C., as the nation’s capital, and New York City, its most populous city and a primary media and financial center, would be at the top of the list for any intended terrorist attack, officially as of 9-11 there were only two bases in the northeastern U.S. that were part of NORAD’s defensive system. One was Otis Air National Guard Base on Cape Cod, about 188 miles distant from New York City. The other was Langley Air Force Base near Norfolk, Virginia, about 129 miles distant from Washington, D.C.

During the Cold War, the U.S. had literally thousands of fighters on alert. By 9-11, the number was supposedly reduced to only fourteen in the entire continental U.S.¹²² However, internet web pages for a number of Air National Guard units belie this, as the same boasted of BBC, 08/29/02. Note that Langley, Virginia is where the headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency is located. five minute alert status, meaning that from the moment they were ordered into the air, they could be airborne within five minutes. These websites used terms like “combat ready,” “five minute alert,” “highest state of readiness” and so on. Indeed, the web site for Andrews Air Force Base, about ten miles from Washington, D.C., stated that it hosted two “combat ready” squadrons, “capable and ready response forces for the District of Columbia in the event of a natural disaster or civil emergency.” The District of Columbia Air National Guard – also stationed at Andrews – claimed that its mission was “to provide combat units in the highest possible state of readiness.” On September 12, 2001 -- as the Enterprise made haste to cover up that it had caused the U.S. military air defense system to “stand down,” permitting the 9-11 attacks to be carried out – both websites were sanitized, with phrases suggesting quick response capability being expurgated.

Upon information and belief, F-15 fighters, with pilots onboard and ready to take off, were held on the tarmac at Otis AFB awaiting authorization to take off and to intercept one or both of the hijacked planes that were headed for New York. Plaintiff is informed and believes that the squadron was intentionally delayed by senior officials, with the knowledge and consent, express or implied, of defendants including but not limited to George H. W. Bush, George W. Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, Rice, Myers, Rumsfeld, and Eberhart, for not less than fifteen minutes, whereupon the squadron leader took off on his own initiative.

Why were the fighters delayed? As of sunrise on the East Coast on 9-11, NORAD was taking part in “Vigilant Guardian,” the war game that had begun a few days before.¹²⁴ Because of this, NORAD was fully staffed and alert, with senior officers manning stations DC Military website, DCANG Home Page [before and after the changes made on 9/12/2001]. Bases at Westfield, Massachusetts, Syracuse, New York and Hartford, Connecticut also promised high readiness status, and these bases would have been in a good position to defend the skies on 9-11. Newhouse News, 1/25/2002, Ottawa Citizen, 9/11/2002, Code One Magazine, 1/2002, throughout the U.S. when the first real-life hijacking was reported.¹²⁵ Because of the war game, NORAD “had extra fighter planes on alert.”¹²⁶ Colonel Robert Marr, in charge of NORAD’s northeastern U.S. sector, said “We had the fighters with a little more gas on board. A few more weapons on board.” Why were these fighter planes not immediately “scrambled” to intercept the off-course airliners? Was it because the “exercise” was specifically scheduled for that day as a cover, deterring a prompt response with the allegation that it was “only an exercise?”

The simultaneous occurrence of the two events could not have been mere coincidence; and without their simultaneous occurrence, the hijacking attempt would have failed. How did the hijackers know of the exercise? Plaintiff submits that the defendants were and could only have been complicit in the deed.

1. FLIGHT 11 (NORTH TOWER WTC) COULD HAVE BEEN BUT WAS NOT INTERCEPTED.

Edited transcripts of cockpit transmissions from Flight 11 indicate that the last routine communication with Boston air traffic control was at 8:13:47 A.M.¹²⁸ The loss of communications was quickly noticed; flight controllers can be heard discussing it at 8:15. Furthermore, “just moments” after radio contact was lost, Flight 11’s transponder was turned off as well. The transponder identifies the jet on the air traffic controller’s screen, gives its exact location and altitude, and permits an emergency hijack code to be sent. Boston air traffic manager Glenn Michael later said, “We considered [Flight 11] at that time to be a possible hijacking.”

Flight 11’s pilot, Captain John Ogonowski, did not press the Emergency Locator Transmitter button, nor did the pilots of Flights 77 and 93; it has been surmised that this was because hijackers were already in the cockpits (for example, as guest pilots sitting in the cockpits’ extra seats) when the hijackings began.¹³¹ Captain Ogonowski is believed however to have turned the “talk-back” button off and on, enabling flight controllers to hear some of what was being said, and also enabling them to learn that something was wrong. This continued intermittently most of the way to New York, until about 8:38 a.m.

Flight controllers suspected something was wrong, but may have been confused because Flight 11’s ELT button had not been activated. At 8:20 a.m., however, Flight 11 stopped transmitting its IFF (“Identify Friend or Foe”) beacon signal¹³³ and the plane was clearly off course by that time. As a result, at “about 8:20” Boston flight control decided that Flight 11 had probably been hijacked.¹³⁴ Beginning at 8:24:38, Boston flight controllers heard what they understood to be the hijackers in Flight 11’s cockpit, broadcasting a message to the passengers: “We have some planes. Just stay quiet and you will be OK. We are returning to the airport.” A flight controller responded, “Who’s trying to call me?” The apparent hijacker continued, “Everything will be OK. If you try to make any moves you’ll endanger yourself and the airplane. Just stay quiet.”¹³⁵ A Boston flight controller later said that, immediately after hearing this voice, “he knew right then that he was working a hijack.”

At 8:25 exactly, Boston flight control notified other flight control centers of the apparent hijacking of Flight 11. This was twenty-one minutes before the impact at the World Trade Center North Tower. Unbelievably, according to NORAD, it was not told of the hijacking until 8:40 A.M. — fifteen minutes after other flight control centers were notified that Flight 11 had been hijacked, and twenty minutes from the shutoff of Flight 11's IFF beacon, which gave rise to suspicions that it had been hijacked.

Thus, the nation's air defense system was somehow not working as from (at the latest) 8:20 A.M. on 9-11. FAA regulations in force at the time state, "Consider that an aircraft emergency exists . . . when . . . there is unexpected loss of radar contact with any aircraft." The regulations state further, "If . . . you are in doubt that a situation constitutes an emergency or potential emergency, handle it as though it were an emergency."¹³⁸

According to an MSNBC report, a significant course deviation is "considered a real emergency, like a police car screeching down a highway at 100 miles an hour," and normally leads to fighters being quickly dispatched to see what the problem might be.¹³⁹ However, for reasons as yet unexplained, on 9-11, "There doesn't seem to have been alarm bells going off . . . There's a gap there that will have to be investigated."

This fifteen-minute gap from 8:25 to 8:40 is critical, since if NORAD had taken five minutes to process the alarm and scramble fighters at Otis AFB, the pilots had taken an additional five minutes to get aloft, and they had traveled the approximately 188 miles to Manhattan at slightly better than half of their F-15 fighters' top rated speed of 1875 mph, fighters could have been in New York City before the North Tower was struck at 8:46.¹⁴¹ e. Those who perished in the strike and the collapse of the North Tower, thus might have been spared. Even if fighters from Otis could not have arrived in New York in time to intercept Flight 11, if they had been aware at 8:25 a.m. that Flight 11 was hijacked and was off course heading in the direction of New York City, fighters could have been scrambled before Flight 175 is alleged to have struck the South Tower of the World Trade Center at 9:03 a.m.¹⁴³ Allowing five minutes from 8:25 to 8:30) for NORAD to confirm and forward the information to Otis, and six minutes (from 8:30 to 8:36) for the pilots to get aloft, they would have had 27 minutes to cover the 188 miles from Otis to New York City. That would have required the F-15s, which have a top speed According to NORAD, fighters from Otis can reach New York City in 10 to 12 minutes (Cape Cod Times, 09/16/2001). Although NORAD later claimed that it could take as long as fifteen minutes to get fighters airborne as of 9-11 (NORAD Testimony, 05/23/2003, Calgary Herald, 10/13/2001) it claimed that the fighters from Otis took only six minutes to get ready and take off on 9-11, and not the maximum 15 (NORAD, 09/18/2001). Some independent researchers dispute that the aircraft that struck the North Tower, South Tower and Pentagon were in fact Flights 11, 175 and 77 respectively. Some speculate that passengers embarking on those flights on the morning of 9-11 were taken elsewhere to be killed (e.g., to secret airfields, perhaps at inactive military bases, or over the Atlantic Ocean). The possibility that planes were substituted for those identified as Flights 11, 175 and 77 seems consistent with the otherwise mysterious turning off of each of the planes' transponders. The evidence for the aircraft that struck the buildings being other than as publicly identified seems especially strong as to Flight 77, but plaintiff does not have information sufficient to adopt a definitive view on these questions.

Many published news reports, timelines, etc. give the hour of the South Tower impact as 9:03 A.M. Based on seismic data, Plaintiff believes the crash to have occurred a few seconds earlier, at 9:02:56, but shehe does not believe the difference to be critical, and therefore uses the approximate and (believed) exact times interchangeably of 1875 mph, to travel at an average speed slightly in excess of 6.96 miles per minute – or about 417 mph, an almost leisurely, subsonic speed for that aircraft.

Upon information and belief, as of the morning of 9-11, the commander on duty at Otis AFB was Brig. Gen. George W. Keefe ("Keefe"). Upon information and belief, fighters were not scrambled from Otis AFB for at least 30 minutes after NORAD knew or ought to have known that Flight 11 had been hijacked. [Upon information and belief, fighters were not scrambled from Otis AFB for at least 30 minutes after NORAD knew or ought to have known that Flight 11 had been hijacked.

Upon information and belief, F-15 fighters, with pilots onboard and ready to take off, were held on the tarmac at Otis AFB awaiting authorization to take off and to intercept one or both of the hijacked planes that were headed for New York. Plaintiff is informed and believes that the squadron was intentionally delayed by senior officials, with the knowledge and consent, express or implied, of defendants including but not limited to George H. W. Bush, George W. Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, Rice, Myers, Rumsfeld, and Eberhart, for not less than fifteen minutes, whereupon the squadron leader took off on his own initiative.

Upon information and belief, U.S. Military and/or National Guard personnel, present on 9-11 at Otis AFB and/or at nearby Camp Edwards, who witnessed the long delay between the appearance of the F-15 fighters on the tarmac, and their takeoff, reported the foregoing allegations to Military Intelligence.

Upon information and belief, one or more U.S. Military and/or National Guard personnel, with long record(s) of honorable service, were retaliated against for having imparted the foregoing facts to Military Intelligence.

Upon information and belief, the "official" NORAD account that it was not notified of the hijacking of Flight 11 until 8:40 A.M. on 9-11 is false. ABC News reported that the FAA notified NORAD employee Lt. Col. Dawne Deskins at 8:31 A.M., not 8:40.¹⁴⁴ A different version of the ABC News report has it that “Shortly after 8:30 A.M., behind the scenes, word of a possible hijacking reached various stations of NORAD.”¹⁴⁵ It is difficult to believe that the FAA would have delayed so long in informing NORAD of the diversion of Flight 11. And, so far as has been made public, no air traffic control or FAA employees have been fired, suspended, reprimanded or otherwise disciplined for failure to give timely notice to NORAD on 9-11.

Other, critical aspects of the NORAD account of its actions on 9-11 cannot withstand scrutiny. NORAD’s story was set forth in a press release on September 18, 2001. It claimed that after being told of the hijacking of Flight 11 at 8:40 A.M. on 9-11, it waited six minutes to give the scramble order to the pilots at Otis. Then, it took the pilots an additional 6 minutes to take off. Thus, according to NORAD, two fighter planes, F-15s, left Otis at 9:52 A.M., headed toward New York.¹⁴⁶ A NORAD commander claimed the planes were stocked with extra fuel.¹⁴⁷ One of the Otis pilots, Lt. Col. Timothy Duffy, stated that he flew “fullblower,” which is to say at top speed, all the way.¹⁴⁸ An F-15 can travel over 1875 MPH. Lt. Col. Duffy later said that he flew at supersonic speeds, headed for the airspace over Kennedy Airport in New York City.¹⁵⁰ Maj. Gen. Larry Arnold stated that the Otis pilots headed straight for New York City, at about 1100 to 1200 MPH.¹⁵¹ Maj. Gen. Paul Weaver, director of the Air National Guard, claimed that the Otis pilots headed toward New York “like a scalded ape” but could not arrive in time to prevent the South Tower from being struck at 9:03 A.M.

The complete untruth and cynicism of these statements is confirmed by simple arithmetic. To cover 188 miles in 11 minutes, the F-15s would have had to travel at an average speed of 17.09 miles per minute, or 1,025.45 MPH. Even if the F-15’s full listed maximum speed of 1,875 MPH may be unattainable given the complement of munitions, etc. normally carried, 1,025 MPH still falls woefully short of “full blower.” Thus, even leaving Otis as late as 8:52 A.M., it is inexplicable that the F-15s failed to reach New York before 9:03 A.M.

NORAD cannot reconcile its “scalded ape,” “full-blower” claims with its story that it took the F-15s from Otis nineteen minutes to reach New York City.¹⁵³ Traveling 188 miles in 19 minutes means that these 1875 MPH fighters responded to this crisis flying at an average speed of about 594 MPH, a distinctly subsonic speed, a fraction of the F-15’s capabilities, and barely faster than the passenger airliner itself.

2. FLIGHT 175 COULD HAVE BEEN BUT WAS NOT INTERCEPTED.

Upon information and belief, Flight 175 took off from Boston Logan Airport at 8:16 A.M. Its last routine communication occurred four seconds before 8:42. One minute later, a Boston flight controller said of Flight 175, “He’s off about 9 o’clock and about 20 miles looks like he’s heading southbound but there’s no transponder no nothing and no one’s talking to him.” By this time, notifying NORAD of the hijacking of Flight 175 was redundant, because NORAD technicians had their headsets linked to Boston flight control to hear about Flight 11, and thus learned about Flight 175 at the same time Boston did.¹⁵⁶ NORAD’s timeline, in its press release of September 18, 2001, admitted that it received notice about Flight 175 at 8:43 A.M. Any doubt that Flight 175 had been hijacked ought to have evaporated at 8:44:05, at which time Boston (with NORAD listening in) was told by a nearby airliner that it had heard Flight 175’s Emergency Locator Transmitter go off.¹⁵⁸

However, “testifying” (although not under oath) before the Commission on May 22, 2003, a NORAD spokesman made the bizarre claims (1) that NORAD learned only at 9:05 A.M. from the FAA of the “possible” hijacking of Flight 175, and (2) that Flight 175’s transponder was never turned off.¹⁵⁹ As shown, NORAD was listening in at 8:43 A.M. when Boston was told that Flight 175’s radio had been cut off, the transponder had been turned off, and the plane was seriously off course.

Flight 175’s transponder, after being off briefly, was turned on again, but changed to a signal not designated for any plane on that day.¹⁶¹ This enabled controllers to track Flight 175 easily throughout the final 20 minutes before the South Tower was struck at 9:02:56 A.M. Indeed, neither Flight 11 nor Flight 175 was at any time lost to Boston flight control’s radar. When Flight 11’s transponder was turned off at 8:14 A.M., that only prevented Boston from determining the plane’s exact altitude, but it could still be tracked using primary radar. At some point before the plane turned south toward New York City at 8:28 A.M., the FAA had tagged Flight 11’s radar dot for easy visibility, and at American Airlines headquarters, “all eyes watched as the plane headed south.”¹⁶⁴ Boston flight controller Mark Hodgkins later said that he had watched Flight 11 “all the way down.”¹⁶⁵ Accordingly, from at least 8:28 A.M. until the North Tower (8:46 A.M.) and South Tower (9:03 A.M.) impacts, a number of persons watched as the planes diverged from their flight paths, and headed inexorably toward New York.

“Several minutes” after the first (North Tower) impact at 8:46 A.M., Boston flight control reported to NORAD that it was Flight 11 that had crashed into the North Tower.¹⁶⁶ “Within minutes” of the first impact at 8:46 A.M., two open telephone conference calls were established among the FAA, NORAD, the Secret Service, and a number of other government agencies. Indeed, according to multiple news sources, even President Bush and Vice President Cheney were occasionally overheard on these open lines.¹⁶⁸

Based on the foregoing, it defies belief that, as NORAD claimed in testimony before the Commission on May 23, 2003, it was not notified of Flight 11 striking the North Tower of the World Trade Center until 9:05 A.M.

No less unbelievable is NORAD's claim that it learned that Flight 175 had "possibly" been hijacked only two minutes after the impact at the South Tower of the World Trade Center.

NORAD, plainly, cannot keep its lies straight, and has acted throughout like an entity that, while having much to hide, is supremely confident of its impunity and that it will never have to account for its dereliction of duty, and its multiple falsehoods concerning the same. Indeed, its entire story of having scrambled planes first from Otis and, later, from Langley may well be a fabrication, intended to cover that — plaintiff alleges due to the effective equivalent of a "Stand Down" order, given with the knowledge and approval of Defendants including, at least, all of President George W. Bush, ex-president and presidential advisor George H. W. Bush, Vice-President Cheney, and Generals Myers and Eberhart — NORAD did nothing between 8:40 A.M., at which hour it admits receiving word that Flight 11 had been hijacked, for at least 57 minutes, until some time after the Pentagon was struck, at 9:37 A.M.¹⁷¹ Plaintiff alleges this failure to act was due to the effective equivalent of a "Stand Down" order, given with the knowledge and approval of Defendants including, at least, all of President George W. Bush, expresident and presidential advisor George H. W. Bush, Vice-President Cheney, and Generals Myers and Eberhart. In other words, in order to deceive the public into thinking that attempts had been made to intercept Flight 175 (with fighters scrambled from Otis) and Flight 77. A number of 9-11 researchers, including some who were near the scene on 9-11, insist that the Pentagon impact occurred some minutes later, at about 9:43 A.M. or as late as 9:48 A.M. Herein, we have provisionally accepted the published time as roughly accurate. Note, also, that plaintiff's reference to the "effective equivalent of a Stand Down order" is intended to allow for the possibility that senior defendants avoided leaving their "fingerprints" by issuing an express order not to intercept the diverted aircraft, but that there was nevertheless a knowing, intentional agreement among said defendants that was intended to, and did, prevent (or inhibit and to delay so as to render ineffective) such response as ought to have been made, and would have been made had defendants genuinely wanted to thwart the attacks as they unfolded. NORAD quite possibly created a fiction that fighters were scrambled but, despite flying like "scalded apes," could not prevent the South Tower and the Pentagon from being struck.

As shown above, even allowing for the improbable delays in NORAD being notified of the hijacking of Flight 11, it is not credible that planes were, in truth, scrambled, but were not able to reach their destinations in time.

Gen. Richard Myers was acting Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on 9-11.

Two days after 9-11, testifying under oath before the Senate Armed Services Committee, Myers was asked when the order to scramble planes was first given. Given the magnitude of the attacks, that the same had occurred on his watch, and that he was testifying at his own confirmation hearing, one would suppose that the General would come prepared, have the facts, and – if he could not testify truthfully – at least avoid egregious lies, that (at least in a country in which public officials are held to account) he might have to account for later. He responded, “That order, to the best of my knowledge, was after the Pentagon was struck [at 9:37 a.m.]”

If Gen. Myers’ testimony just quoted was truthful and correct, then NORAD’S claim to have ordered the scrambling of jets at 8:46 a.m.¹⁷⁴ is off by at least fifty-one minutes. So far as Plaintiff is aware, neither President George W. Bush, nor Vice President Cheney, nor Defense Secretary Rumsfeld, nor his deputy Mr. Wolfowitz, nor General Myers has been asked in public to explain (a) how Gen. Myers came to form the belief that no planes were scrambled until at least 9:37 a.m., and (b) whether it is true, and verifiably true, that fighters left Otis for New York City at 8:52 a.m., but arrived only nineteen minutes later.

While, again, it seems improbable in the extreme that, had fighters really been scrambled as NORAD now claims, General Myers would not have known of that fact when he appeared at his confirmation hearing on September 13th, NORAD spokesman, Marine Maj. Mike Snyder, also claimed that no fighters were scrambled until after the Pentagon was hit. Only then, according to Maj. Snyder, did the military realize the scope of the attacks, and order fighters into the air.

Consistent with Plaintiff’s analysis is that, while President Bush, Vice President Cheney, NORAD, the FAA, the Secret Service and other agencies had a conference call “within minutes” of 8:46 A.M.,¹⁷⁶ by which time all participating in the call had to know (1) that the North Tower had been struck; and (2) that Flight 175 was bearing down on New York City, from all indications it occurred to none of these devoted guardians of the public safety to notify New York City officials. As a result, from about 8:55 A.M. until shortly before the second impact, a public announcement was broadcast inside the South Tower of the World Trade Center, saying that the building was safe, and people could return to their offices. Again, the Enterprise did not want quite so much “shock and awe” as would result from twin strikes at Indian Point nuclear power plant, but it had definite notions regarding how much shock and awe – that is, how many dead bodies -- it needed to achieve its political and imperial aims.

Flight controllers in New York City complained afterward that the crash of Flight 11 was confirmed to them only a minute or two before Flight 175 crashed a few seconds before 9:03 A.M. They also were not told that there was a concern with Flight 175 until right before it crashed. Even the fighter pilots who may, or may not, have been en route to New York from Otis appear to have been uninformed. One pilot, Maj. Daniel Nash, stated that he could not recall actually being told of the Flight 11 crash.¹⁷⁹ Both Lt. Col Duffy and Maj. Nash (the two supposed F-15 pilots from Otis) deny they were told of the hijacking of Flight 175 until after the South Tower impact. Maj. Nash suggested that, even if he had reached New York City before Flight 175, he could not have shot that plane down, because a decision to do so assuredly had to be made by the President, who by 9:03 A.M. was preoccupied with a classroom of children in Florida.

Even viewed in the light most favorable to the Enterprise Defendants, the foregoing timeline shows the following. There is a huge, unexplained gap between when NORAD should have learned of the diversion of Flight 11 — by 8:25 A.M. — and the time it claims to have learned of that event — 8:40 A.M. If, indulgently, we credit arguendo NORAD's dubious claim that it learned of the Flight 11 hijacking only at 8:40 A.M., even then NORAD squandered a clear chance to intercept Flight 175, and a fighting chance to intercept Flight 11. NORAD's "scalded ape" story is palpably false. F-15 fighters departing Otis as late as 8:52 A.M. could, without undue effort, have reached New York in time to intercept Flight 175. The discrepancies in NORAD'S (and Gen. Myers') accounts are numerous, consequential, and highly suspect. If Presidential authority was needed to shoot down airliners aimed at large buildings, on 9-11. In all events, Vice President Cheney on "Meet the Press" on 09/16/2001 tried to confuse the public concerning why none of the aircraft were "intercepted" by suggesting that "intercepting" the planes necessarily involved shooting them down, a falsehood. authority could, and ought to have, been obtained during the conference call that began shortly after 8:46 A.M. It is shocking that, as Flight 175 approached the South Tower, announcements continued to be made that that building was safe. Given the number and seniority of participants in the conference call, it is at best difficult in the extreme to ascribe to confusion, or stress, the failure to notify New York City authorities that a second airliner (off course and out of touch with air traffic control) was bearing down on the city. Hundreds of lives might have been saved, had such notice been given.¹⁸³ However, had not both World Trade Center towers been reduced to clouds of fine, airborne dust, if either tower had been left standing with only a few hundred dead, perhaps the public would not have been shocked into uncritical approval of military adventures and attacks on Constitutional freedoms that the Bush II Administration had had in the works long before 9-11, and has put into effect and kept in force ever since.

As has been shown, the defense system's response on 9-11 to the diversion of Flight 11 and Flight 175 was so torpid, so inept, as to indicate that everyone comprising the top command (including at least President Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, Myers and Eberhart) either wanted the attacks to succeed (or was taking orders from someone who did). Even independently of other factors (e.g., the abundant warnings, the wish by PNAC, composed largely of Bush II Administration insiders and even the President's brother Jeb Bush, for a "new" No less shocking is that, while the pieces of information that cast such grave doubt on the Official Story of 9-11 have appeared in the corporate-owned, mainstream media, there has been no exposé, no celebrity anchor person hosting a prime-time special demonstrating how the pieces, when put together, demonstrate the impossibility of the official version of what happened on 9-11. The Joint Congressional Inquiry nowhere addressed, in its findings, the sufficiency or even the basic facts of the torpid response to the attacks themselves. The Commission received, it appears mostly behind closed doors, testimony on the subject which was largely unsworn subject that was largely unsworn and, in some respects, demonstrably false. "Intelligence failures" comprise the main thrust of the Commission report as well. Facts undermining the basic Official Story of what transpired on 9-11, and that Osama bin Laden was the true author of the attacks, are either glossed over, or simply disregarded. The response (or non-response) to Flights 11 and 175 was so shockingly inept as to raise deep suspicions that the government wanted the attacks to play out, and so did nothing to stop them. Even more suspicious was what happened concerning in respect of Flight

3. BEFORE STRIKING THE PENTAGON, FLIGHT 77 NOT ONLY COULD HAVE BEEN INTERCEPTED BUT WAS IS ALLOWED TO FLY UNCONTESTED FOR ABOUT 50 MINUTES AFTER THE FIRST WTC STRIKE BEFORE STRIKING THE PENTAGON. THE GOVERNMENT'S ACCOUNT IS, AGAIN, INCONSISTENT AND NONSENSICAL.

Reportedly, Flight 77 took off from Dulles Airport near Washington at 8:20 A.M.¹⁸⁴ Its last routine radio communication was made at 8:50:51, and then it failed to respond to a routine instruction.¹⁸⁵ Within "a few minutes" after 8:48 A.M.,¹⁸⁶ and in all events by 8:56, at which time flight controllers repeatedly called Flight 77 over the radio and received no reply, "it was evident that Flight 77 was lost."

NORAD's failure to intercept becomes increasingly egregious and indicative of "Stand Down" orders¹⁸⁸ intended to let the attacks proceed in proportion to the time available to it to mount an effective response. As we have seen, NORAD claims it learned of the hijacking of Flight 11 only at 8:40 A.M. whereas, if established procedures had been followed, it ought to Again, such orders may have been — indeed it is more likely that they were — implicit, rather than express, or in the alternative that the effect of a “Stand Down” order was engineered by fashioning a set of circumstances in which all of the most senior officials were furnished with “plausible deniability” concerning their inaction, delays, and omissions in failing to stop the attacks.

have learned of this by 8:25 A.M. at the latest. In the case of Flight 77, whereas sometime between 8:48 A.M. and 8:56 A.M. air traffic controllers determined that it Flight 77 had been hijacked sometime between 8:48 A.M. and 8:56 A.M., yet NORAD claims it received word from the FAA only at 9:24 or 9:25 A.M., and even then only that it “may” have been hijacked.

This half-hour gap was disputed by the FAA in proceedings before the Commission. Jane Garvey, FAA Administrator on 9-11, in a statement released following her testimony, claimed that while formal notification was logged in by NORAD only at 9:24 A.M., “information about [Flight 77] was conveyed continuously during the phone bridges [among the FAA, NORAD, the Secret Service and other agencies] before the formal notification.”

A few days after 9-11, the New York Times reported, “During the hour or so that American Airlines Flight 77 was under the control of hijackers, up to the moment it struck the west side of the Pentagon, military officials in a command center on the east side of the building were urgently talking to law enforcement and air traffic control officials about what to do.” This seems more consistent with the FAA’s recent claim that NORAD and other agencies knew about the hijacking of Flight 77 long before 9:24 A.M.

If Ms. Garvey is correct, then NORAD, in the more than two years since 9-11, has still not managed — nor, apparently, in what can only be explained as utter contempt for the public and absolute confidence in its own impunity — perceived any need, to adopt a single, plausible, and coherent story and stick to it. If, hypothetically, NORAD had learned that Flight 77 had been hijacked, say, at 8:51 A.M., given that the Pentagon impact occurred at 9:38 A.M., NORAD would then have had about 47 minutes to get a fighter plane over Washington, D.C. Leaving aside the implausibility or the scandal (especially in light of the abundant warnings of a possible terror attack using airplanes) of the Capitol not being defended by fighters at Andrews Air Force Base ten miles distant, and accepting for the moment the story that the nearest highalert status fighters available were at Langley, 129 miles from Washington, Langley is closer to Washington, D.C. than Otis is to New York (about 188 miles).¹⁹² At an average speed of 1200 MPH, which is 20 miles per minute, an F-16 fighter could have covered the 129 miles from Langley to Washington in about 6-1/2 minutes. But for the fact that the Commission has evidently accepted, without question, the dubious testimony from NORAD, and the major media (while persisting in reporting some facts not consistent with the Official Story) has not highlighted these facts or their implications, NORAD would have “a lot of explaining to do” concerning its failure to get a fighter plane over Washington (and nearby Arlington, Virginia) in the approximately 47 minutes it ought to have had for that task. Supposedly, at 9:09 A.M.,

NORAD ordered F-16s at Langley to battle stations alert.¹⁹³ However, one pilot, code-named “Honey,” relates that he was in one of the first planes to take off from Langley, but that “battle stations alert” was not sounded until 9:24 A.M., a discrepancy of fifteen crucial minutes. NORAD claims that three F-16s were scrambled (ordered aloft) at 9:27 A.M. to intercept Flight 77, and took off three minutes later, at 9:30 A.M.¹⁹⁵ Here again, the NORAD timeline is inconsistent with “Honey’s” recollection. Without giving exact times, he describes a series of events lasting much longer than six minutes, including waiting from “five to ten minutes” between two of these events.

Even crediting NORAD’s account, however implausible, that it learned of the hijacking only at 9:24 A.M. and, but had planes taking off from Langley at 9:30 A.M., at 1200 MPH the F-16s still could have arrived on time, albeit with only 1-2 minutes to spare. Presumably, the pilots were motivated to travel quickly; Maj. Dean Eckmann, who was one of them, said he was told before scrambling that a plane had hit the World Trade Center.¹⁹⁷ Yet, astoundingly, in their May 2003 testimony, NORAD officials said that the F-16s did not use their afterburners, and flew at about 660 MPH to Washington.¹⁹⁸ Using a calculator it can be determined that, if NORAD’s timeline is to be believed, the F-16s were still 105 miles distant from Washington when Flight 77 crashed.¹⁹⁹ If so, that means the planes covered a distance of only about 24 miles in the eight minutes from takeoff (9:30 A.M.) to the time Flight 77 crashed (9:38 A.M.). Twenty-four miles in eight minutes means the F-16s flew at 3 miles per minute. Three miles a minute times sixty minutes indicates an average speed of only 180 MPH, far from the 660 MPH the NORAD witnesses claimed.

Indeed, NORAD and the pilots who supposedly scrambled from Langley cannot even agree on where they were headed. “Honey,” claimed that the F-16s were flying toward New York City, not Washington. They were 30-40 miles to the east of Washington, not south of it, when they saw a black column of smoke coming from the city. They then changed course and headed to Washington instead.

At the May 2003 hearing, NORAD claimed the fighters from Langley were sent to fly over the Atlantic Ocean instead of heading directly toward Washington²⁰¹ and the Commission astonishingly, accepted this account. The account is consistent with “Honey’s” account of the fighters being too far east. NORAD officials admitted that, had the fighters traveled faster and headed directly toward Washington, D.C., they were capable of arriving there before Flight 77. NORAD’s excuse was that hijacked airliners taking off within the United States were a “law enforcement issue,” and that NORAD’S mission “was to protect [against] things coming towards the United States” from without.²⁰²

Supposedly, then, we are to believe that F-16s were scrambled from Langley to pursue and intercept hijacked Flight 77, which had made a U-turn roughly where West Virginia borders Kentucky, and was headed toward Washington, D.C. It was known that two planes had been flown into the World Trade Center in New York City during the preceding 45 minutes; yet the U.S. government, which admits to spending $40 billion annually on intelligence, was unable to figure out: (1) that Flight 77 was not headed in the opposite direction from its scheduled route to Los Angeles due to pilot error; (2) that whoever was in control of Flight 77 probably intended to fly it into a landmark building; and (3) that Washington, D.C. -- the nation’s capital and site of numerous landmark buildings, toward which Flight 77 was headed -- was the likely site of the intended attack.

To cover what plaintiff alleges was the functional equivalent of a “Stand Down” order²⁰³, (i.e. that NORAD was caused to allow Flight 77 to continue until the impact with the Pentagon), NORAD offers the feeblest of fictions: that it had no jurisdiction over land; and that it was the responsibility of law enforcement, not NORAD, to deal with aircraft headed toward Washington from the interior, NORAD’S task being limited to stopping hostile planes coming in from outside the U.S., presumably from over the Atlantic. This story makes no sense. First, the planes scrambled from Otis reportedly flew over land to reach New York City. Second, few “law enforcement” agencies have fighter aircraft, or any effective means (unaided by the military and/or the Air National Guard) to contest attacks by jet aircraft originating from within the U.S., and about to be flown into buildings. Third, if NORAD can protect Washington, D.C. only from air attacks originating outside the U.S., it would make no sense to have the closest and (but for far-off Otis AFB on Cape Cod) the only available fighter aircraft at Langley, which is to say well inland, rather than at Andrews (or some other base closer to the coastline). The failure to stop the strike on the Pentagon becomes all the more suspicious if one considers that, as calls poured in from fighter units volunteering assistance, it was not necessary to limit possible responses to Langley or Otis. Within minutes of the second crash at the World Trade Center, it was obvious Plaintiff reiterates that — especially in the confusion of multiple war games and training exercises which, we are supposed to believe by sheer coincidence, were in progress on the morning of 9-11 — it would have been entirely possible for senior conspirators to effectively prevent, hinder or delay an effective response to the real attacks without having to issue direct orders that unambiguously would signal their design and intent that the attacks not be thwarted. It is remarkable, too, that such negligible attention as the Commission gave to the response to the attacks in public hearings on June 16, 2004 avoided altogether addressing what effect, if any, the simultaneous carrying out of the war games and training exercises had on the supposed efforts made to stop the attacks. Finally, if the Langley F-16s were tasked with intercepting

Flight 77, it seems incredible to suppose that the “terrorist hijackers” — relatively inept pilots in control of an unwieldy, unarmed passenger airliner would — out of respect for NORAD’S jurisdictional scruple — join the F-16s out over the Atlantic to everyone that the nation was under attack. Calls started “pouring into NORAD and sector operations centers, asking ‘What can we do to help?’” The Air National Guard commander in Syracuse, New York, told Col. Robert Marr, in charge of NORAD’s Northeastern US sector, “Give me 10 minutes and I can give you hot guns. Give me 30 minutes and I’ll have heat-seeker [missiles]. Give me an hour and I can give you slammers [Amraamsza].” Marr replied, “I want it all.”

Reportedly, Col. Marr said, “Get to the phones. Call every Air National Guard unit in the land. Prepare to put jets in the air. The nation is under attack.” Another NORAD commander, Maj. Gen. Eric Findley, claims he had his staff immediately order as many fighters in the air as possible. Yet, however sincere Col. Marr and Gen. Findley might be, the performance did not live up to the rhetoric. Col. Marr’s response to Syracuse ANG — suggesting that he “wanted it all” -may- may well have been interpreted as ordering that only fully-armed planes be dispatched, thus actually delaying planes from taking off, whereas ostensibly Syracuse ANG could have had planes with some weapons heading toward Washington by 9:20 A.M., which could have reached Washington before Flight 77 did.

Another account says, “By 10:01 A.M., the command center began calling several bases across the country for help.”²⁰⁸ A base in Toledo, Ohio, was one of those called at that time, and Toledo appears to have been the first base other than Otis, Langley, or Andrews to send up any fighters, which Toledo did at 10:16 A.M. Syracuse may have been next, finally putting fighters in the air at 10:44 A.M., one hour and fifty-eight minutes after the impact at the North Tower

4. AN UNPRECEDENTED NATIONWIDE “GROUND STOP” ORDER, WHICH MUST HAVE HAD WHITE HOUSE APPROVAL, PREVENTED EVEN THE MILITARY FROM FLYING AND ALLOWED AND MAY HAVE BEEN THE FUNCTIONAL EQUIVALENT OF AN ORDER FOR THE MILITARY TO “STAND DOWN” AND ALLOW THE ATTACKS TO PROCEED.

FAA Administrator Jane Garvey, “almost certainly after getting an okay from the White House, initiated a national ground stop” at 9:26 A.M. That measure forbade takeoffs, and required planes in the air to get down as soon as reasonable. The order — never implemented since the Wright Brothers first flew — “applied to virtually every single kind of machine that can take off — civilian, military, or law enforcement.” Note the inclusion of military planes. Military and law enforcement flights were allowed to resume takeoffs at 10:31 A.M. A limited number of military flights were allowed to fly during the nationwide ground stop from 9:26 A.M. until 10:31, but the FAA has refused to reveal details.

Later, USA Today claimed that Ben Sliney, FAA National Operations Manager, made the ground-stop decision. If true, this was indeed an audacious judgment call to have been made by Mr. Sliney on his very first day on the job as the “chess master of the air traffic system.” The obvious queries, which so far as known to plaintiff have been assiduously the question, obviously, is whether knowingly or unknowingly, Mr. Sliney was inserted by the Enterprise into a position from which he could effectively order avoided by the Commission and the media, are these. First, is it true that Mr. Sliney made that judgment call on 9-11? If he did, did he have any orders or instructions, whether on 9-11 or at any time before 9-11, concerning any order of that momentous kind? Who caused Mr. Sliney to be inserted into this position? Does Mr. Sliney have connections to any of the defendants, or to FEMA, the CIA, or any intelligence or “black budget” agencies of the U.S. government?

A further point of interest concerns Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Instruction CJCSI 3610.01A dated June 1, 2001. Reportedly, this document was issued by Vice Admiral S. A. Fry, USN, was issued ostensibly for the purpose of providing “guidance to the Deputy Director for Operations (DDO), National Military Command Center (NMCC), and operational commanders in the event of an aircraft piracy (hijacking) or request for destruction of derelict airborne objects.”

The Joint Chiefs of Staff Instruction CJCSI 3610.01A, superseding a prior instruction that dated back to July 1997, states in part that “[I]n the event of a hijacking, the [National Military Command Center] will be notified by the most expeditious means by the FAA. The NMCC will, with the exception of immediate responses as authorized by reference “D”, forward requests for DOD assistance to the Secretary of Defense for approval.” Reference “D” mentioned in the foregoing cross-references a 1997 Defense Department directive that allows for commanders in the field to provide assistance to save lives in an emergency situation. However, “potentially lethal support,” presumably inclusive of authorization to shoot down a hijacked civilian airliner, requires approval of the Secretary of Defense. Two critical questions concerning the June 2001 directive are whether field commanders were bureaucratically, but the mighty U.S. military to “stand down” in the face of attacks, and thus shield senior officials from responsibility.

213 See Jerry Russell, “Found: The 911 ‘Stand Down Order?’”, www.inforwars.com, 3/31/2004 effectively, prevented from reacting to the 9-11 hijackings in a timely fashion, and what testimony or statements the Commission elicited from Vice Admiral Fry and Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld concerning the promulgation of CJCSI 3610.01A and the reasoning behind it, and what effect, if any, the requirements of CJCSI 3610.01A had in delaying or inhibiting an effective reaction to the diversions of aircraft on 9-11.

It appears NORAD was unwilling to use fighters from any but the two bases in the Northeast sector that they directly controlled, even if there were other bases or fighters already in the air that were closer. There was no legitimate reason for this. In 1999, it was widely reported that when golfer Payne Stewart's Learjet went off course, NORAD used fighters from a number of bases outside of NORAD's "official" seven bases to follow the aircraft as it crossed over several states before crashing. But on 9-11, NORAD appears to have been adamantly unwilling to use fighters from bases such as Andrews, even though Andrews is just ten miles from Washington, D.C. Andrews personnel learned about the national emergency through news coverage, and then a pilot called a friend in the Secret Service for more information. Shortly after the second crash at 9:03 A.M. (actually 9:02:56), it was the Secret Service – not NORAD – that called Andrews, asking that they get fighters ready. Again, a few minutes after the Pentagon crash at 9:38, it was the Secret Service that called Andrews, and said the fighters needed to "Get in the air now!"

Yet, despite Andrews' website claim to have "combat ready" fighters "in the highest possible state of readiness" when the command came to "get in the air," the fighters were not fully ready to take off. They had ammunition for "hot" guns, but AIM-9 missiles were located in a bunker on the other side of the base, and even though base commanders began the process of loading them shortly after 9:00 A.M., they still had not finished until about 40 minutes later. The next two fighters to take off from Andrews after Major Billy Hutchison were armed only with "hot" guns and non-explosive training rounds.²¹⁷ Even though the Secret Service and NORAD had been sharing a conference call since shortly after the first, North Tower impact at 8:46 A.M., NORAD claims it was unaware that the Secret Service ordered any planes into the air from Andrews.

Lack of communication among Administration and military personnel on 9-11 would be comical, were the consequences not so tragic. In May 2003 testimony, Transportation Secretary Mineta claimed that at about 9:25 or 9:26 A.M., a few minutes after his arrival at the bunker beneath the White House, he overheard an aide tell Vice President Cheney that a hijacked plane headed toward Washington was 50 miles away, then 30 miles away. When the plane was announced as being ten miles away, the aide asked the Vice President, "Do the orders still stand?" Cheney replied, "Of course the orders still stand. Have you heard anything to the contrary?" Mineta inferred that the order was an order to shoot down the plane.

Strange to say, if the President or the Vice President ordered incoming Flight 77 to be shot down before it reached Washington, none of the pilots from Langley or Andrews appear to have been aware of any such orders! One article pointed out, "If the airliner had approached much nearer to the White House it might have been shot down by the Secret Service, who are believed to have a battery of ground-to-air Stinger missiles ready to protect the President's home." Given that the Pentagon is only two miles from the White House, the failure to use Stinger missiles to shoot down Flight 77 suggests that the Enterprise was quite certain that the White House was not the intended target.

Reports indicate that Washington, D.C. air traffic controllers were also kept in the dark concerning Flight 77, and did not learn of its approach until the last minute. One flight controller claimed she was the first to notice Flight 77 when it was about 12 to 14 miles away, and that Vice President Cheney learned of it only after that. The head Washington flight controller claimed the Secret Service first alerted his tower of a hijacked plane coming his way when it was only five miles away. According to another account, flight controllers detected Flight 77 just before 9:30 A.M., and told the Secret Service.²²⁵ Another account stated radar detected Flight 77 when it was 30 miles away at 9:30 A.M., and still another Norman Mineta Testimony, 05/23/2003. Vice President Cheney stated in a "Meet the Press" interview with his neighbor, Tim Russert, on September 16, 2001 that the President had given an order that planes could, as a last resort, be "taken out," account claimed detection at 9:33 A.M.²²⁶ An unanswered question is that, if Washington, D.C. flight control's radar did not detect Flight 77's approach from 9:24 A.M. and before, then whose radar did?

NORAD admits official notice that Flight 77 was headed toward Washington at 9:24 A.M., and FAA Administrator Jane Garvey claimed a conference call discussed Flight 77 well before that time. It was not, however, until well after the Pentagon was hit, at 9:38 A.M., that orders were given to evacuate additional likely Washington targets such as the White House, the Capitol Building, the State Department and, indeed, the Pentagon itself. Had Flight 77 struck the Capitol instead of the Pentagon, most of the legislators would still have been inside. It is claimed that Defense Secretary Rumsfeld and his top aides in their Pentagon offices remained unaware of any danger until after the Pentagon was actually hit. This claim is belied by the fact that the conference call discussing Flight 77 was being run out of the National Military Command Center inside the Pentagon itself. Vice President Cheney (according to Transportation Secretary Mineta) knew, and Defense Secretary Rumsfeld certainly ought to have known, of the approach of Flight 77. Why were no evacuation orders given for other Washington landmarks until after 9:38 A.M.? This remains unexplained. Had orders been given to begin evacuating the Pentagon at the time of the exchange between Vice President Cheney and the aide reported by Secretary Mineta, perhaps many of the 125 people who died inside the Pentagon on 9-11 would be alive today.

In addition to the foregoing, there is an impressive body of research that, while again not unanimous in every detail, concurs generally that what struck the Pentagon could not have been a Boeing 757, and was therefore not Flight 77.

Just six items ought to suffice to imbue the moderately critical student of 9-11 with enormous skepticism concerning the Official Story. That the Commission never deviated from the “established truth” (that it was Flight 77, piloted by Arabs, that struck the Pentagon, after departing from Dulles Airport and then flying west to roughly, the West Virginia-Kentucky border before circling back to attack Washington) or saw any need to address the following facts is a further indication of a coverup. The six items are these: Additional facts casting doubt on the Official Story and indicating a coverup are:

- a. Given even that supposed terror pilot Hanjour by all reports was, at best, a marginal pilot, and was supposedly on a suicide mission, it is simply not believable astounding that he found both the skill and the sang froid to execute a 270-degree turn, while descending some 7000 feet in an unwieldy Boeing 757, at a speed of 270 knots or more.
- b. Just as the WTC hijackers were “good” enough to hit the Twin Towers just as most occupants were arriving for work (rather than in mid-morning, when the death toll would have been higher) It is equally unbelievable that the “terrorist” flying Flight 77 would take took the trouble, in his life’s last moments, to execute an impossibly acrobatic maneuver, a professional courtesy as it were, to avoid striking the section of the Pentagon where Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld has his office, preferring instead to strike precisely that section of the structure which, having been recently remodeled, was thinly populated. Similarly, the WTC hijackers were “good” enough to hit the Twin Towers just as most occupants were arriving for work (rather than in mid-morning, when the death toll would have been higher).
- c. Supposedly, Flight 77 departed Dulles Airport near Washington, flew west to near, roughly, the West Virginia-Kentucky border, then described a loop to amble back eastward to attack the Pentagon. Why would “terrorists” with sufficient skill to divert four aircraft in rapid succession, and a pilot in Flight 77 capable of the exploits just described, virtually beg thus beg to be intercepted, by remaining aloft for so long? Why would they not circle back not long after takeoff, and crash the plane into the Pentagon? In addition to the improbably extended flight pattern, there are further difficulties with Flight 77’s timeline. The plane was reportedly seriously off-course by 8:46 A.M., 26 minutes after takeoff. The erratic course flown over West Virginia is suggestive of the diversion having occurred within a few minutes thereafter (the last radio communication was reportedly at 8:50 A.M. and the plane’s transponder was turned off at 8:56 A.M.). Why did it take the plane roughly 45 to 55 minutes (depending on when the impact really occurred, sometime between 9:37 A.M. and 9:48 A.M.)

to circle back and fly into the Pentagon?

- d. If one looks at photographs of the “entrance wound” inflicted on the Pentagon, plainly it is unbelievably small, if what hit the Building was a Boeing 757; and
- e. As in the case of the World Trade Center, the evidence at the crime scene was removed, under cover and with amazing rapidity, precluding any accurate and transparent investigation.

5. THE CRASH OF FLIGHT 93 IN SOMERSET COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA, RAISES SERIOUS UNANSWERED QUESTIONS.

There are also many unanswered questions concerning Flight 93, the last of the four planes to be hijacked on 9-11. Flight 93’s takeoff was delayed about 40 minutes, until 8:42 A.M. The FAA told NORAD at 9:16 A.M. that Flight 93 had been hijacked. The basis of that report is uncertain, as the transponder turned off only about 9:30²³³ or 9:40 A.M.²³⁴, and Flight 93 did not go off course until much later.

The “timeline” for Flight 93 is the subject of concealment, secrecy and dispute. NORAD maintains that this plane crashed at 10:03 A.M.,²³⁶ notwithstanding a seismic study, commissioned by the Army that determined the time of the crash to be 10:06:05.

Even murkier is when, or if, fighters were flown toward Flight 93 charged with intercepting it. NORAD’S first timeline said only that a fighter was 100 miles, or 11 minutes, away when Flight 93 crashed near Shanksville, in Somerset County, Pennsylvania. That means the fighter was traveling about 545 MPH – again, inexplicably slow. NORAD’s initial timeline also implies that the fighter allegedly in pursuit of Flight 93 had only traveled about 80 miles from Washington when Flight 93 crashed. If we assume the 545 MPH as a correct average, that means the fighter left Washington about nine minutes before the crash, or 9:57 A.M. Consider the implications: before Flight 93 was reported hijacked at 9:15 A.M., two planes had been steered into the World Trade Center, the nation’s defenses were in an uproar, and base commanders all around the country were phoning in, asking what they could do to help. Yet – if NORAD is to be believed – about 41 minutes elapsed before anyone got a plane into the air, heading in the direction of hijacked Flight 93. Partial – which is to say, expurgated – transcripts of cockpit voice recordings have been released for the other flights, but not Flight 93.

Secretary Mineta’s impression that Cheney had given a shoot down order for Flight 77 at about 9:26 A.M. has been mentioned. It has also been claimed that, sometime after Flight 77 crashed, someone from the White House spoke directly with pilots over Washington, and declared the Washington area a “free-fire zone.” In another account, the Secret Service told the pilots, “I want you to protect the White House at all costs.” Yet, it has been reported also that it was not until President Bush took off from Sarasota, Florida, at about 9:56 A.M., that he had a short discussion with Vice President Cheney, and it was then that the President authorized the military to shoot down any plane under the control of hijackers. Strange to say, none of the pilots over Washington claim to have heard any such order. “Honey,” the lead pilot, claimed to have heard a garbled message about Flight 93 that the other pilots did not hear. He said, “The message seemed to convey that the White House was an important asset to protect . . . something like, ‘Be aware of where [Flight 93] is, and it could be a target.’”²⁴² Both “Honey” and another pilot code-named “Lou” stated they were never given orders to shoot down any plane that day.

All six of the first pilots to arrive over Washington were quoted in the press, and none of them indicated that he flew in pursuit of Flight 93. One article does say that Billy Hutchison’s fighter from Andrews AFB “was to do ID that unknown [aircraft] that everybody was so excited about.” But the article containing that quote goes on to describe how Hutchison began patrolling over Washington in low-flying loops instead.

Furthermore, Hutchison’s was the only fighter of the six that claimed to have been unarmed, but NORAD’s most recent claim is that two unarmed fighters from Washington were sent after Flight 93.²⁴⁵ NORAD previously claimed that, at some point after Flight 77 crashed at 9:38 A.M., two unarmed fighters in Michigan were ordered after Flight 93.²⁴⁶ These lastmentioned fighters are claimed to have been in the air since the time of the first attack at 8:46 A.M., raising the obvious question of why they were not recalled to be armed an hour earlier. NORAD seems to have forgotten these two fighters in its most recent timeline.²⁴⁸ Major General Paul Weaver, director of the Air National Guard, claimed that no fighters were sent after Flight 93 at all.

Contradicting Gen. Weaver’s claim of no fighters having been sent in pursuit of Flight 93, the day following 9-11, a New Hampshire flight controller claimed “that an F-16 fighter closely pursued Flight 93 . . . the F-16 made 360-degree turns to remain close to the commercial jet the employee said, ‘He must’ve seen the whole thing,’ the employee said of the F-16 pilot’s view of Flight 93’s crash.”²⁵⁰ Details have been reported, too, of how Vice President Cheney was given notice when a fighter was 80 miles from Flight 93, when it was within 60 miles, and at least one additional notice. The Vice President reportedly confirmed his order to shoot down Flight 93 after every update.

Plaintiff submits that, where a purported investigation is being carried out at taxpayer expense of events that caused the deaths of 2,993 persons, it is conclusive proof that the proceedings are a farce, a cover-up and a public-relations sham that any significant proof is received without the witnesses being sworn to testify truly, and under the penalties of perjury. Such laxity has been the practice of the Commission, generally and particularly with respect to the NORAD commanders who testified (and to President Bush and Vice President Cheney). NORAD representatives lied so brazenly, their accounts were so internally inconsistent and patently unbelievable, that the only reasonable conclusion is that they recognized the Commission for what it is -- a “disinfotainment” comedy produced for C-Span, a bone tossed contemptuously in the direction of activist groups of victims’ families, and a means to forestall any true investigation, if not forever then at least until after the 2004 presidential election. Judging by their conduct, the NORAD commanders were well aware that the Commissioners — or a majority of them at least — had no expectation of being told even a plausible, roughly consistent set of lies, much less the truth.

Late in 2001, for example, defendant Maj. Gen. Larry Arnold wrote how NORAD’s response on 9-11 was “immediate” and “impressive.” Gen. Arnold claimed, “we were able to identify, track and escort suspected hijacked aircraft after the initial attacks,” “our reaction time outpaced the process in some instances,” “our well-practiced rapid response capability may very well have prevented additional surprise attacks on the American homeland saving countless lives.” Apart from the absurdity of such claims in light of such facts as are known and, of course, the outcome of the attacks, Gen. Arnold was flatly contradicted by current NORAD Commander Maj. Gen. Craig McKinley who, testifying to the Commission in May 2003 with American Defender, 2001.

Gen. Arnold seated at his side, admitted “We had not positioned prior to September 11, 2001, for the scenario that took place that day.” “McKinley admitted,” another report stated, “that NORAD was utterly unprepared for the attack.”²⁵⁴ Gen. McKinley called NORAD’s 9-11 stance “a Cold War vestige.”

Not only did Gen. McKinley squarely contradict Gen. Arnold’s referenced article that had boasted of NORAD’s response, but Gen. Arnold himself testified lamely before the Commission that he did not think Flight 77 would be shot down on its approach to Washington, because even at that point, it was only “through hindsight that we are certain that this was a coordinated attack on the United States.”

Gen. Arnold’s last-quoted statement is astonishing. At the time in question, roughly 9:26 A.M., about 40 minutes had elapsed since a hijacked plane had crashed into the WTC North Tower. Nearly half an hour had passed since the second impact at the South Tower. Flight 77, having made a “U” turn from its projected flight path, had been out of radio contact with controllers for about 35 minutes, and was bearing down on the nation’s Capitol. Yet, Gen. Arnold is suggesting that he (and perhaps other military and civilian leaders, as he employs the pronoun “we”) was unsure that a “coordinated attack on the United States” was in progress. Plaintiff submits that either the General has engaged in massive perjury, or his acuity is so feeble that he should have been dismissed from service in the wake of the attacks. The Commission, consistent with its overall approach of not hurting anyone’s feelings over their failure to prevent or to respond appropriately to the attacks, was too polite to point out that Gen. Arnold and Gen. McKinley could not both be telling the truth.

Drawing inspiration, perhaps, from the memory of how Lt. Col. Oliver North used brazen perjury to cover up massive illegal sales of weapons (and drugs) and the creation and use of an extra-Constitutional parallel government to thwart laws passed by Congress, parlaying this perjury into wealth and a lucrative career as a pro-Enterprise commentator and profiteer, NORAD witnesses appearing before the Commission evidently did not feel the need even to avoid lies that could readily be refuted – stating, for example, that CNN first began showing images of the North Tower of the World Trade Center on fire at 8:57

A.M., when it is easily verifiable that CNN began doing so at 8:48 A.M.²⁵⁶ . Regardless of whether NORAD’S story of convenience at a given moment entails fighters flying toward Flight 93 from Michigan on the one hand, or Washington on the other, its account cannot withstand scrutiny. Three fully-armed fighters reached Washington before the one unarmed or the two partially-armed fighters did. So why was not one of the first three, fully-armed fighters sent after Flight 93? It is an affront to every American with moderate analytical powers to propose, as NORAD has, that Surely, an hour and a half after NORAD was first notified of the diversion of Flight 11, it had not the capacity to overtake Flight 93 with an armed fighter!

In light of the inspiring (albeit improbable) story that passengers on Flight 93 fought the hijackers and may have recaptured control of the aircraft,²⁵⁷ Enterprise spinmeisters have sought to keep armed aircraft far, far away from Flight 93 in their accounts of the moments preceding its crash. However, there is significant evidence that Flight 93 was shot down. The NORAD Testimony, 5/23/2003, CNN, 9/11/2001. We can and must seek the truth of how, why, and by whom they were murdered. Enterprise, NORAD, and the Bush II Administration cannot have it both ways. Either the brave passengers who allegedly exclaimed, “Let’s roll!” were blown out of the sky by military (or CIA or other Enterprise) fire, or Flight 93 flew for fifty minutes, uncontested, after two planes had struck the WTC, and the government knew it had been hijacked. Small wonder, then, that NORAD continues to hide behind lies and vague stories of unarmed fighters, with the timeline kept as fuzzy as possible. NORAD Commander Craig McKinley newly claimed at the May 2003 hearings that NORAD was unaware of any shoot down order until five minutes after Flight 93 had crashed.

There is evidence that Flight 93, and that it was tailed by a private jet owned by an enormously wealthy businessman, involved also in the development of pilotless aircraft, who happened to be hosting a charity event at the secure Air Force facility in Nebraska to which President Bush was flown on 9-11. (The coincidences just keep coming.) According to one report, which while (unconfirmed but is alleged by plaintiff upon information and belief), is that fighter pilots of the 119th Fighter Wing of the North Dakota Air National Guard, a unit temporarily assigned to Langley AFB in Virginia, were scrambled at 9:38 A.M. on 9-11, and directed to pursue Flight 93. The squadron, comprising Major Rick Gibney, Maj. Brad Derrig, Maj. Dean Eckman, and Capt. Craig Borgstrom, overtook the diverted plane and one of them, reportedly Major Gibney, was ordered to and did shoot the plane down. Reportedly, the members of this squadron, from a unit nicknamed the “Happy Hooligans,” were later awarded medals (and several pilots of the squadron were promoted) for meritorious service in carrying out the tragic orders to shoot down Flight 93.

Further reports of anomalies worthy of investigation, but which to plaintiff’s best knowledge have not been investigated, are these. One is that while military and government sources have persistently denied the presence of military aircraft within range of Flight 93 on 9-11, a sonic boom — indicative of a military aircraft, as passenger aircraft generally do not “break the sound barrier” — was recorded at 9:22 A.M., at an earthquake monitoring station in southern Pennsylvania, approximately 60 miles from the crash site of Flight 93.

Certainly, the sonic boom, certainly, recorded only about 60 miles from Flight 93’s crash site, appears to belie claims by Maj. Gen. Paul A. Weaver, Jr., Director of the Air National Guard, that National Guard aircraft “weren’t even close” to Flight 93.

Another matter worthy of explanation is the possibility that Flight 93 was brought down not by rebellious passengers, nor by suicidal Arabs, but by ultra high-tech United States weaponry, namely microwave weapons emitted from a C-130 aircraft. Especially in light of “The Final Moments of Flight 93,” archived at www.thepowerhour.com. Flight 93: the Improbable Truth” (update of 6/27/2004). A copy is annexed as Exhibit C. Again, Class Plaintiff and/or Class Plaintiff Representative does not propose Magley’s microwave-weapon shootdown as gospel truth, but considers it easily creditable enough that a true investigation — the inspiring (albeit improbable) story that passengers on Flight 93 fought the hijackers and may have recaptured control of the aircraft,²⁶² Enterprise spinmeisters have sought to keep armed aircraft far, far away from Flight 93 in their accounts of the moments preceding its crash.

If the facts are viewed critically, however, the Enterprise, NORAD, and the Bush II Administration cannot have it both ways. Either the brave passengers who allegedly exclaimed, “Let’s roll!” were blown out of the sky by military (or CIA or other Enterprise) fire, or Flight 93 flew for fifty minutes, uncontested, after two planes had struck the WTC, and the government knew it had been hijacked. Small wonder, then, that NORAD continues to hide behind lies and vague stories of unarmed fighters, with the timeline kept as fuzzy as possible. NORAD Commander Craig McKinley newly claimed at the May 2003 hearings that NORAD was unaware of any shoot down order until five minutes after Flight 93 had crashed.

Additional questions are raised by the failure to escort Air Force One when, at last, President Bush tore himself away from the schoolchildren’s “goat story,” and left the Sarasota airport about 9:56 A.M. Interestingly, one of the President’s security detail at the elementary school saw the second WTC crash at 9:03 A.M. and immediately exclaimed, “We’re out of here. Can you get everyone ready?” Two air bases in Florida (Homestead and Tyndall) were among the seven in NORAD’S system. One would think that, during the approximately 32-minute not to be confused with the political farce played out by the Commission — would test it on the merits. Nothing alleged by Class Plaintiff and/or Class Plaintiff Representative in this complaint bears the slightest intent to impugn any of the victims of 9-11. We know many were heroes. We can surmise that others might have displayed great bravery, but were incapacitated or killed before having the opportunity to do so. Every life lost was singularly precious, and as we can neither restore our lost family members, friends, and fellowmen and women to life, nor (in most cases) reliably reconstruct their last moments, Class Plaintiff and/or Class Plaintiff Representative submits we can and must seek to honor them by finding the truth of how, why, and by whom they were murdered; delay between the second WTC impact, and the time that the Commander-in-Chief (his indispensable “briefing” regarding the pet goat having been completed) left with his motorcade about 9:35 A.M., the President’s security would have arranged for an armed fighter escort to accompany Air Force One. It appears, however, that no fighters reached Air Force One until sometime between 11:00 A.M. and 11:30 A.M. (NORAD has not released full details). Reportedly, the first fighters to reach Air Force One came from Ellington, near Houston, Texas, long after Air Force One left Florida.²⁶⁶ If, somehow, the 9-11 attacks were not an “inside job,” carried out with the secret blessing of high officials in the Bush II Administration and the military and “national security” agencies, the President’s initial conduct following word of the attacks was bizarre, and those responsible for his safety were remarkably casual, unless the 9-11 attacks were an “inside job” carried out with the secret blessing of high officials in the Bush II Administration and the military and “national security” agencies.

6. SOME ADDITIONAL REASONS TO DOUBT THE OFFICIAL STORY OF 9-11.

One columnist wrote in May 2003, “The great majority of people, sickened and overwhelmed by the horror of the attacks, unquestioningly accepts the White House version [of what happened on 9-11]. Many thousands, however, are patiently stitching together the documented evidence and noting the holes in the fabric of that official story.” A Florida columnist called the “restrained – even failed – standard US military air defense protocols while the attacks were occurring” a “real mystery” deserving a serious investigation. But whether Code One Magazine, 01/2002, Sarasota Magazine, 09/19/2001, Washington Post, 01/27/2002 through fear or collusion, few major media organizations have had the temerity to challenge the Official Story or even acknowledge the discrepancies.

There are a myriad of other facts, reported by mainstream media but not as a coherent whole, which suggest that the Official Story is a falsehood, and that failure to carry out a complete criminal investigation addressed not to “intelligence failures” but the actual events of 9-11 and criminal responsibility therefore, attests eloquently to Enterprise and U.S. government complicity. Besides those listed above, here are just a few additional examples:

- (a) The alleged hijackers were identified implausibly early after the attacks. No Arab names – let alone those of the accused hijackers – appear on the public passenger manifests. A supposedly definitive technical study concerning the collapses of World Trade Center 1 and 2 (the North Tower and South Tower) appeared just two days after 9-11, but the actual evidence (the rubble from the destroyed buildings, especially the structural steel) was kept under the exclusive control of FEMA, removed from the site, and shipped overseas with haste that dismayed engineers, and astonished everyone. Called by its right name, this was the destruction of evidence, and an obstruction of justice, brazenly carried out in plain view.
- (b.) Most purported “evidence” that hijackers were on any of the four airplanes, and that they may have been Arabs, is attributed to purported cell phone conversations between flight attendants and passengers and persons on the ground. Given the state of cell phone facilities and technology as of September 2001, it is highly unlikely that most of these communications would have gotten through to the ground.²⁷⁰ In some cases – e.g., the conflicting and timelineinconsistent conversations involving attendants on Flight 11 -- the conversation are implausible, or at best inconclusive, when their content is compared with other facts and allegations. Most of the communications are doubtful, also, in that technically it is unlikely that, given the state of cell phone facilities and technology as of September 2001, passengers on the airplanes would have been able to communicate with the ground via cell phones.

(c.) Astonishingly, although from the very day of 9-11 (e.g., remarks by Sen. Orrin Hatch) to the present, government and Commission officials have claimed to have firm evidence of membership in al-Qaeda of the nineteen accused hijackers, and to have reconstructed their movements and their activities in furtherance of the plot, more than seven months after the attacks FBI Director Robert S. Mueller III stated flatly:

In our investigation, we have not uncovered a single piece of paper — either here in the United States or in the treasure trove of information that has turned up in Afghanistan and elsewhere — that mentioned any aspect of the September 11 plot

Based on these and a great many other contradictions, impossibilities and implausibilities concerning the Official Story, to be presented at the trial, Class Plaintiff and/or Class Plaintiff Representative alleges upon information and belief that the Principal Defendants and each of them had express foreknowledge of the 9-11 attacks, and that the same would involve the hijacking or diversion of commercial aircraft and attempts to steer commandeered aircraft into landmark buildings in New York City and Washington, D.C. or environs.

Upon information and belief, the Principal Defendants and each of them engaged and/or collaborated with military, paramilitary, intelligence and/or secret service personnel of one or more of Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Israel, and/or other nations, which personnel participated in the recruitment, training, instruction, entry into the United States, financing and protection of the persons who actually carried out the attacks of 9-11.

From and after the time that each of them first learned that the 9-11 diversions of aircraft and attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon had occurred or were in progress, each of the Principal Defendants knew, or became aware not later than the day following the attacks, that (1) the same had been permitted to occur as the same would furnish a pretext to justify military attacks against the Taliban in Afghanistan, and the Saddam Hussein regime in Iraq; (2) the Enterprise demanded of each of them adherence to the “Official Story,” essentially that the attacks were planned and executed solely by foreign terrorists, Islamist under the direct or indirect control of Osama bin Laden; (3) the Enterprise demanded that each of the Principal Defendants conceal and continue to conceal the truth concerning Bush II Administration and U.S. military and government complicity in the attacks, and that they commit any such act(s), including perjury, the destruction and/or falsification of records, and the concealment of evidence under the pretext of “national security,” as might be or become necessary or convenient to prevent or delay the truth from becoming known to the public at large; and (4) the Enterprise demanded that each of the Principal Defendants do whatever might be asked of them, including but not limited to the commission of crimes including wire fraud, perjury, the giving of knowingly false testimony to Congress, in order to falsify, obscure and conceal the relationship between the 9-11 attacks, the complicity of Enterprise actors in carrying out the attacks and/or permitting the same to occur, and the objectives of the Enterprise enumerated in this complaint.

Upon information and belief, each and every one of the Principal Defendants, if any there were, who may be shown not to have been, prior to the 9-11 attacks, active co-conspirators with the persons who carried them out, became aware at or shortly following the attacks of their true character, and that they had been planned or permitted to occur by the Enterprise, and knowingly and actively participated in the concealment of the truth from Congress and the American public concerning (a) Bush II Administration and U.S. military and government complicity in the attacks; (b) the agenda that the Enterprise (and in fact has promoted and furthered with considerable success, and with attendant monetary and political gain to the Enterprise, the Principal Defendants, and their allies), and (c) the relationship between the 9-11 attacks and such agenda.

In the cover-up and concealment of the true character of the 9-11 attacks, complicity in the same on the part of Enterprise, Bush II Administration, and U.S. military and government personnel, and the relationship of the attacks to the Enterprise Agenda, each of the Principal Defendants has committed, or conspired to commit, one or more crimes including but not limited to mail fraud, wire fraud, perjury and/or the subornation of perjury, the destruction and/or the concealment of evidence, the killing, threatening, harassment, and/or otherwise tampering with witnesses, and obstruction of justice.

By carrying out the 9-11 attacks; causing the diversion of four commercial airline flights on 9-11 and the murder of all or many of the persons on board; by causing the planes or other aircraft, missiles or projectiles into the Pentagon and the World Trade Center; causing the demolition of WTC-7; and causing anthrax to be mailed to not fewer than five persons in October 2001, the Enterprise and its members are guilty of multiple crimes constituting “domestic terrorism,” within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2331.

By causing the diversion of Flight 11, Flight 175, Flight 77 and Flight 93 on 9-11, the persons on board said flights being willfully transported in interstate commerce, and such acts being committed within the special aircraft jurisdiction of the United States (as defined in 49 U.S.C. § 46501), the Enterprise and its members are guilty of kidnapping, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1201.

By reason of having taken control of, diverted, and destroyed the aircraft involved in the 9-11 attacks, the Enterprise and its members are guilty of the willful destruction of aircraft or aircraft facilities, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 32.

In connection with the diversion of four aircraft on 9-11, the Enterprise and its members are guilty of the crime of interference with commerce by threats or violence, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1951.

The Enterprise and each of its members is guilty, by reason of having supplied currency or monetary instruments or financial securities, financial services, lodging, training, expert advice or assistance, safe houses, false documentation or identification, communications equipment, facilities, weapons, lethal substances, explosives, personnel, transportation and other physical assets (except medicine or religious materials) to persons who carried out the 9-11 attacks, of violating 18 U.S.C. § 2339A, which prohibits providing material support to terrorists.

Defendants and each of them, by kidnapping and/or murdering approximately 2,993 persons in the attacks of 9-11 (including all of the persons on the four diverted aircraft, and persons killed when the aircraft, or other aircraft, missiles or projectiles, were flown into the Twin Towers and the Pentagon, and when explosives in the Twin Towers were detonated) and maiming additional persons injured in the attacks, did so in consideration for the receipt of, or as consideration for a promise or agreement to pay something of pecuniary value from an enterprise engaged in racketeering activity, or for the purpose of gaining entrance to or maintaining or increasing position in such an enterprise, are therefore guilty of violating 18 U.S.C. § 1959, which prohibits violent crimes in aid of racketeering activity.

In connection with the acts aforementioned in the last preceding paragraph, the Enterprise and its members are guilty of using interstate commerce facilities in the commission for murder for hire, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1958;

By supplying funds that were used, in full or in part, to carry out the 9-11 attacks, the Enterprise and its members violated 18 U.S.C. § 2339(C), which prohibits the financing of terrorism (including inter alia acts “intended to cause death or serious bodily injury to a civilianthe purpose of such act . . . is to intimidate a population . . .”)

If and to the extent that the Enterprise and its members may have, in the course of carrying out, enabling, or aiding and abetting the 9-11 attacks, provided any funds (or other material support or resources) to any organization designated a “terrorist organization” under 8 U.S.C. § 1189, they are guilty of violating 18 U.S.C. § 2339B, which prohibits providing material support or resources to designated terrorist organizations;

The Enterprise and each of its members are guilty, by reason of the anthrax attacks on Senators Daschle and Leahy, of violating 18 U.S.C. § 372, Conspiracy to impede or injure [an] officer;

The Enterprise and each of its members are guilty, by reason of sending anthrax bacteria via the U.S. Postal Service to not fewer than five individuals in October 2001, of violating 18 U.S.C. § 1716, which prohibits mailing “injurious articles” including “ all kinds of poison, and . . . all disease germs or scabs;”

The Enterprise and each of its members are guilty, by reason of abducting and/or aiding in and facilitating the abduction of minor children and young women, and providing them (by “sale” or otherwise) to government officials, members of the CIA and U.S. security organizations, and citizens of foreign nations including but not limited to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, of violating one or more of the following statutes: Title 18 U.S. Code §§ 2251, 2251A, 2252 and 2260 (relating to the sexual exploitation of children; 18 U.S.C. §§ 1581 through 1588 (relating to peonage and slavery); and/or 18 U.S.C. §§ 2421 through 2424 (relating to white slave traffic);

The Enterprise and each of its members are guilty, in connection with their extensive, worldwide and prolonged involvement with trafficking in cocaine, heroin, marihuana, and other drugs, of multiple acts of money laundering, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1956 and 1957;

The Enterprise and each of its members, and the Special Riot Defendants and each of them, by reason of having traveled to Florida in interstate commerce to commit riot (as defined in Fla. Stat. 836.05) in order to stop the recount of votes in the 2000 presidential election, are guilty of the federal crime of riot, as proscribed under 18 U.S.C. § 2101.

In the alternative, as to any of the Defendants who may not be guilty of themselves carrying out the felonies enumerated in this Count, such Defendants are guilty of conspiring to commit such acts, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 371, or as accessories after the fact who by reason thereof are guilty as if they were principals, see United States v. Patriarca, 912 F.Supp. 596, 627 (D. Mass. 1995).

By their acts described in foregoing paragraphs 257 through 277, the Principal Defendants, and others of the Defendants, knowing that multiple offenses against the United States had been committed, received, relieved, comforted, and/or assisted the offenders in order to hinder or prevent their apprehension, trial or punishment, and by so doing became accessories after the fact to multiple crimes including, but not limited to, kidnapping, arson, and murder, domestic terrorism, the willful destruction of aircraft or aircraft facilities, interference with commerce by threats or violence, violent crimes in aid of racketeering activity, using interstate commerce facilities in the commission for murder for hire, the financing of terrorism, and riot in connection with the forcible stopping of the recount of ballots in Florida following the 2000 presidential election. Insofar as the crimes enumerated are crimes within the jurisdiction of the United States, every defendant who was or became an accessory after the fact to such crime by so doing violated 18 U.S.C. § 3.

THE ENTERPRISE HAS ENGAGED IN A CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT ELECTION FRAUD.

The American patriot Tom Paine wrote, “The right of voting for representatives is the primary right by which all other rights are protected. To take away this right is to reduce a man to slavery.” Soviet dictator Josef Stalin supposedly said, “Those who cast the votes decide nothing. Those who count the votes decide everything.” In large and increasing part, “those who count the votes” in the United States are corporations owned by far-right Republicans, which corporations are beholden to (mostly) Republican politicians and appointed officeholders, who select the manufacturers of computerized voting machines, and favor them with lucrative contracts.

Following the debacle of “hanging” and “pregnant” chads in the 2000 presidential election in Florida, it was thought desirable to “modernize” voting by funding the replacement of old and, in some cases, unreliable equipment with more modern means to record and tabulate votes. However, the Enterprise – as a primary means of advancing its goal of de facto one-party (US President in joint participation with AKA Queen Elizabeth, the Rothschilds, Rockefellers) rule, while deceiving the broad public into believing that genuine “free democratic nation” exist in the United States -- has energetically seized upon this movement toward “modernization” to promote the adoption of so-called “black box” voting machines, which may be described, generally, as computerized (in many instances, touch-screen) devices, as have been in use for years in automated teller machines in banks. Such devices can be “hacked” from without, which is to say the results tampered with, e.g., by modem, with such tampering being difficult or impossible to detect.

As always, the Enterprise has not let pass any opportunity to promote its criminal agenda at public expense. Accordingly, the 2002 Help America Vote Act (“HAVA”) was pushed through Congress and, as a result, nearly $4 billion in federal funds have been invested to purchase electronic voting machines. It is estimated that, in the 2004 national elections, between 25% and 30% of the overall vote will be recorded using the new machines.

Under HAVA, there was to have been an oversight committee, headed by two Democrats and two Republicans, as well as a technical panel to determine standards for new voting machinery. These panels were not constituted in time, and thus tens of thousands of new machines have gone into use or been contracted for without the vetting that HAVA provided for.

Indeed, one members in the United States Senate, defendant Chuck Hagel of Nebraska, gained his office in 1996, and was re-elected in purported landslide in 2002, in elections in which roughly eighty percent of the vote statewide was tabulated by his own company.²⁷⁴ The company in question, Election Systems & Software, is owned by the McCarthy Group, founded in the 1990s by Michael McCarthy, campaign. The results promise to be catastrophic, although the Republicans no doubt will again by intimidation or thanks to their control of the courts turn the chaos to their advantage, which is the point of having voting machines that cannot be audited. See Rachel Konrad, “Activist: EVoting to be a ‘Train Wreck’”, Associated Press, 6/7/2004.

The indispensable work on the threat posed by computer touch-screen voting is Black Box Voting: Ballot Tampering in the 21st Century, by Bev Harris (2003). Hagel’s connections to the company that counted the votes in his Senate election, and his indiscretions in failing to disclose his connections on his Federal Elections Committee Personal Disclosure statements, have excited little attention in corporate-owned mainstream media director to Sen. Hagel during the 1996 and 2002 elections. Hagel, even after his re-election in 2002, owned up to $5 million in the McCarthy Group, as well as shares in AIS Investors, Inc., a group of investors in ES&S itself. Hagel’s election as the first Nebraska Republican to win a senate seat in 24 years was hailed by the Omaha World-Herald newspaper, which happens also to be a large investor in ES&S.

Hagel did not disclose owning or selling shares in AIS Investors Inc. to the Senate Ethics Committee, not did he disclose that ES&S is an underlying asset of the McCarthy Group. Following disclosures due to investigation by Black Box Voting author Bev Harris and Alexander Bolton, a reporter from The Hill. Senate Ethics Committee counsel, Victor Baird, resigned after meeting with Hagel’s staff on the subject in January 2002. Baird’s successor, Robert Walker, obligingly provided a looser interpretation regarding what Hagel ought to have disclosed. When Hagel’s defeated opponent in the 2002 Senate race, Charlie Matulka, wrote to Walker in October 2002 to request an investigation into Hagel’s ownership and non-disclosure of his interest in ES&S, Walker peremptorily dismissed Matulka's complaint as lacking merit.

The second biggest company in the electronic voting machine market is Sequoia. In 1999, the Justice Department filed federal charges against Sequoia, alleging that employees paid out more than $8 million in bribes. In 2001, election officials in Pinella County, Florida, cancelled a $15.5 million contract for voting equipment after discovering that Phil Foster, a Sequoia executive, faced indictment in Louisiana for money-laundering and corruption.

Diebold is probably the best known of the three major manufacturers, owing to its unsuccessful attempts to thwart the release of thousands of inter-office memos over the Internet. Those memos showed that Diebold executives were aware of bugs in the company's software, and warned that the network is poorly protected against hackers. Diebold also garnered negative publicity because of voting irregularities associated with its machines in the 2000 election in Florida. As a consequence of such bad publicity, and following an award of a contract to Diebold to supply machines statewide in Maryland, Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC) of San Diego, California was hired to review the Diebold Election Systems software. Following the debacle of "hanging" and "pregnant" chads in the 2000 presidential election in Florida, it was thought desirable to "modernize" voting by funding the replacement of old and, in some cases, unreliable equipment with more modern means to record and tabulate votes. However, the Enterprise – as a primary means of advancing its goal of de facto one-party (Republican) rule, while deceiving the broad public into believing that genuine electoral democracy continues to exist in the United States, has energetically seized upon this movement toward "modernization" to promote the adoption of so-called "black box" voting machines, which may be described, generally, as computerized (in many instances, touch-screen) devices, as have been in use for years in automated teller machines in banks. Certainly, SAIC is an ominous choice to insure the integrity of the voting software or, in light of its own history, the integrity of anything. SAIC is a large military defense contractor with a checkered history, and strong ties to the Enterprise.

328. A former president, chief operating officer and vice chairman of SAIC is Admiral Bill Owens. Owens served as vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and was a senior military assistant to Secretaries of Defense Frank C. Carlucci and Dick Cheney. Mr. Carlucci is a managing director of the Carlyle Group; Mr. Cheney of course is the Vice President.

Another former SAIC board member is Robert Gates, former CIA director and veteran of the Iran-Contra scandal.

In a July 26, 2003 article, AP correspondent Elliott Spagat wrote of SAIC that “The federal government, its main customer, often doesn’t want the public to know what the company is doing and, as one of the nation’s largest employee-owned corporations, it escapes investor scrutiny.”

In 1990, SAIC was indicted by the Justice Department on 10 felony counts for fraud in its management of a Superfund toxic cleanup site. SAIC pleaded guilty.

In 1993, the Justice Department sued SAIC, accusing it of civil fraud on an F-15 fighter contract. In May 1995, the same month SAIC purchased Network Solutions, Inc. (“NSA”), the company settled a suit that charged it had lied about security system tests it conducted for a Treasury Department currency plant in Fort Worth, Texas.

In 1992, one of SAIC’s government projects blew up in the firm’s face when it was charged with fabricating environmental testing from toxic waste dumps. SAIC eventually conceded to false claims, and paid $1.3 million in penalties, a small sum compared to the estimated $1.5 billion the firm was expected to earn in The Los Angeles Times cited local officials declaring SAIC to be guilty of the “largest environmental fraud...we’ve had here” and an example of “corporate greed.”

f. On November 15, 2000, a joint venture between SAIC and Bechtel was awarded the contract from the Department of Energy to manage and operate the Yucca Mountain program and support extensive DOE studies of Yucca Mountain’s geology, hydrology, and climate.

g. In a November 24, 2002 article the Associated Press reported, “Some workers at the Yucca Mountain Project said there were flaws in the process scientists used to determine whether the site was suitable for disposing of the nation’s nuclear waste. At least two workers claim they were either fired or transferred after raising concerns about the project’s safety.”

h. It is also disquieting to many internet users that SAIC, a secretive military-related company with strong ties to the CIA and covert agencies, purchased NSI, which had received the no-bid, no-compete monopoly contract to privatize the government agency that registered domain names on the internet. Thus the “shadow government” controls domain names on the internet.⁴¹⁹ SAIC has a recent contract to assist other corporations, including Northrop Grumman, in training the post-Saddam Hussein Iraqi army. Currently on SAIC’s board is ex-CIA director Bobby Ray Inman, whose tenure under President Reagan was marked by the prolongation of wars in Central America and Iran-Contra.

331. SAIC proudly lists DARPA as one of its prime clients. DARPA is a controversial subsidiary of the Department of Defense, which employed Admiral John Poindexter of Iran-Contra fame and a leading proponent of governing through a parallel or shadow government. Poindexter proposed a massive program of electronic spying on American citizens that, although not adopted outright due to the furor raised by civil libertarians, is believed to be ongoing in significant part through funds discreetly provided to other government agencies.

332. A lesson the Enterprise learned from the Bush-Gore 2000 presidential contest in Florida is that a true count delayed will probably be a true count denied. Thus, if “black box” machines can be made to yield initially-favorable results, ensuring Republican control of legislative majorities and key executive offices, the later detection of software designed to tabulate, as Republican votes, votes that the persons casting them intended for Democratic or other opponents, or the “hacking” of the results by modem or otherwise, will rarely if ever affect the outcome. By and large, the public wants speedy results. The threat of protracted court proceedings, which moreover involve arcane and technically dense issues, plus a highly-financed personal attack, whereby the Democratic candidate is attacked as a “sore loser” who is “trying to steal the election,” will deter effective protests to the theft of elections by “black box” voting.²⁷⁷ 333. Another, not-inconceivable weapon in the quiver of the Bush II Administration’s arsenal to stave off electoral defeat in November 2004 is the possibility of exploiting, or even engineering, a new “terror attack” (real or threatened) and call of the election altogether. A “trial balloon” to measure public reaction to such a possibility was sent aloft by Tom Ridge, Director of Homeland Security, in a recent press conference in which he solemnly intoned that, although DHS had no specific intelligence providing a target, date or location for the attack, the United States allegedly has “credible” information that al-Qaeda “is preparing a large-scale attack in the United States aimed at disrupting this year’s electoral process.”²⁷⁸ Such possibility is not to be discounted, especially in light of the President’s poor, even alarming performance in the first debate with Senator Kerry on September 30, 2004.

334. Among other problems encountered with electronic machines, as described in Bev Harris’s seminal work Black Box Voting, are that:

a. In the Alabama 2002 general election, machines made by ES&S flipped the governor’s race. Six thousand three hundred Baldwin County electronic votes mysteriously disappeared after the polls had closed, and everyone had gone home. Democrat Don Siegelman’s victory was handed to Republican Bob Riley. The recount Siegelman suggested was denied. “Something happened,” Mark Kelley of ES&S said. “I don’t have enough intelligence to say exactly what.”

- b. In the November 2002 general election in Scurry County, Texas, poll workers became suspicious about a landslide victory for two Republican candidates for commissioner. Told that a “bad chip” was to blame, they had a new computer chip flown in, and also counted the votes by hand. They found that the Democrats had, in fact, won by substantial margins.
- c. In 1986, Democrat Donn Peevy was running in Georgia for state senator in District 48. Electronic voting machines said he lost the election. After an investigation revealed that a Republican elections official had kept uncounted ballots in the trunk of his car, officials admitted that a computerized voting program had miscounted. Peevy insisted on a recount. His defeat was overturned.
- d. Harris quotes the Wall Street Journal as reporting that in the 2000 general election in Allamakee County, Iowa, an optical-scan machine was fed three hundred (300) ballots, and reported four million (4,000,000) votes. The equipment in that instance was made by ES&S.
- e. In the 1996 McLennan County, Texas, Republican primary runoff, one precinct tallied about 800 votes, although only 500 ballots had been ordered. With the insouciance that is all too typical when problems with electronic voting arise, the local Elections Administrator, Linda Lewis, said, “It’s a mystery.” The county Republican Party Chairman, M.A. Taylor, said, “We don’t think it’s serious enough to throw out the election.” Executives of black box voting machine manufacturers make issue. Other cynics pointed out that this “threat” was announced simultaneously with the announcement that Kenneth Lay, a close political ally of the Bush I and Bush II Administrations, had been indicted in connection with the collapse of Enron Corporation. The charge against the Bush II Administration of abusing vague terror threats has been leveled also by former anti-terror “czar” Richard Clarke. See “Terror Threat Political Game,” www.news24.com, 6/6/2004.
- 145 claims of 99.99% accuracy (or better) for their machines; election officials dismiss as trivial, as in this case in Texas, margins of error of 60%.
- f. In the 1994 general election in one precinct near Tucson, Arizona, 826 votes – roughly two-thirds of the votes cast – disappeared. No recount was done. Election officials blamed a “faulty computer program.”
- g. Tom Eschberger became a vice president of ES&S not long after he accepted an immunity deal for cooperating with prosecutors in a case against Arkansas Secretary of State Bill McCuen, who pleaded guilty to taking kickbacks and bribes in a scheme related to computerized voting systems.
- h. Dallas County, Texas employed a new, $4.8 million high-tech ballot system in the November 1998 election. It missed 41,015 votes, refusing to count votes from 98 precincts, telling itself that those votes had already been counted. Operators and election officials didn't realize they had a problem until after they had released "final" totals that omitted one in eight votes. ES&S, apparently intending to assure everyone that things were not all that bad, claimed that the votes were never "lost," but merely "uncounted."

i. In recent months, it has been in the news that Enterprise/U.S. government officials are seeking to undermine the left-leaning Chavez government in Venezuela. Not surprisingly, American "black box voting" manufacturers are plying their wares there. In May 2000, Venezuela's highest court suspended elections because of problems with the tabulation, sending an air force jet to Omaha to fetch ES&S technicians to attempt to fix the problem.

j. In the 1998 general election, computerized voting machines recorded no votes for 24 precincts in Pima County, Arizona, although voter rolls showed thousands had voted at those polling places. Pima used Global Election Systems machines, which now are sold under the Diebold Company name.

k. Officials in Broward County, Florida, the largely Democratic Ft. Lauderdale area in Jeb Bush's Florida, used new, unauditble ES&S machines in the November 5, 2002 election (in which Gov. Bush defeated his Democratic opponent). Officials said all precincts were included, and that the touch-screen machines had counted the vote without a major hitch. The next day, the County Elections Office discovered that 103,222 votes had not been counted.

l. In the 2000 general election, a single missing ballot box found in a Dade County, Florida church daycare center excited considerable media attention. 103,222 uncounted votes represent the rough equivalent of a thousand ballot boxes. Broward Deputy Elections Supervisor Joe Cotter called the mistake "a minor software thing."

m. ES&S machines were used in an election in Lake County, Illinois election held on April 1, 2003. Democrat Rafael Rivera sensed that something was awry when his own precinct showed zero votes for him. Having voted for himself, Rivera felt certain that the ES&S vote tally had to be in error.

n. Ten days after the November 2002 election, Richard Romero, a Bernalillo County, New Mexico, Democrat, noticed that 48,000 people had voted early on unauditble Sequoia touch-screen computers, but only 36,000 votes had been tallied. Sequoia vice president Howard Cramer apologized for not mentioning that the same problem had happened before in Clark County, Nevada. A "software patch" was installed, and Sequoia technicians in Denver e-mailed what they claimed were the correct results.

o. In a July 1998 election between Sharon Cooper, a moderate Republican, and more conservative Republican Richard Daniel, a "software programming error" caused some votes for Cooper to go unrecorded. According to news reports, the problem required "on-the-spot reprogramming.” As Harris observes, “on-the-spot reprogramming” is no answer at all, because it can be used to alter vote totals.

p. In November 2002, in Comal County, Texas, in an election using ES&S machines three winning Republican candidates in a row tallied exactly 18,181 votes. No one thought this was sufficient grounds for an audit.

q. In November 2000, in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, machines in Pittsburgh’s 12th and 13th wards and other predominantly black neighborhoods malfunctioned in Election Day. They began emitting smoke and spitting out jammed and crumbled paper. Poll workers waited hours for repairs; voters unable to spend most of the day waiting for the machines to be repaired were effectively disenfranchised.

The foregoing are but a sample of the difficulties encountered with electronic scanners and touch-screen voting machines. Literally hundreds of problems have been reported, with the *anomalies, in an overwhelming number of cases, favoring Republicans.*²⁷⁹

335. Bev Harris, probably America’s leading advocate for fair, verifiable voting, reports that the U.S. Secret Service is openly harassing her. According to Harris, a bogus “Vote Here” organization, its board laden with “defense industry types” such as former CIA Director Robert

Gates and Admiral Bill Owens of the Defense Policy Board” has claimed that its website was “hacked,” this hacking being blamed on activists who are protesting against unauditible computer voting and in favor of verifiable voting. These claims, according to Harris, have triggered repeated visits to Harris by the Secret Service, who display little interest in the supposed “hack” but a great deal of interest in internal memos, highly damning to Diebold, that appeared on the internet after being leaked.

336. Now, Harris claims, the federal agents are threatening to subpoena the logs from her website, including all forum messages and IP addresses – in other words, the identities of everyone whose interest in the voting issue has led them to log onto www.blackboxvoting.org. It is still unlawful, of course, for nosy federal agents to simply demand a list of all of the members of a group. What Harris alleges the government is trying to do is to misuse the “Patriot Act” to circumvent the law in that respect, to obtain the membership list and all of the correspondence from Harris’s organization. This is an unvarnished attempt, worthy of a frankly fascist government, to intimidate Harris and others who are active or might become active in efforts to ensure that the counting of votes in U.S. elections does not become the sole prerogative of rightwing corporations linked to the Republican Party and to the Enterprise, with the methodology of voting rigged to effectively foreclose recounts and verification.

337. Although “black box” voting machines are too subject to tampering to be trusted, the touchstone of the Enterprise’s efforts is its opposition, as a condition to the use of the black-box “Win an Election, Just Control the Voting Machines,” www.ejfi.org, originally published by Common Dreams (January 2003).

voting machines in elections, to the requirement that the machines produce a “paper trail” that can be audited in the event of a dispute. Certainly, the touch-screen and other electronic machines can be made more difficult to tamper with, by requiring that they be built to generate two paper receipts immediately following the casting of each elector’s vote. The voter would retain one such receipt, the other inserted into a locked box at the polling place, for a count by hand if necessary. Subject, obviously, to the condition that the voter have a sufficiently understandable receipt, and the effective opportunity to register a protest if the receipt does not match his or her intended vote, the “paper trail” would make the computerized devices more reliable.

The need for a “paper trail” as well as major media complicity with the Enterprise is underlined by the fact that exit polls, for years done through the joint efforts of major news organizations, have quietly been retired. When major news organizations, employing statistically-validated sampling techniques, questioned voters as they exited the polls, major discrepancies between the news consortia’s exit poll results and actual voting results as tabulated by rigged “black box” voting machines would raise alarms. As a consequence, the major media – all or most of which are controlled by corporations that wish for consolidations and privileges that are within the power of the Republican Party to bestow – have virtually abandoned exit polling, and have greatly under-reported the enormous scandal represented by the numerous problems encountered with electronic vote-scanners and touch-screen machines.

Diebold, of course, is best known to the public as the manufacturer of ATM machines, all of which offer a paper record to the user. It is impossible to assert that Diebold and the other principal “black box” manufacturers are not able to design their machines to yield a paper trail. Rather, as two at least of the three principal manufacturers -- Diebold and ES&S -- are integral components of the Enterprise, the truth is that these manufacturers don't want a paper trail. What they want is sales of equipment, and voting tabulated by computers that are little understood by the broad public and that can be discreetly tampered with, while maintaining a façade of being “up-to-date” and more reliable than paper ballots or other means of recording votes.

Two additional circumstances are important to mention in respect of electronic voting, and the plans of the Enterprise to rig all future elections. One is that Northrop-Grumman, Lockheed-Martin, and Accenture (formerly known as Andersen Consulting, a part of Arthur Anderson) were major promoters of HAVA and are supporting an “alliance” to “deliver comprehensive election solutions to governments worldwide.” “Solutions,” in the lexicon of the military-industrial complex, global corporations, and the CIA, apparently means to maintain the appearance of electoral democracy, while eliminating the unseemly possibility that the “wrong people might win.”

On February 25, 2004, there appeared in the Free Press of Columbus, Ohio, an article by Bob Fittrakis entitled “Diebold, Electronic Voting and the Vast Right-Wing Conspiracy.” That article praised Athan Gibbs, an accountant who had devised a “TruVote” machine that Fittrakis described as follows: After voters touch the screen, a paper ballot prints out under Plexiglas and once the voter compares it to his actual vote and approves it, the ballot drops into a lockbox and is issued a numbered receipt. The voter’s receipt allows the track of his particular vote to make sure that it was transferred from the polling place to the election tabulation center.

Gibbs was quoted as saying the following about electronic voting machines that do not provide any paper trail: Bob Fittrakis, “Death of a patriot: no more,” The Free Press, 03/17/2004.

I've been an accountant, an auditor, for more than thirty years. Electronic voting machines that don't supply a paper trail go against every principle of accounting and auditing that's being taught in American business schools...No business in America would buy a machine that didn't provide a paper trail to audit and verify its transaction. Now, they want the people to purchase machines that you can't audit? It's absurd.

343. TruVote inventor Athan Gibbs, whom Fittrakis described as “the man asking the obvious question, and demonstrating an obvious tangible solution,” was killed when an 18-wheeler struck his auto on March 12, 2004. 433. The issue of paper receipts continues to be a divisive one. Officials are dismissing demands for paper receipts as limited to a “tiny, vocal minority” and claiming that retrofitting electronic machines with paper receipts in time for the 2004 election would cause “chaos.” Los Angeles election chief Conny B. McCormack said that “touch screens have a proven track record of doing the best job.” This is both untrue and ignores that it is impossible to measure honestly the performance of voting machines that *are designed so as to be impossible to audit.*²⁸¹

F. ADDITIONAL PREDICATE ACTS UNDER THE RICO ANTI-RACKETEERING STATUTE: THE ENTERPRISE’S FLORIDA RECOUNT RIOT

In July 2002, hundreds of pages of Bush-Cheney 2000 campaign and/or recount committee documents were released to the Internal Revenue Service. These records showed expenditures of about $13.8 million by the Bush committee(s) to stop the recount of votes in Florida.

Dan Keating, “Paper Receipts Opposed for Voting Machines,” Washington Post, 05/06/2004. Most of the facts in this section are from Kate Randall, “Bush campaign organized Republican riot to halt Miami-Dade recount,” www.wsws.org (11/29/2000) which is based in part on reporting in the Wall Street Journal of 11/17/2000, and/or Robert Parry, “Bush’s Conspiracy to Riot,” www.consortiumnews.com, 08/05/2002, which quotes (among other sources), Down and Dirty, Jake Tapper’s book about the recount battle.

According to the records, during the 36-day recount battle that culminated in the Supreme Court decision that gave the presidency to George W. Bush, his campaign (or his recount committee) put about 250 staffers on payroll, spent about $1.2 million to fly operatives to Florida (and elsewhere) and paid hotel bills adding up to about $1 million. A fleet of corporate jets was assembled – including planes supplied by Enron and Halliburton – to add flexibility to travel arrangements.

On November 22, 2000, a violent crowd of about 150 Bush supporters rampaged through Miami’s County Hall, after the canvassing board decided to concentrate its recount on the approximately 10,000 “undervotes.” The Republican demonstrators banged and kicked on the doors and windows of the 19th floor office where the board had moved the count, and assaulted a number of Democratic Party representatives who were present.

Shortly after this disturbance, the canvassing board stopped its manual recount, which had been authorized the previous day by the Florida Supreme Court. Thus, the “Brooks Brothers Riot” succeeded in its purpose of stopping the lawful recount of votes.

After the “Brooks Brothers Riot,” following a lavish dinner given for the Republican operatives at the Hyatt Hotel in Ft. Lauderdale, a conference call from George W. Bush and Cheney, including joking references approving of the previous day’s incident in Miami, was broadcast to the rioters and others. IRS records show that the “stop the recount” celebration cost the Bush recount committee $35,501.52.

Upon information and belief, the Republican operatives sent to Florida were recruited by Republican Congressional Whip Tom DeLay, offering free travel, accommodations and food in Florida, all paid for by the Bush campaign. Reportedly, New York Republican Congressman John Sweeney issued a specific directive for Republican thugs to “shut it down” (referring to the Miami-Dade recount) and this was transmitted to the “troops” by Brendan Quinn, executive director of the Republican Party from New York.

In addition to stopping the recount on November 22, 2000, the “Brooks Brothers Riot” and other violent and menacing conduct likely affected the vote of Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, who reportedly, like many commentators, considered that Republicans posed such a threat of widespread violence were the election outcome to be unfavorable, that it was in the national interest to award the election to Bush, notwithstanding the thinness of the legal arguments in favor of so doing.

Whether they affected the outcome or not, the rioters’ conduct constituted the crime of extortion under the law of Florida, where the riot occurred. Plaintiff asks the Court to take judicial notice of Fla. Stat. 836.05, and/or federal Statute _____ “Threats, extortion,” which in relevant part provides that:

a. Whoever . . . verbally . . . maliciously threatens...an injury to the person . . . of another . . . with an intent to compel the person so threatened, or any other person, to do any act or refrain from doing any act against his or her will, shall be guilty of a felony of the second degree.

Upon information and belief, each of defendants Schlapp, Pyle, Murphy, Malphrus, Royal, and Smith were present at the canvassing board office, and took part in the “Brooks Brothers Riot” of November 22, 2000.

Upon information and belief, each of defendants Schlapp, Pyle, Murphy, Malphrus, Royal, and Smith traveled to Florida from out of state, which is to say that each of them crossed state lines using facilities in interstate commerce, upon the direct or indirect orders of persons including defendants DeLay and Sweeney, to take part in the “Brooks Brothers Riot” and other, similar coercive activities, with the specific intent of stopping the recount of votes in areas thought likely to produce additional votes for Vice President Gore.

354. Upon information, at or immediately prior to their travels to Florida to take part in the “Brooks Brothers Riot” and other “dirty tricks” and unlawful, intimidating and coercive activities for the Bush-Cheney 2000 ticket, all of defendants Schlapp, Pyle, Murphy, Malphrus, Royal and Smith were employed by Republican politicians, or other Party-affiliated agencies.

Schlapp was a Bush campaign staffer based in Austin. Pyle was a staff aide to House Majority White Tom DeLay. Murphy was a fund-raiser for Rep. DeLay. Malphrus was majority chief counsel to the House Judiciary subcommittee on criminal justice. Royal was a legislative aide to

Rep. Jim DeMint (R-SC). Smith was a former Republican House staffer.

355. Each of said Defendants received payment of monies from the Bush-Cheney campaign committee in connection with his activities in Florida during the election recount controversy.

356. Defendant Schapp was further rewarded for his unlawful actions with a job in the White House, as a special assistant to the President. Malphrus was likewise awarded with a job as Deputy Director of the President’s Domestic Policy Council.

On or about ____ Plaintiff allege Bush, and co-conspired did unlawfully delivered, placed, discharged, or detonated several explosive or other lethal device in, into, or against a place of public use, a state or government facility, a public transportation system, or infrastructure facilities of the twin towers, the pentagon, with the intent to cause death or serious bodily injury, or with the intent to cause extensive destruction of such a place, facility, or system, where such destruction results in or is likely to result in major economic loss, in violation of 18 U.S. Code § 2332f

A PETITION FILED WITH THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Petitioners allege that the Government of Kuwait systematically violated the fundamental human rights of those living under its jurisdiction, particularly noncitizens of Kuwait. These violations were particularly egregious in the months following the end of the Iraqi occupation in 1991, the time period in which petitioners and other members of their family were subject to gross violations of their human rights, including summary execution, torture, cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment, discrimination based on national origin and gender-based discrimination.

Victims have been gunned down in public or taken away, tortured and killed in secret. Hundreds of victims were plucked from their homes, taken from streets or arrested at check-points, many to be tortured. . . Torture is said to have been rife, including beatings, electrical shocks and prolonged deprivation of food and water, and medical care virtually non-existent.(4)

Much of the abuse constituted "collective punishment" against noncitizens, solely because of their national origin. Amnesty International noted that "many people seem to have been targeted simply because of their nationality." The New York based Lawyers Committee for Human Rights concluded,

The post-war treatment of non-Kuwaitis by the Kuwaiti authorities has been redolent of collective punishment. Palestinians, Sudanese and nationals of other Arab states...have been singled out for harsh treatment simply on the basis of their nationality...regardless of [their] individual behavior during the occupation. (5) Although the worst of the human rights abuses had ceased by early 1992, this "accomplishment" was largely the result of the forced expulsion of approximately 90 percent of the noncitizens who formerly resided in Kuwait. Many people who had lived their entire lives in Kuwait were forced out and have been prevented from returning to their homes. As noted by Middle East Watch, the U.S.-based human rights organization, "The violence of the early months of liberation [was] increasingly ...supplanted by an inhumane and illegal deportation process.(6)

The pattern of gross human rights abuses documented by international human rights groups demonstrates that the abuses inflicted on the Farhat family were representative of the suffering of Kuwait's noncitizen population. These gross violations of international human rights protections must be investigated by this Committee.

III. VIOLATIONS OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

Kuwait's gross violations of the human rights of its noncitizen population--of which the attack on the Farhat family is but one egregious example--violated several of the most fundamental principles of international law. These violations are subject to review under the procedures established by Resolution 1503, which authorizes complaints by individuals who have evidence of a "consistent pattern of gross and reliably attested violations of human rights and fundamental freedoms."(7) Such violations include "all human rights and fundamental freedoms recognized in widely ratified international conventions." (8) As detailed below, the government of Kuwait bears responsibility for egregious violations of the fundamental international law protections against summary execution, torture and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment, discrimination based on national origin, and gender-based discrimination.

Clinton and U.S. Violates International Law with Missile Strike on Afghanistan and Sudan

Once again President Clinton and the United States on August 20, 1998 violated international law with a pre-emptive cruise missile attack on four "terrorist" camps in eastern Afghanistan and a pharmaceutical plant in Khartoum.²¹ 21 were killed in Afghanistan and 30 were wounded there; at least ten workers were wounded in the Khartoum medical drug factory. In his speech to the nation from the White House oval office timed to dominate the news on another day of testimony before the grand jury by Monica Lewinsky, Clinton tried to justify the attack as "self-defense." However, Article 51 of the United Nations Charter only allows the inherent right of self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a Member of the United Nations," not as a pre-emptive strike against some feared attack in the future. The United States Justice Department claimed the attack did not violate U. S. laws because of a 1996 U. S. anti-terrorism law, but they did not address the issue of international law. When a more obvious motivation for the strike is as a retaliatory reaction to the bombings of the U. S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, who is going to believe this rationalization on a question of mass murder from the lips of Bill Clinton, who has so recently admitted deceiving the public about a little sex with a White House intern? The strikes were apparently aimed at the business and terrorist activities of Arab Osama bin Laden. Ironically bin Laden (like Saddam Hussein's Iraq in its war with Iran) is a former war ally of the U. S. Government in its attacks on Soviet forces in Afghanistan. In fact the four terrorist camps targeted in that country were primarily built and armed with U. S. money during that war. Once again the United States is fighting with its own Frankenstein's monster it has created itself. Clinton's claim that this attack was not aimed at Islam is not likely to be believed in the Muslim world.

The United States has recently also showed its contempt for international law by refusing to sign the treaty banning land mines and by not cooperating with efforts to establish an international court for criminal justice.

B. The Pattern of Gross Human Rights Abuses

[T]he newly reinstated Kuwaiti government has trampled on [human] rights at nearly every turn, often with the use of violence. Murder, torture, arbitrary detention and deportation have been the tools of this campaign of vengeance . . . Kuwait's human rights conduct since liberation has been nothing short of deplorable.⁽³⁾

The months following the liberation of Kuwait saw a brutal campaign of human rights violations against those whose allegiance to the Kuwaiti government was considered suspect, including virtually all of the noncitizens of Kuwait (who comprised a large segment of the pre-invasion population) as well as Kuwaitis working for a more democratic government. These abuses included widespread summary executions; systematic torture and other mistreatment in detention, often leading to death; arbitrary arrests and detention without trial; hundreds of disappearances; and charade trials which resulted in long prison terms imposed without internationally recognized due process protections.

Amnesty international stated in an April 1991 report,

Victims have been gunned down in public or taken away, tortured and killed in secret. Hundreds of victims were plucked from their homes, taken from streets or arrested at check-points, many to be tortured. . . Torture is said to have been rife, including beatings, electrical shocks and prolonged deprivation of food and water, and medical care virtually non-existent.(4)

A. The Responsibility of the Government of Kuwait

The Kuwaiti government is responsible under international law for both the attack on the Farhat family and for the pattern of summary execution, torture and the other abuses described above.

PREDICATE ACT # 4 (and/or Conspiracy to engage in a pattern of RICO Activity) PREDICATE ACTS – BUSH ACTS OF AGGRESSION WAR CRIMES

NUREMBERG OUTLAWED THE CRIME OF AGGRESSION: THE “SUPREME INTERNATIONAL CRIME”

AKA GEORGE H. BUSH, GEORGE W. BUSH, JEB BUSH, BILL CLINTON, HILLARY CLINTON, BARAK OBAMA, MICHELLE OBAMA, ERIC HOLDER, GEORGE W. BUSH, RICHARD B. CHENEY, DONALD H. RUMSFELD, and PAUL WOLFOWITZ all broke the law in conspiring to breach the international Geneva peace treaties, and committing the crimes against racial, ethnic or religious groups, the United States of aggression, war crimes, genocide against the people of Iraq, other members of racial, ethnic or religious groups. he war against Iraq as early as 1990; manipulated the United States public to support the war by scaring them with images of “mushroom clouds” and conflating the Hussein regime with al-Qaeda; made intentional misrepresentations to the International Community, and broke Federal, State and international law by commencing the invasion without proper legal authorization.

IRAQ WAR

More than sixty years ago, American prosecutors in Nuremberg, Germany convicted Nazi leaders of the crimes of conspiring and waging wars of aggression. They found the Nazis guilty of planning and waging wars that had no basis in law and which killed millions of innocents.

Class Plaintiff s – now a single mothers living as a refugee in various places around the world were innocent civilian victim and of the Iraq War. The Class Plaintiff seeks justice under the Nuremberg principles and United States law for the damages suffered and others like suffered because of Defendants' premeditated plan to invade Iraq. At the end of World War II, the United States and its allies put Nazi leaders on trial for their crimes, including crimes against humanity and war crimes. But the chief crime prosecuted against the Nazis was the crime of aggression: engaging in a premeditated war without lawful reason.

Count One of the Nuremberg indictment charged Nazi leaders with a “Common Plan or Conspiracy” to engage in “Crimes against Peace, in that the defendants planned, prepared, initiated wars of aggression, which were also wars in violation of international treaties, agreements, or assurances.” In his opening statement to the Tribunal, Chief Counsel for the United States Robert H. Jackson stated “This Tribunal . . . represents the practical effort of four of the most mighty of nations, with the support of 17 more, to utilize international law to meet the greatest menace of our times – aggressive war.” Chief Prosecutor Jackson argued, “The Charter of this Tribunal evidences a faith that the law is not only to govern the conduct of little men, but that even rulers are, as Lord Chief Justice Coke put it to King James, ‘under God and the law.’” (Id.) (emphasis added). Chief Prosecutor Jackson argued, “Any resort to war – to any kind of a war – is a resort to means that are inherently criminal. War inevitably is a course of killings, assaults, deprivations of liberty, and destruction of property.” (Emphasis added). He continued, “The very minimum legal consequence of the treaties making aggressive wars illegal is to strip those who incite or wage them of every defense the law ever gave, and to leave war-makers subject to judgment by the usually accepted principles of the law of crimes.” Chief Prosecutor Jackson recognized that the crime of aggression applied to the United States. He argued, “We must never forget that the record on which we judge these defendants today is the record on which history will judge us tomorrow. To pass these defendants a poisoned chalice is to put it to our own lips as well.” The International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg found Nazi leaders guilty of the crimes of conspiracy to engage in a war of aggression and the crime of aggression. The Tribunal stated, “The charges in the Indictment that the defendants planned and waged aggressive wars are charges of the utmost gravity.

War is essentially an evil thing.

Its consequences are not confined to the belligerent states alone, but affect the whole world.” (Emphasis added). The Tribunal held, “To initiate a war of aggression, therefore, is not only an international crime; it is the supreme international crime differing only from other war crimes in that it contains within itself the accumulated evil of the whole.” (Emphasis added). The Tribunal rejected the defendants’ argument that Adolf Hitler was solely to blame for the acts of aggression. “[T]hose who execute the plan do not avoid responsibility by showing that they acted under the direction of the man who conceived it. Hitler could not make aggressive war by himself.” (Emphasis added). High-ranking Nazis, including Hermann Göring, Alfred Jodl and Wilhelm Keitel were sentenced to death for their crimes.

THE PROJECT FOR THE NEW AMERICAN CENTURY

. In 1997, William Kristol and Robert Kagan formed a think tank in Washington DC called “The Project for the New American Century,” or

“PNAC.” PNAC included as members Defendants CHENEY, RUMSFELD and WOLFOWITZ. On January 26, 1998, Defendants RUMSFELD and WOLFOWITZ signed a letter⁴ to then President William J. Clinton, requesting that the United States implement a “strategy for removing Saddam’s regime from power,” which included a “willingness to undertake military action as diplomacy is clearly failing.” Removing Saddam from power had to “become the aim of American foreign policy.” (Emphasis added)<http://werle.rewi.hu-berlin.de/IMTJudgment.pdf><http://www.newamericancentury.org/iraqclintonletter.htm>

From 1997 to 2000, PNAC produced several documents advocating the military overthrow of Saddam Hussein. On May 29, 1998,⁶ Defendants RUMSFELD and WOLFOWITZ signed a letter to then Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich and Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott in which they advocated that “U.S. policy should have as its explicit goal removing Saddam Hussein’s regime from power and establishing a peaceful and democratic Iraq in its place,” which included the use of “U.S. and allied military power . . . to help remove Saddam from power.” On September 18, 1998,⁷ Defendant WOLFOWITZ gave testimony before the House National Security Committee on Iraq in which he stated that the United States had to “liberate[e] the Iraqi people from Saddam’s tyrannical grasp and free Iraq’s neighbors from Saddam’s murderous threats.” Defendant WOLFOWITZ advocated that the United States establish a “safe protected zone in the South” and form a provisional government that would “control the largest oil field in Iraq.” (Emphasis added). Through PNAC, Defendants CHENEY, RUMSFELD and WOLFOWITZ advocated for the military overthrow of Saddam Hussein and the invasion of Iraq.

ONCE IN POWER, DEFENDANTS USE 9/11 AS COVER TO PLAN THEIR AGGRESSIVE WAR AGAINST IRAQ

In January 2001, Defendant BUSH was sworn in as 43rd President of the United States. Defendant CHENEY was Defendant BUSH’s Vice President. Defendant BUSH appointed Defendants RUMSFELD, WOLFOWITZ, RICE and POWELL to high-ranking positions within his administration. On September 11, 2001, Saudi Arabian terrorists with links to <http://www.newamericancentury.org/iraqmiddleeast2000-1997.htm> <http://www.newamericancentury.org/iraqletter1998.htm> <http://www.newamericancentury.org/iraqsep1898.htm> an Afghan-based group called “al-Qaeda,” and headed by Osama bin Laden, hijacked four planes and committed terrorist acts against the American people. According to British journalist John Kampfner,⁸ the day of the 9/11 attacks, Defendants WOLFOWITZ and RUMSFELD openly pushed for war against Iraq – despite the fact that the 9/11 hijackers were Saudi Arabian and had been based out of

Afghanistan. Defendant RUMSFELD asked, "Why shouldn't we go against Iraq, not just al-Qaeda?" with Defendant WOLFOWITZ adding that

Iraq was a "brittle, oppressive regime that might break easily—it was doable." Kampfner writes, "from that moment on, he and Wolfowitz used every available opportunity to press the case." According to Richard A. Clarke,⁹ the former National Coordinator for Security, Infrastructure Protection and Counter-terrorism (and who worked for Presidents George H.W. Bush and William Clinton) Defendants WOLFOWITZ, RUMSFELD and BUSH sought to use 9/11 as an excuse to attack Iraq. On Wednesday, September 12, 2001, the day after 9/11, Richard A. Clarke heard Defendant RUMSFELD state that the United States had to broaden its objectives by "getting Iraq."¹⁰ Defendant POWELL pushed back, urging a focus on al-Qaeda. Richard A. Clarke stated, "Having been attacked by al-Qaeda, for us now to go bombing Iraq in response would be like our invading Mexico after the Japanese attacked us at Pearl Harbor." Later in the day, Richard A. Clarke heard Defendant RUMSFELD complain that there were no decent targets for bombing in Afghanistan and that the United States military should consider bombing Iraq, 9 This information is lifted from press articles and Richard A. Clarke, Against All Enemies – Inside America's War On Terror (Free Press 2004).

which, he said, had better targets. At first Richard A. Clarke thought Rumsfeld was joking. But he was serious, and Defendant BUSH did not reject out of hand the idea of attacking Iraq. Instead, Defendant BUSH noted that what the United States needed to do with Iraq was to change the government, not just hit it with more cruise missiles, as Defendant RUMSFELD had implied. On September 12, 2001, the day after the 9/11 attacks, Defendant BUSH approached Richard A. Clarke and a few other people and stated,

"I know you have a lot to do and all, but I want you, as soon as you can, to go back over everything, everything. See if Saddam did this. See if he's linked in any way." Richard A. Clarke was again incredulous. He responded, "But, Mr. President, Al Qaeda did this." Defendant BUSH responded, "I know, I know, but - see if Saddam was involved. Just look. I want to know any shred—" "Absolutely, we will look again," Richard A. Clarke answered. "But you know, we have looked several times for state sponsorship of Al Qaeda and not found any real linkages to Iraq. Iran plays a little, as does Pakistan, and Saudi Arabia, Yemen." "Look into Iraq, Saddam," Defendant BUSH responded.

39. According to Richard A. Clarke, the Bush Administration had been focused on Iraq prior to the attacks of 9/11: so focused that they failed to listen to warnings that al-Qaeda-linked terrorists were planning a spectacular attack. For example, on January 25, 2001, four days after Defendant BUSH was inaugurated, Richard A. Clarke wrote to RICE and asked for a cabinet-level meeting to discuss the threat posed by al-Qaeda and suggesting how the United States should respond. RICE downgraded Richard A. Clarke's position so that he no longer had direct access to the president, a privilege he had enjoyed under President Clinton. In April 2001, Richard A. Clarke met with Defendant WOLFOWITZ to discuss the threat posed by al-Qaeda. Defendant WOLFOWITZ responded, "I just don't understand why we are beginning by talking about this one man bin Laden." He told Richard A. Clarke, "You give bin Laden too much credit. He could not do all these things like the 1993 attack on New York, not without a state sponsor. Just because FBI and CIA have failed to find the linkages does not mean they don't exist."

Defendant WOLFOWITZ was repeating a discredited theory that Iraq had been behind the 1993 attack, which was not true. On August 6, 2001, Defendant BUSH received a briefing from the CIA entitled, "Bin Laden [sic] Determined To Strike US." Defendants were on notice of an attack against the United States by al-Qaeda but failed to listen to warnings of an attack because they were too focused on looking for ways to attack Iraq.

IN JULY 2002, THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT AKA QUEEN ELIZABETH AND HER MILITARY LEARNS THAT DEFENDANTS PLAN TO INVADE IRAQ AND "FIX" INTELLIGENCE AROUND THE INVASION

In July 2002, high-ranking British politicians, including Prime Minister Tony Blair, Foreign Secretary Jack Straw and Attorney General Lord Goldsmith met to discuss intelligence on Iraq. This meeting was memorialized in a secret memorandum that has since been leaked.¹⁴ During that meeting, head of Secret Intelligence Service Sir Richard Dearlove reported on his recent meetings in the United States. He stated, "There was a perceptible shift in attitude. Military http://www.cbsnews.com/8301-18560_162-607774.html

But the intelligence and facts were being fixed around the policy." (Emphasis added).

The meeting went on to discuss likely American military options, including a "slow build-up of 250,000 US troops, a short (72 hour) aircampaign, then a move up to Baghdad from the south." Foreign Secretary Jack Straw stated that it seemed clear that Defendant BUSH had "made up his mind" to take military action, even if the timing was not yet decided. Foreign Secretary Straw noted, "But the case was thin. Saddam was not threatening his neighbours, and his WMD capability was less than that of Libya, North Korea or Iran." The Attorney General of the United Kingdom affirmed that there was no legal justification for the war. "[T]he desire for regime change was not a legal base for military action. There were three possible legal bases: selfdefence, humanitarian intervention, or UN [Security Counsel] authorisation. The first and second could not be the base in this case. Relying on UNSCR 1205 of three years ago would be difficult. The situation might of course change."

In August 2002, the White House established a group called the White House Iraq Group (“WHIG”), the purpose of which was to convince the American public into supporting a war against Iraq. Defendant RICE was a member of WHIG, along with Karl Rove, I. Lewis (“Scooter”) Libby, and otherhigh-ranking Bush Administration officials. At a September 5, 2002 WHIG meeting, the term “smokinggun/mushroom cloud” was unveiled related to the supposed nuclear dangers posedby Saddam Hussein. According to Newsweek columnist Michael Isikoff, “Theoriginal plan had been to place it in an upcoming presidential speech, but WHIGmembers fancied it so much that when the Times reporters contacted the WhiteHouse to talk about their upcoming piece [about aluminum tubes], one of them leaked Gerson’s phrase and the administration would soon make maximum use of it.” On September 7, 2002 unnamed White House officials told the New York Times¹⁶ that the Bush Administration was unveiling this strategy to “persuade the public, the Congress and the allies of the need to confront the threatfrom Saddam Hussein.” The New York Times also reported that White House Chief ofStaff Andrew Card, Jr., explained that the Bush Administration waited until afterLabor Day to begin this push because “From a marketing point of view you don’tintroduce new products in August.” The New York Times reported that the centerpiece of thestrategy would be to use Mr. Bush’s “speech on September 11 to help moveAmericans towards support of action against Iraq, which could come early nextyear.” An August 10, 2003 article in the Washington Post confirmedthat during this period from September 2002 to the initiation of the war,Defendants engaged in a “pattern” of “depicting Iraq’s nuclear weapons programas more active, more certain and more imminent in its threat than the data they hadwould support.”

On September 8, 2002, Defendant RICE told CNN’s LateEdition that Saddam Hussein was “actively pursuing a nuclear weapon.” “ThereMichael Isikoff and David Corn, Hubris: The Inside Story of Spin, Scandal, and the Selling of the Iraq War (Crown Publishers, New York, September 8, 2006),p. 35.<http://www.nytimes.com/2002/09/07/us/traces-of-terror-the-strategy-bushaides-set-strategy-to-sell-policy-on-iraq.html><http://www.washingtonpost.com/wpdyn/content/article/2006/06/12/AR2006061200932.html> will always be some uncertainty about how quickly he can acquire nuclear weapons but we don’t want the smoking gun to be a mushroom cloud.”

In 2008,¹⁸ former Bush aide and press secretary ScottMcClellan would write that Defendants engaged in a “political propagandacampaign” aimed at “manipulating sources of public opinion.”

DEFENDANTS FALSELY LINK AL-QAEDA TO IRAQ

Despite the fact that there has never been any proof of any operational cooperation between al-Qaeda and Iraq, Defendants engaged in a pattern and practice of deceiving the American public into believing that such a link existed, in order to win public approval for the crime of aggression against Iraq. On October 7, 2002, Defendant BUSH told the American Public that "Iraq and al Qaeda have had high-level contacts that go back a decade. Some al Qaeda leaders who fled Afghanistan went to Iraq. These include one very senior al Qaeda leader who received medical treatment in Baghdad this year, and who have been associated with planning for chemical and biological attacks. We've learned that Iraq has trained al Qaeda members in bomb-making and poisons and deadly gases. And we know that after September the 11th, Saddam Hussein's regime gleefully celebrated the terrorist attacks on America." In this same speech, Defendant BUSH claimed that Saddam Hussein had a group of "nuclear mujahideen – his nuclear holy warriors." On October 14, 2002, Defendant BUSH stated that Saddam Hussein "has had connections with al Qaeda. This is a man who, in my judgment.

would like to use al Qaeda as a forward army."²⁰

Defendant BUSH made these statements despite the fact that ten days after the 9/11 attacks (see attached exh. ____ events and occurrences 2.3 Trillion dollars missing), he was told in his daily brief ("PDB") from the CIA that there was no evidence linking Iraq to 9/11 and scant evidence that Iraq had any collaborative ties with al Qaeda. A Defense Intelligence Agency document from February 2002 confirmed that the source of the intelligence linking Iraq to al Qaeda was a likely fabricator and "intentionally misleading" his interrogators.²² The report concluded, "Saddam's regime is intensely secular and is wary of Islamic revolutionary movements. Moreover, Baghdad is unlikely to provide assistance to a group it cannot control." On December 9, 2001, Defendant CHENEY alleged that an Iraqi intelligence officer met with one of the 9/11 hijackers (Mohammed Atta) in the Czech Republic. He repeated this allegation again in September 2003. No such meeting took place, and in 2006, Defendant CHENEY retracted this statement. In February 2003, Defendant POWELL gave a speech to the United Nations Security Council on the issue of Iraq, considered critical to winning approval for military action. In that speech, Defendant POWELL stated that Iraq associated collaborator of Osama bin Laden and his al-Qaeda lieutenants.” He stated that Saddam Hussein was “more willing to assist al-Qaida after the 1998 bombings of [US] embassies in Kenya and Tanzania.” He alleged that, “From the late 1990s until 2001, the Iraqi Embassy in Pakistan played the role of liaison to the Al Qaeda organization.”. In a 2005 interview with ABC News, Defendant POWELL admitted he felt “terrible” about this speech and considered it a “blot” on his record. When asked about a specific Iraq and al-Qaeda connection, Defendant POWELL admitted, “I have never seen a connection . . . I can’t think otherwise because I’d never seen evidence to suggest there was one.”

Defendant POWELL thus admitted that the allegations given in his speech were untrue.

DEFENDANTS COMMIT THE CRIME OF AGGRESSION AGAINST IRAQ, AND PERSON OR RACIAL, ETHNIC OR RE

On March 19, 2003, the United States, upon the order of Defendant BUSH and in coordination with other Defendants, invaded Iraq. Defendants failed to secure United Nations authorization for the war. Article 39 of the United Nations Charter requires the United Nations Security Council to “determine the existence of any threat to the peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression and shall make recommendations, or decide what measures shall be taken in accordance with Articles 41 and 42 to maintain or restore international peace and security.” No such determination was ever or has ever been made by the United Nations Security Council. On March 19, 2003, there was no imminent disaster or event in Iraq requiring the intervention of a foreign power.

On March 19, 2003, Iraq did not pose an imminent military threat requiring the use of the American military in self-defense. Even had Iraq posed an imminent military threat on March 19, 2003 (which it did not), the invasion of Iraq was not reasonably related or proportionate to the threat posed. On September 14, 2004, United Nations Secretary General Kofi

Annan stated,²⁸ “I have indicated it was not in conformity with the UN charter. From our point of view and from the charter point of view it was illegal.”

Iraq

In October, a study published in the Environmental Contamination and Toxicology bulletin found “compelling evidence” to link increased rates of miscarriages and developmental disabilities in children in Fallujah and Basrah to environmental toxins left by US military operations in those areas.

Refugees and Displacement

According to the United Nations high commissioner for refugees, nearly 30,000 Syrian refugees have fled to Iraq since armed conflict began in Syria in 2011. Iraq closed the al-Qaim border to Syrian refugees in August. The government reopened the crossing in September but stated that it would not admit young Syrian men. The Iraqi government has no adequate plan for the return of Iraqis who have been displaced internally or those who have fled to neighboring countries. In July, Iraq's government assisted in returning thousands of Iraqis from Syria, providing flights and bus tickets to returnees, but the government has failed to assist them in finding housing or jobs. Thousands of displaced persons within Iraq continue to reside in squatter settlements without access to basic necessities such as clean water, electricity, and sanitation. Many are widows with few employment prospects. In September, the UN nearly completed the transfer within Iraq of about 3,200 members of the exiled Iranian opposition organization, the Mojahedin-e Khalq (MEK). The UN Assistance Mission for Iraq (UNAMI) oversaw their transfer from Camp Ashraf, a refugee camp and former military base, where the group had resided since 1986, to Camp Liberty, another former military base. The United States secretary of state approved the removal of the group from the State Department's list of designated terrorist organizations at the end of the same month.

Iraq

In Baghdad, security forces blocked hundreds of protesters from reaching demonstrations in Tahrir Square on February 25. Up to 1,000 armed personnel amassed on side streets, informing approaching protesters that they had a long list of names of people to arrest and that they would arrest even those with names “similar” to those on the list.

Freedom of Expression

The environment for journalists remained oppressive in 2012. The Iraqi parliament was at this writing considering a number of laws restricting the media and freedom of expression and assembly, including the draft Law on the Freedom of Expression of Opinion, Assembly, and Peaceful Demonstration, and a draft law regulating the organization of political parties that punishes expression “violating public morals” and conveying “immoral messages.” In September, the Federal Supreme Court denied a petition by a local press freedom organization to repeal the Journalists Protection Law on the basis that it fails to offer meaningful protection to journalists and restricts access to information.

The Committee to Protect Journalists (CPJ) ranked Iraq at the top of its 2012 Impunity Index, which focuses on unsolved journalist murders, and reported that there have been no convictions for murders of journalists since 2003. Iraqi authorities made no arrests for the murder of Hadi al-Mahdi, a journalist critical of the government, killed in September 2011. Another journalist, Zardasht Osman, was abducted and murdered after publishing a satirical article about KRG president Massoud Barzani in 2010. The KRG never released details of the investigation into his death.

On May 8, the National Communications and Media Commission of Iraq (NCMC) asked the Interior Ministry to “take the necessary legal measures” against 44 foreign and Iraqi media outlets it stated were operating illegally. The media outlets remained open at this writing, but registration is difficult, leaving them vulnerable to closure. A draft law on information technology crimes awaits parliamentary ratification. One article provides for life imprisonment and large fines for vaguely defined crimes, such as “intentionally” using computer devices and information networks to undermine the country’s “supreme economic, political, military, or security interests.”

Women’s and Girls’ Rights

Many Iraqi women have lost their husbands as a result of armed conflict, generalized violence, and displacement. The resulting financial hardship has made them vulnerable to trafficking for sexual exploitation and prostitution.

The parliament passed a countertrafficking law in April that outlines government obligations and provides for prosecution of traffickers. Iraqi authorities announced the arrest of a Baghdad trafficking ringleader in September, but little has been done to prosecute other people accused of trafficking, or to take measures to prevent it. Victims of trafficking continue to report having passports confiscated and being prevented from obtaining visas and new identification papers, leaving them vulnerable to arrest and unable to access health care.

In June 2011, the KRG parliament passed the Family Violence Bill, which includes provisions criminalizing forced and child marriages; abuse of girls and women; and a total ban on FGM. Implementation of the law is poor, and dozens of girls and practitioners said that they had either undergone or performed FGM since the law was passed. The authorities took no measures to investigate these cases.

Other Vulnerable Groups

Iraq

Human rights conditions in Iraq remain poor, particularly for detainees, journalists, activists, and women and girls. Security forces continued to arbitrarily detain and torture detainees, holding some of them outside the custody of the Justice Ministry. The Justice Ministry announced a record number of executions in 2012, but provided little information about the identities of those executed.

Iraq security forces continued to respond to peaceful protest with intimidation, threats, violence, and arrests of protesters and journalists. Security forces and pro-government non-state actors harassed journalists and media organizations critical of the government.

In April, Iraq's parliament passed a law criminalizing human trafficking, but has yet to effectively implement it. The Kurdistan Regional Government (KRG) has not taken steps to implement a 2011 law banning female genital mutilation (FGM). Hundreds of civilians and police were killed in spates of violence, including targeted assassinations, amid a political crisis that has dragged on since December 2011.

Detention, Torture, and Executions

Forces controlled by the Defense, Interior, and Justice Ministries, as well as elite forces reporting directly to the prime minister's office, continued arbitrary detentions of a broad spectrum of detainees, including in secret prisons outside the purview of the Interior and Justice ministries. Despite a Justice Ministry announcement in March 2011 that it would close the CampHonor secret detention facility—where Human Rights Watch documented systematic torture—HRW received information from multiple sources that the prison continued to be used as late as March 2012. Several detainees reported being tortured after mass arrest campaigns in late 2011 and March 2012, the latter in preparation for an Arab League summit in Baghdad, in what arresting officers characterized as “precautionary” measures to prevent terrorist attacks. Six detainees released in April reported that interrogators told them that they were being held to curb criminal activity during the summit and any “embarrassing” public protests.

Vice President Tariq Hashimi's former guard, whose body bore wounds suggesting torture, died in government custody in March, and poet Irfan Ahmed Mohammed died in KRG police custody in August. Authorities have not released investigation results for either case.

Government officials reported that 70 percent of prisons are over capacity, with large numbers of detainees held in lengthy pre-trial detention without judicial review. Inmates in numerous prisons, including the women's facility in Rusafa prison complex in Baghdad, suffer from overcrowding and lack of sufficient access to food and water.

The Justice Ministry announced 129 executions as of mid-November 2012, up from 68 in 2011. Under Iraqi law, 48 offenses are subject to the death penalty, including offenses recently criminalized in the Countertrafficking Law.

Freedom of Assembly

Security forces continued to respond to peaceful protests with intimidation, threats, violence, and arrests of protesters. On February 17, hundreds of security forces of the KRG surrounded a peaceful demonstration in Sulaimaniya's Sara Square. Dozens of men in civilian clothing attacked protesters and made many arrests.

ATF's Warning to Whistleblowers

ATF Acting Director Todd Jones / AP

BY: CJ Ciaramella

July 23, 2012 2:00 pm

Lawmakers and government accountability advocates have expressed concern over a July 9 video message directed at Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives agents by ATF Acting Director Todd Jones, which they say is a veiled threat to government whistleblowers.

"Choices and consequences means simply that if you make poor choices, that if you don't abide by the rules, that if you don't respect the chain of command, if you don't find the appropriate way to raise your concerns to your leadership, there will be consequences, because we cannot tolerate—we cannot tolerate—an undisciplined organization,” Jones said in the video.

Some lawmakers and government accountability groups interpreted the words as a warning to employees considering blowing the whistle on corruption.

In a July 18 letter to Jones, Rep. Darrell Issa (R., Calif.) and Sen. Chuck Grassley (R., Iowa) wrote ATF employees must be “free and clear of agency interference or retaliation” if they choose to talk to Congress.

“Your ominous message—which could be interpreted as a threat—is likely to have a major chilling effect on ATF employees exercising their rights to contact Congress,” the two lawmakers wrote. “Therefore, it needs to be clarified.”

“On numerous occasions, we have stressed to ATF and the Department of Justice the importance of protecting whistleblower disclosures and preventing retaliation against whistleblowers,” they continued.

“The bureau needs to make up its mind whether it’s going to be supportive of employees trying to get its mission back on track, or if it’s going to snuff out dissent,” said Tom Devine, the legal director of the Government Accountability Project. “There doesn’t seem to be any consensus.”

Grassley and Issa spearheaded the investigation into “Operation Fast and Furious,” a flawed gun-walking scheme in which federal agents allowed thousands of firearms to be smuggled across the U.S. border and into the hands of Mexican drug cartels.

“What it appears to be is a not-so-veiled threat telling (ATF employees) not to do what they did to expose Fast and Furious,” Issa told Fox News. “He’s basically saying, ‘No, keep it in the chain.’”

Former ATF agent Jay Dobyns, who has been an outspoken critic of the agency’s leadership, said Jones’ video misrepresented the atmosphere at the agency toward whistleblowers.

“The problem is the whistleblowers I know have all played by the rules and presented complaints to first, second and third level supervisors, the Ombudsman’s office, Internal Affairs, the EEOC, the OIG and OSC, Congress, and finally the media,” Dobyns wrote on CleanUpATF.org, a forum created by fellow ATF whistleblower Vincent Cefalu.

“None that I am personally aware of immediately jumped [up] and put themselves in front of a reporter or camera. What Acting Director Jones does not discuss is the utter lack of interest when whistleblowers follow the rules. He talks as if the process is balanced but the truth is it is a one-way street. You get NO attention or concern until an executive is embarrassed in the media. Not even an acknowledgement of a complaint beyond a boilerplate email—thank you for your interest; we are very concerned; blah, etc.”

Grassley and Issa have previously voiced concern over retaliatory statements made against whistleblowers at the ATF. In a June 29 letter to the Inspector General, Grassley and Issa wrote that, according to eyewitness accounts, ATF Chief of Public Affairs Scot Thomasson vowed retaliation against agents who first disclosed the details of the scandalous Fast and Furious operation.

“All of these whistleblowers have axes to grind,” Thomasson allegedly said. “ATF needs to f—k these guys. We need to get whatever dirt we can on these guys and take them down.”

The Government Accountability Project’s Devine said his organization is working to promote legislation called the Whistleblower Protection Enhancement Act, which would strengthen protections for government employees who report misconduct.

The bill is currently in pre-conference negotiations between the House and the Senate, and he expects a final vote sometime in September, Devine said.

Devine said his organization has recently had positive experiences with ATF leadership resolving whistleblower complaints, but the July 9 video sent a contradictory message.

The Obama administration has been among the harshest in American history when it comes to targeting and prosecuting the whistleblowers that leak information, as well as the journalists who obtain that information.

Under President Obama, more Americans have been charged under the Espionage Act for leaking classified information than all previous administrations combined.

President Obama pledged to run the “most transparent administration in history” upon entering office.

In a statement to the Free Beacon, ATF spokesman Marc Willis said the video was addressed to all employees, senior and junior level, and was not meant as a threat.

"The excerpt in question was not intended to discourage those with protected disclosure from pursuing the full range of legal protections available to them in raising work-related concerns," Willis said. "Acting Director Jones and the leadership of ATF respect the rights of all ATF employees. The ATF leadership has specifically reminded employees and supervisors of employees with protected disclosure rights, about their protections under federal law."

The spokesman also said Jones has expanded opportunities for employees to report work-related concerns since his appointment and added more staff in its ombudsman office to handle complaints.

BENGHAZIGATE: Obama's Secret Gun-Running Program

Townhall.com ^ | April 29, 2013 | Katie Kieffer

Liberals don't want honest Americans like you to have guns. Liberals just want to arm foreign rebels in crapshoot attempts to “end global violence.” But liberals feign ignorance when the rebels they arm end up being criminals who kill innocent Americans like the late U.S. Ambassador to Libya, Christopher Stevens.

Why did Ambassador Christopher Stevens and three other Americans die in Benghazi, Libya on September 11, 2012? We now know that President Obama, former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and then-CIA Director David Petraeus were likely behind a mishandled gun-trafficking program that ended up arming the radical jihadist rebels who stormed the U.S. consulate and CIA annex in Benghazi, Libya on that fateful day.

Our CIA is still playing the role of vetting which Syrian rebel groups will obtain arms including machine guns, ammunition, and rocket-propelled grenades. While Qatar, Saudi Arabia and Turkey are directly purchasing the weaponry, the Obama administration is aiding the Arab governments in shopping for these arms and transferring them from Libya, to Turkey, and finally into Syria.

Unfortunately the CIA has “vetted” shady intermediaries (including Syria’s Muslim Brotherhood) and shady recipients of thousands of tons worth of military equipment and millions of rounds of ammo. Consequently, weapons have fallen into the wrong hands. In the case of Benghazi, anti-tank weapons appear to have landed in the hands of terrorists.

Now, Clinton is denying even knowing about the program, although the evidence indicates it was largely her idea. Of course everything happened under Obama’s watch and the buck stops with him. The story of Obama's gun-running program in Benghazi is long and multifarious, so I will break down the timeline for you:

May 26, 2012: Stevens arrives in Tripoli, the capitol city of Libya and sets up camp at the U.S. embassy.

Last summer, Clinton first proposed a plan to then-CIA Director David Petraeus to partner on a gun-trafficking program to arm the Syrian resistance and "vet the rebel groups, and train fighters who would be supplied with weapons," according to The New York Times.

June of 2012: The New York Times reports that the CIA is operating a secret arms transfer program that sounds exactly like the plan Clinton developed with Petraeus. Suddenly, there is: "...an influx of weapons and ammunition to the rebels."

September 5, 2012: A Libyan ship called Al Entisar ("The Victory") docks in the Turkish port of Iskenderun, carrying 400 tons of cargo including many weapons such as rocket-propelled grenades (RPGs) and shoulder-launched surface-to-air missiles (MANPADS) destined for Syrian rebels 35 miles away from Iskenderun. The ship's captain told the Times of London that the Muslim Brotherhood and the free Syrian Army broke into a fight over the arms.

September 10, 2012: Stevens arrives in Benghazi, Libya, the location of the U.S. consulate. About a mile away from the consulate, is the CIA annex. Stevens planned to stay at the consulate for five days. His visit was supposed to be secret, but Libya-based extremists somehow learned of his arrival.

September 11, 2012: Stevens has an unusual meeting with Turkish diplomat Consul General Ali Sait Akin. Fox News reported that the meeting was "...to negotiate a weapons transfer, an effort to get SA-7 missiles out of the hands of Libya-based extremists."

Sen. Lindsey Graham confirmed on Fox News Channel's "Special Report with Bret Baier" that Stevens was in Libya to specifically control a situation: "...where the action was regarding the rising Islamic extremists who were trying to get their hands on weapons that were flowing freely in Libya..."

9:40 p.m. (Libya time): Libyan rebels launched and organized an armed attack against the U.S. Consulate in Benghazi.

10:04 p.m. CIA base chief at the nearby CIA annex calls for help including 50-caliber machine guns and vehicles from the Libyan intelligence, the 17 February Brigade and other Libyan militias. After 24 minutes of calls and no response, the CIA base chief takes a small team of seven people to the consulate. They were too late to save Stevens, but were able to save some State Department personnel.

11:56 p.m. CIA officers and the State Department members are seeking safety back at the CIA annex. There, rebels attack them with rocket-propelled grenades. Fighting continues on until 5:26 a.m.

6:00 a.m. Libyan forces suddenly arrive to "aid" the American team with 50 vehicles.

It is odd that the annex was attacked with same sort of weapons on the Libyan ship and that Stevens was reportedly in Benghazi to manage some sort of arms transfer.

Sen. Rand Paul said on Aaron Klein Radio: "First of all with regard to Benghazi, I think it's important [to determine more about the apparent gun-running program] because it may have something to do with why the compound was attacked. If we were involved with shipping guns to Turkey, there was a report that a ship left from Libya towards Turkey and that there were arms on it in the week preceding this [attack]; there were reports that our ambassador was meeting with the Turkish attaché, so I think with regards to figuring out what happened at Benghazi, it's very important to know whether or not the CIA annex had anything to do with facilitating guns being sent to Turkey and ultimately to Syria. With regard to arming the rebels, just this week in the armed services Committee, General Dempsey, the [Chairman of the] Joint Chiefs of Staff said that we were no longer able to distinguish who the good guys were from the bad guys and that sounds pretty worrisome if we are actually arming people who in the end may be enemies of America...enemies of Israel... enemies maybe of the Christians who live within Syria...sending arms to a rebel force to that may include Al-Nusra and other radical jihadists."

Here's my concern: Obama's gun-running program failed to properly vet the rebels. Clinton most likely launched the gun program, expected Stevens to oversee it and then her weapons likely landed in the hands of al-Qaida affiliates who killed Stevens and three other Americans. This is a tragic failure of foreign policy and diplomacy under Obama's watch.

WASHINGTON – President Barack Obama reportedly said The U.S. Constitution is out-of-date, so he is ripping it up and writing a new one.

President Barack Obama reportedly told reporters last night that the U.S. Constitution has become a hindrance to progress in America. “The document is so out-dated, that it is now becoming a hindrance to governing the country.”

Obama has signed an Executive Order voiding the U.S. Constitution. “We need to move forward. We need change.”

Obama reportedly said he has already drafted a new constitution and that Americans “will love what I came up with.” Insiders say Obama is keeping a lot of old elements from the original constitution “he’s just making it better, bringing it into the 21st century,” said White House Spokesman, Jay Carney.

Many Democrats said that President Obama was a constitutional scholar and probably the only President – since the Founding Fathers – who is qualified to change the Constitution.

“President Obama knows more about the Constitution than any man who has ever lived,” said Minority Leader, Nancy Pelosi. “It’s about time we change that document and we are lucky to have President Obama to do it.”

Republicans, of course, were outraged that Obama would even consider changing the constitution, and they vowed to fight. “We will fight this to the bitter end,” said Speaker of the House, John Boehner, “there’s no way we are going to let the Constitution of the United States be altered even a little bit. If there are changes to be made to the Constitution it should be done the appropriate way – through amendments and we think Paul Ryan and Eric Cantor are the ones to make any changes.”

Insiders say the new Constitution will look a lot like the constitutions of Kenya, France and Soviet Russia.

There are many, many changes in the New U.S. Constitution, but here are a few of the highlights.

- 1) SUPREME COURT – Will now have 11 members, which reflects the growing U.S. population. President Obama will appoint two new members immediately. The President can name a new justice without the approval of Congress.
- 2) EXECUTIVE FINANCIAL POWER – The President will have the power to unilaterally enact any financial policy he chooses, without approval of Congress. He must inform them, but they can not “stop” the President from promoting his (or her) agenda.
- 3) LOBBYISTS – They will now be outlawed. There will be no more lobbyists in Washington. However, there are some exemptions outlined in the New Constitution” : Trial Lawyers, National Education Association and unions. They will all be able to lobby.
- 4) REPRESENTATION – California, New York and Illinois will double the number of representatives in Congress – permanently. “The President feels that the smartest people in the country live in these states, so they should be over-represented,” said a White House spokesperson.
- 5) GUNS & RELIGION – Both will be banned in the United States.

RE: INJURY TO BUSINESS AND PROPERTY AND DESTRUCTION OF BUSINESS and OBTAINING MONIES BY AND THROUGH FALSE
MISREPRESENTATIONS or FRAUD,

- . Ordered the Environmental Protection Agency to implement portions of the Cap & Trade bill that failed to pass in the U.S. Senate.
- B. Ordered implementation of portions of the “Dream Act” that failed to pass in Congress.
- C. Orchestrating a government takeover of a major part of the automobile industry in 2009.
- D. Ordered a moratorium on new offshore oil and gas exploration and production without approval of Congress.
- E. Signed an Executive Order on March 16, 2012 giving himself and the Executive branch extraordinary powers to control and allocate resources such as food, water, energy and health care resources etc. in the interest of vaguely defined national defense issues. It would amount to a complete government takeover of the U.S. economy.
- F. Signed an Executive Order on July 6, 2012 giving himself and the Executive branch the power to control all methods of communications in the United States based on a Presidential declaration of a national emergency.
- G. Signed an Executive Order on January 6, 2013 that contained 23 actions designed to limit the individual right to keep and bear arms guaranteed by the Second Amendment to the Constitution.
- H. Amending portions of the Affordable Healthcare Act and other laws passed by Congress without Congressional approval as re.red by Article 1 of the Constitution.
- I. Issued Executive orders in January 2014 amending the HIPPA law to allow the turning over of confidential medical records to Federal agencies if there is any information to be used to add individuals to the NICS list to prohibit them from purchasing firearms.
- J. Had the EPA impose regulations on the coal industry that will force many utility companies and coal mines out of business. This will cost the U.S. economy thousands of jobs and dramatically increase the cost of energy to the public. This is being done without Congressional approval.
- K. Hindered the ability of the U.S. Border Patrol Agency to not only stop illegal immigration, but to stop human and drug trafficking.
- L. Removed the work re.ement from welfare reform legislation without Congressional approval. Article 2, Section 3 of the Constitution mandates that from time to time the President “shall give to Congress information on the State of the Union....” Implicit in this is an obligation for the President to be truthful with the Congress and the American people. Barack Hussein Obama has repeatedly violated his oath of office and the re.ements of the Constitution by willfully withholding information on important issues or actively taken part in misleading the Congress and the American people. Specific actions include, but are not necessarily limited to:
 - A. Used Executive privilege to block Congress from getting documents relating to the DOJ’s Operation Fast and Furious and the death of U.S. Border Patrol Brian Terry.
 - B. Had members of his administration provide false information about the act of terrorism committed in Benghazi, Libya on September 11, 2012 and refusing to allow the State Department and other federal agencies to cooperate in the Congressional investigation.

- C. Falsely labeled the mass murder of American soldiers at Ft. Hood, Texas as “workplace violence” instead of the act of Islamic terrorism it was.
- D. Falsely labeling the IRS targeting of conservative and Christian groups as a “phony” scandal and refusing to order an active pursuit of the investigation into who was ultimately responsible.
- E. Refused to order an independent investigation of the actions of Eric Holder and the DOJ in targeting the phone records of members of the news media.
- F. Told the American people on a television show that the NSA was not prying into the emails and phone calls of Americans when the facts prove otherwise.

(2) The oath of office of the President of the United States requires him to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution. This obviously includes what may be the most important part of the Constitution, the Bill of Rights. Barack Hussein Obama has repeatedly violated his oath of office by seeking to limit both the individual rights and the rights of the States guaranteed in the first ten amendments to the Constitution. Specific actions include, but are not necessarily limited to:

- A. Had the Department of Health and Human Services order religious institutions and businesses owned by religious families to provide their employees free contraception and other services that are contrary to their religious beliefs. This is being done under the auspices of the Affordable Health Care Act and violates the religious freedom clauses of the First Amendment.
- B. Had the military place restrictions on the religious freedom of Chaplains and other members of the military in order to favor gay rights advocates and atheists in violation of the First Amendment.
- C. Had the military place restrictions on the freedom of speech of members of the military and the civilian employees of the DOD in violation of their rights under the First Amendment.
- D. Used Executive orders and government agency actions to limit Second Amendment rights. This includes actions by the Veterans Administration to disarm American veterans without due process as required by the Fifth Amendment.
- E. Had the National Security Agency intercept and monitor the private communications of millions of Americans without a court order and in violation of the Fourth Amendment.
- F. Joined with foreign governments in lawsuits against sovereign U.S. states to prohibit them from enforcing immigration laws. This is in violation of the Tenth Amendment.
- G. Filed suits under the Voting Rights Act against sovereign U.S. states to prevent them from enforcing Voter ID laws despite rulings by the Supreme Court upholding these laws. This is another violation of the Tenth Amendment and the balance of powers.
- H. Had the IRS propose new regulations on conservative 501 (C) (4) organizations to limit their freedom of speech and political activities during election cycles in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.
- I. Had the FCC prepare new rules on internet neutrality in violation of the ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court striking down such regulations.

J. Had the FCC institute a plan to place agents in newsrooms of radio and television stations as well as print media to monitor whether they are providing the “proper” news content to the public, a direct violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

K. Had the Secretary of State sign the U.N. Small Arms Treaty despite the opposition of a majority of the U.S. Senate and with full awareness that the implementation of the treaty would violate the Second Amendment rights of American citizens.

(3) Under Article 2, Section 2 of the Constitution the President of the United States is the Commander in Chief of the United States military and as such is responsible for using them in a manner that best serves the national security of the United States and protects our soldiers from unnecessary risks and harm. Barack Hussein Obama has violated his oath of office in this regard. Specific actions include, but are not necessarily limited to:

A. In the name of “political correctness,” he imposed unnecessary and dangerous rules of engagement on our troops in combat causing them to lose offensive and defensive capabilities and putting them in danger. Many American service personnel have been killed or wounded as a result of this policy.

B. Released the identity of American military personnel and units engaged in dangerous and secret operations such as the killing of Osama bin Laden by Navy Seal team 6.

C. Article 1, Section 8 of the Constitution gives Congress the exclusive power to declare war. Yet, without consulting Congress President Obama ordered the American military into action in Libya.

D. Had the Attorney General tell Secretaries of State that they do not have to comply with the Federal law requiring states to timely send absentee ballots to military personnel.

(1) Article 2, Section 2 of the Constitution establishes the President as Commander in Chief of the United States Military. This requires him to use his power and authority to oversee the proper use of the military to properly protect and defend the people and territory of the United States against all enemies, both foreign and domestic. He is further responsible for using the U.S. military in a manner that is effective and protects members of the military and takes proper care of veterans.

The President takes an oath of office that encompasses these duties. Barack Hussein Obama has consistently violated these duties and violated his oath. Specific actions include, but are not necessarily limited to:

A. Imposed Rules of Engagement on the active military in war zones that have unnecessarily endangered the lives of American soldiers.

B. Allowed the leaking of classified information about U.S. military operations to the media in order to enhance his political image. Such leaks place the lives of U.S. soldiers in danger.

C. Despite being informed in 2009 of problems in the Veterans Administration involving treatment of veterans, took no action to improve the situation, but instead ordered the VA to spend a major part of its budget on green energy projects at VA facilities instead on veteran care.

D. Endangered the lives of members of the American military and American civilians by negotiating with terrorists to trade five high level Taliban leaders in exchange for an American soldier who deserted his post and his fellow soldiers. In addition, he did the foregoing action in violation of Federal law since he did not provide the legally required thirty day notice to members of Congress of his intent to release prisoners from Guantanamo Bay. E. Continued to refuse to enforce immigration laws passed by Congress in violation of Article 2, Section 3 of the Constitution, and further has used illegal and unconstitutional Executive orders to grant amnesty or de-facto amnesty to illegal aliens currently in the United States.

Obama has violated the “United States” right via the ninth and/or tenth amendment, violated the one or more amendments of the United States Constitution. The Fourteenth Amendment, Section 3, provides in pertinent part that "No person shall hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State.....who, having previously taken an oath,....as an executive or judicial officer of any State to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same...."

2.3.B. Had members of his administration provide false information about the act of terrorism committed in Benghazi, Libya on September 11, 2012 and refusing to allow the State Department and other federal agencies to cooperate in the Congressional investigation.

F. Has deliberately destroyed the morale and effectiveness of Border Patrol agents by interfering with their attempts to fulfill their oath of office and enforce laws legally passed by the U.S. Congress.

G. By his deliberate actions encouraged parents of thousands of children in Central America to send their children, often unaccompanied by adults, across the U.S. border and then asking for billions of taxpayer dollars to care for these children.

H. Ordered the Border Patrol and Department of Homeland Security to place thousands of these children on buses or planes and dumping them in communities around the country; often without any prior notifications to the local elected officials in these communities.

I. Allowed the TSA to let these children, as well as possible teenage gang members and unidentified to fly in U.S. Airlines at taxpayer expense without proper identification required by Federal law.

J. Had refused to respond to lawful requests by Governors of the southern Border States to close the Southern border to any further illegal immigration and has created a severe financial crisis for Border States and other states in order to advance his own political agenda.

K. Had ordered the release of thousands of illegal aliens who have been convicted of serious crimes in the U.S. to be released and stay in the country after they have served their sentences. This violates the requirements of Federal law that such people be immediately deported.

L. Ordered the immediate release of approximately 68,000 other criminals in Federal prisons that have been convicted of drug offenses. These actions endanger the lives and property of honest and law abiding American citizens that the President is legally and constitutionally required to protect.

M. Had authorized the IRS, HHS, BATF, DHS, and EPA to propose new regulations not authorized by Congress that will adversely affect the rights of Americans protected by the First, Second, Fourth, and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution. Barack Hussein Obama has undermined the integrity of his office, has brought disrepute on the Presidency, has betrayed his trust as President and has acted in a manner subversive of the rule of law and justice, to the manifest injury of the people of the United States. Wherefore, Barack Hussein Obama, by such conduct, is disqualified from holding Office as the United States President and has violated his oath of office, violation of oath of office.

Article 2, Section 3 of the Constitution mandates that the President of the United States “shall take Care that the Laws be faithfully executed...” Barack Hussein Obama, in violation of his oath of office has repeatedly ignored this Constitutional mandate by refusing to enforce laws against illegal immigration,

Barack Hussein Obama has repeatedly violated his oath of office by seeking to limit both the individual rights and the rights of the States guaranteed in the first ten amendments to the Constitution. OBAMA HAS CONSTANTLY VIOLATED HIS OATH OF OFFICE, IS INELIGIBLE TO HOLD OFFICE AS PRESIDENT

Fed Judge Blasts DOJ Lawyers for Lying in Court to Defend Obama Amnesty

MAY 23, 2016

Email PrintText Size

It's been repeatedly proven that government officials lie regularly to cover up wrongdoing and now a scathing federal court order blasting the Department of Justice (DOJ) and its army of lawyers offers details seldom seen by the public. In fact, the judge in this case appears to go out of his way to write something for the masses, not just the parties involved in the litigation.

The case involves a lawsuit filed by 26 states against the federal government challenging President Obama's immigration amnesty measures. It was originally filed in the Southern District of Texas and the judge hearing the case, Andrew S. Hanen, issued a 28-page order last week slamming DOJ attorneys representing the administration for intentionally lying to the court, thus violating a multitude of ethics and court rules. Among other things Hanen admonishes DOJ lawyers for lying by claiming in court that the president's amnesty plan featuring three-year deferrals wasn't being implemented when in fact it was for more than 100,000 illegal aliens. The measure is officially known as Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is the agency charged with implementing it.

In the order Hanen writes: "The Government admits that the lawyer making these statements knew at the time of this hearing that the DHS was already granting these three year extensions (which it also admits are only authorized by the 2014 DHS Directive) instead of the two-year renewals authorized in 2012. Not only did counsel fail to tell the Court that the DHS was already granting relief using the 2014 DHS Directive, she told the Court that nothing would happen with regard to revised DACA until mid-February of 2015." The lashing continues. "Apparently, lawyers, somewhere in the halls of the Justice Department whose identities are unknown to this Court, decided unilaterally that the conduct of the DHS in granting three-year DACA renewals . . . was immaterial and irrelevant to this lawsuit and that the DOJ could therefore just ignore it. Then, for whatever reason, the Justice Department trial lawyers appearing in this Court chose not to tell the truth about this DHS activity. The first decision was certainly unsupportable, but the subsequent decision to hide it from the Court was unethical."

Texas initiated the lawsuit in December 2014 challenging the president's amnesty order and the other states eventually joined in. Judge Hanen ruled in favor of the states, essentially blocking the amnesty, and later discovered that the administration disregarded the order and government attorneys repeatedly lied about it in court. After Hanen's reprimand became public, Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton said this: "Throughout this case, the administration has struggled to provide accurate, reliable information regarding the scope of the President's plan or even when it would be implemented. From the start, our lawsuit has been about asserting that one person cannot unilaterally change the law, and part of that is ensuring everyone abides by the rule of law.

This kind of public scolding, especially from a federal court, is seldom seen while a president is still in office. The DOJ is supposed to defend the public's best interest, not lie to cover up the president's wrongdoing. An editorial in a mainstream newspaper points out that the misconduct unmasked by Judge Hanen should trouble Americans of all political persuasions. "Prosecutors often abuse their powers in run-of-the-mill cases," the editorial states. "But this is a constitutional challenge with major consequences for the separation of powers, and the deceit must have required the participation and coordination of dozens of political appointees and career lawyers. That suggests a serious institutional failure, not mere rogue actors." The piece refers to the DOJ's systematic deception in court about the administration's conduct an "ethics rot."

1. An estimated 5 million foreign immigrants who are in the country illegally are expected to qualify for the executive amnesty. Obama and Representative Luis Gutierrez (D-IL) have said it is incumbent upon immigrant organizations and community advocates to identify the illegal immigrants and have them apply for formal temporary amnesty next year. Another 7 million illegal immigrants will not qualify for this executive amnesty; however, President Obama has promised the changes of their being deported will be greatly increased, except in the case of violent criminals.
2. Twenty states have filed lawsuits aimed at blocking the Obama executive action, which is designed to benefit illegals who have been in the country more than five years or have children born here, as well as some who entered the country as children.

In a primetime address on November 20, President Obama made his sales pitch to the American people for a series of immigration executive actions he will sign on November 21 in Las Vegas, Nevada. Here is what you need to know:

What actions is Obama taking specifically?

The key to Obama's new immigration policy is the creation of one new amnesty program and the expansion of another.

Specifically, Obama's new amnesty program will give illegal immigrants who have been in the United States for at least five years, and who are parents of U.S. citizens or legal residents, a three year work permit. This permit will also allow them to obtain a Social Security number and get a driver's license. Pew estimates that 3.5 million current illegal immigrants will qualify for this program.

Obama is also expanding the existing Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals amnesty program. Previously only those illegal immigrants who were born before 1981 and entered the U.S. as a minor before 2007 were eligible for benefits. Now all illegal immigrants who entered the U.S. as a minor before 2010 will be eligible for amnesty. Like the parents above, DACA recipients will also get work permits, Social Security numbers, and driver's licenses. Pew estimates that 235,000 illegal immigrants will gain eligibility for benefits through this program expansion.

Is this legal?

Obama didn't think so. As recently as this spring, and on more than 20 other occasions, Obama said he could not rewrite immigration law by executive action.

Specifically, this March Obama told Univision, "But what I've said in the past remains true, which is until Congress passes a new law, then I am constrained in terms of what I am able to do. ... t at a certain point the reason that these deportations are taking place is, Congress said, 'you have to enforce these laws.' They fund the hiring of officials at the department that's charged with enforcing. And I cannot ignore those laws any more than I could ignore, you know, any of the other laws that are on the books.

More damning, in 2011, Obama told the National Council of La Raza, "Believe me, the idea of doing things on my own is very tempting. I promise you. Not just on immigration reform. But that's not how our system works. That's not how our democracy functions. That's not how our Constitution is written."

How is Obama justifying this amnesty?

The Office of Legal Counsel memo released before Obama's speech cites Obama's Article II Section 3 constitutional duty to "take care that the Laws be faithfully executed" as the source of his power to grant this amnesty.

The memo reasons that since there are 11.3 million illegal immigrants in the country today, and DHS only has the resources to remove 400,000 illegal immigrants every year, Obama must choose which immigrants to deport and which to ignore. This "prosecutorial discretion" power, the memo claims, allows Obama to choose which illegal immigrants get work permits, which illegal immigrants will continue to be ignored, and which illegal immigrants will be deported.

Under this legal theory, Obama could give all current 11.3 million illegal immigrants work permits and driver's licenses, as long as he kept deporting at least 400,000 illegal border crossers every year.

Will courts let Obama get away with this?

They already have. In 2012, after Obama announced his DACA program, Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents sued the Department of Homeland Security challenging the legality of Obama's first executive amnesty program.

But while the court found that the border agents "were likely to succeed on the merits of their claim that the Department of Homeland Security has implemented a program contrary to congressional mandate," the court also ultimately determined that the plaintiffs did not have standing to sue DHS since the Civil Service Reform Act of 1978 already established an administrative process for resolving disputes between federal employees and their employer.

The harms from Obama's illegal amnesty programs are just too diffuse for any one litigant to establish standing in federal court.

If courts can't stop Obama in time, who can?

Only Congress can stop Obama's amnesty program by defunding it.

Now it is true that since the federal agency that issues work permits, the United States Citizen and Immigration Services office, is self-funded through fees it would keep issuing permits in the event of a federal government shutdown.

But that does not mean Congress does not have any power over the agency. Congress could still attach a rider to any appropriations bill forbidding USCIS from using any federal funds, including those collected through fees, for the purpose of carrying out Obama's amnesty programs.

Will Congress stop Obama?

Some in Congress, like Rep. Matt Salmon (R-AZ) and Sen. Mike Lee (R-UT), have said they will use the power over the purse to defund Obama's amnesty.

Others like House Appropriations Committee Chairman Hal Rogers (R-KY) and Sen. Jeff Flake (R-AZ) have said they want to pass a long-term government funding bill which would essentially rubber stamp Obama's amnesty.

How would Obama's amnesty effect legal immigrants?

After Obama enacted DACA, wait times for visas for legal immigrants tripled from 5 months to 15. Obama essentially allowed illegal immigrants to jump in line in front of law-abiding legal immigrants. Since Obama has requested no new funding from Congress to pay for his new amnesty, and since his new amnesty is three times larger than his last amnesty, legal immigrants should not only expect to head to the back of the line again, but they should also expect much longer delays.

Obama claims all these amnestied immigrants will get background checks, Is that true?

If history is any guide, no. Background checks are expensive and time consuming and USCIS does not have the resources to process additional amnesty programs on top of their normal duties. Judicial Watch uncovered documents in June 2013 showing that instead of full background checks normally used by the agency, DACA recipients got cheaper and less comprehensive "lean and lite" checks.

Obama said illegal immigrants will be held accountable by paying taxes. Is that true?

It is true that the IRS already allows illegal immigrants to pay income taxes by obtaining a tax identification number. Most illegal immigrants also already pay state and local taxes. Obama's amnesty program changes none of this. In fact, Obama's new amnesty lets illegal immigrants off the hook but not paying any fines or penalties for breaking the law.

How will Obama pay for this new amnesty program?

The White House has not explained that yet.

What about Democrats who claim Reagan and Bush also acted unilaterally on immigration?

President Reagan did pass an amnesty program through Congress in 1986, but it failed to accomplish its goals. At the time there were just 3 million illegal immigrants in the country and today there are more than 11 million. This is why most Americans do not support amnesty today.

Reagan also used an executive action to ease immigration standards for 200,000 Nicaraguans who feared persecution from the communist Sandinista regime. President Bush used similar powers to grant deportation relief to hundreds of Kuwaiti nationals who had been evacuated to the United States during the first Gulf War.

But both of these executive actions were perfectly in line with the true scope of a president's prosecutorial discretion powers. They were limited in nature, applied to specific smaller groups of immigrants, and were not designed to thwart congressional intent on immigration policy.

Obama's amnesty is the exact opposite. It is a broad-based program in response to no crisis other than Congress isn't doing what Obama wants it to do. As Obama once said, "That's not how our system works. That's not how our democracy functions. That's not how our Constitution is written."

A Significant Victory for the Constitution as a Federal Court Halts President Obama's illegal Executive Action

Court Halts Obama's Executive Action

By Jay Sekulow 16 months ago February 17, 2015

Just before midnight last night, a federal court issued an order temporarily halting President Obama's illegal Executive action on immigration.

The federal court agreed with our amicus brief – on behalf of 68 Members of Congress and over 70,000 Americans – that President Obama's actions violated the constitution by creating new law. The trial court correctly noted that the Obama Administration “is not just rewriting the laws, he is creating them from scratch.”

This decision represents a significant victory against the unconstitutional overreach by President Obama.

We are extremely pleased the court concluded what we have argued from the start: the President overstepped his authority by changing the law and setting new immigration policy. The manner in which the President acted is unconstitutional, unlawful, and a violation of the separation of powers.

As I testified before the Congress in December: Impatient presidents don't get to change the law.

The federal trial court granted a preliminary injunction to 26 states challenging President Obama's executive action, which temporarily blocks implementation of the President's actions. In a memorandum opinion accompanying the order, the federal court ruled that the lawsuit should go forward and that without a preliminary injunction the states will “suffer irreparable harm in this case.”

“The genie would be impossible to put back into the bottle,” the trial court held, adding that unilaterally legalizing the presence of millions of people is a “virtually irreversible” action.

The court's ruling accused Obama Administration officials of being “disingenuous” when they said that President Obama's initiatives did not significantly alter existing policies. In the words of the federal court, the programs were “a massive change in immigration practice” that would affect “the nation's entire immigration scheme and the states who must bear the lion's share of its consequences." Further, the court stated that the Executive actions had violated laws that the federal government must follow in issuing new rules. The court also determined that "the states have clearly proven a likelihood of success on the merits."

In our amicus brief representing 68 Members of Congress, including three Senators, and tens of thousands of concerned Americans, we argued this exact position to the court, stating, "Plaintiffs are likely to succeed on the merits because the DHS (Dept. of Homeland Security) directive violates the Constitution, disrupts the separation of powers, and amounts to an abdication of their constitutional and statutory duty."

President Obama has vowed to appeal the trial court's ruling. If he does, we will continue to support these 26 states and defend the Constitution from the abuse of an imperial presidency.

Add your name to our brief below as we continue to take direct action in court to stop President Obama's illegal Executive action.

Federal Judge Drops the Hammer on Obama Administration Immigration Defiance

Posted at 8:48 pm on July 8, 2015 by Matthew Clark

A federal judge in the case against President Obama's illegal Executive action on immigration has leveled some serious accusations against not only the Administration and its DOJ attorneys but senior level officials for "violating" a federal court order.

The court has ordered a "show cause" hearing for August 19th at which "Each individual Defendant," not just their DOJ attorneys, "must attend and be prepared to show why he or she should not be held in contempt of Court."

Here's what happened. A federal lawsuit was brought by Texas and 25 other states against President Obama's Executive action on immigration, where he "change[d] the law" without congressional approval. A federal judge issued a temporary injunction, ordering the Administration to stop providing these new, illegal benefits as the case continued.

However, the government didn't comply with the court's order. He's how the court, without mincing words, described what happened:

[A]pproximately 2,000 individuals . . . were given various benefits in violation of this Court's order after the injunction was issued. . . .

The Government has conceded that it has directly violated this Court's Order in its May 7, 2015 Advisory, yet, as of today, two months have passed since the Advisory and it has not remediated its own violative behavior. That is unacceptable and, as far as the Government's attorneys are concerned, completely unprofessional. To be clear, this Court expects the Government to be in full compliance with this Court's injunction.

These are serious allegations, and equally so are the serious remedies at this federal judge's disposal. The court noted that "it is shocked and surprised at the [Obama Administration's] cavalier attitude" toward its lawful order and refusal to "remedy the violations of the injunction . . . some six weeks after" promising to take "immediate steps" to do so.

If there is one thing federal judges don't take kindly to, it is being directly defied. This judge expressed that he has given the government ample time and leniency to rectify the situation. Yet the judge concluded:

[A]t some point, when a non-compliant party refuses to bring its conduct into compliance, one must conclude that the conduct is not accidental, but deliberate. If these violations have not been corrected by the end of this month, absent very compelling evidence, which this Court will be glad to consider, the only logical conclusion is that the Government needs a stronger motivation to comply with lawful court orders.

It is clear that the court is ready to hold the named Obama Administration officials in this case – Jeh Charles Johnson, Secretary of Homeland Security; R. Gil Kerlinkowske, Commissioner of U.S. Customs and Border Protection; Ronald D. Vitiello, Deputy Chief of U.S. Border Patrol, U.S. Customs and Border of Protection; Sarah R. Saldana, Director of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement; and Leon Rodriguez, Director of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services – "in contempt of Court" if the Administration continues to violate its order.

President Obama already was willing to circumvent Congress, ignore the Constitution, and thus far violate a federal judge's order to uphold his Executive action on immigration, but he may have met his match. If senior level Administration officials start going to jail, it might just change things. Only time will tell what the Administration will do.

The underlying merits of this case continue on appeal with an oral argument scheduled for Friday in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. At the ACLJ, we've filed four amicus briefs in this case already on behalf of key Members of Congress and thousands of Americans. President Obama is not a king, and this week he just got reminded of that by a co-equal branch of the U.S. government.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Syllabus

UTAH v. STRIEFF

CERTIORARI TO THE SUPREME COURT OF UTAH

No. 14–1373. Argued February 22, 2016—Decided June 20, 2016

Narcotics detective Douglas Fackrell conducted surveillance on a South Salt Lake City residence based on an anonymous tip about drug activity. The number of people he observed making brief visits to the house over the course of a week made him suspicious that the occupants were dealing drugs. After observing respondent Edward Strieff leave the residence, Officer Fackrell detained Strieff at a nearby parking lot, identifying himself and asking Strieff what he was doing at the house. He then requested Strieff's identification and relayed the information to a police dispatcher, who informed him that Strieff had an outstanding arrest warrant for a traffic violation. Officer Fackrell arrested Strieff, searched him, and found methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia. Strieff moved to suppress the evidence, arguing that it was derived from an unlawful investigatory stop. The trial court denied the motion, and the Utah Court of Appeals affirmed. The Utah Supreme Court reversed, however, and ordered the evidence suppressed.

Held: The evidence Officer Fackrell seized incident to Strieff's arrest is admissible based on an application of the attenuation factors from Brown v. Illinois, 422 U. S. 590. In this case, there was no flagrant police misconduct. Therefore, Officer Fackrell's discovery of a valid, pre-existing, and untainted arrest warrant attenuated the connection between the unconstitutional investigatory stop and the evidence seized incident to a lawful arrest. Pp. 4–10.

(a) As the primary judicial remedy for deterring Fourth Amendment violations, the exclusionary rule encompasses both the “primary evidence obtained as a direct result of an illegal search or seizure” and, relevant here, “evidence later discovered and found to be derivative of an illegality.” Segura v. United States, 468 U. S. UTAH v. STRIEFF Syllabus the rule's substantial social costs, there are several exceptions to the rule. One exception is the attenuation doctrine, which provides for admissibility when the connection between unconstitutional police conduct and the evidence is sufficiently remote or has been interrupted by some intervening circumstance. See Hudson v. Michigan, 547 U. S. 586, 593. Pp. 4–5.

(b) As a threshold matter, the attenuation doctrine is not limited to the defendant's independent acts. The doctrine therefore applies here, where the intervening circumstance is the discovery of a valid, pre-existing, and untainted arrest warrant. Assuming, without deciding, that Officer Fackrell lacked reasonable suspicion to stop Strieff initially, the discovery of that arrest warrant attenuated the connection between the unlawful stop and the evidence seized from Strieff incident to his arrest. Pp. 5–10.

(1) Three factors articulated in Brown v. Illinois, 422 U. S. 590, lead to this conclusion. The first, "temporal proximity" between the initially unlawful stop and the search, id., at 603, favors suppressing the evidence. Officer Fackrell discovered drug contraband on Strieff only minutes after the illegal stop. In contrast, the second factor, "the presence of intervening circumstances, id., at 603–604, strongly favors the State. The existence of a valid warrant, predating the investigation and entirely unconnected with the stop, favors finding sufficient attenuation between the unlawful conduct and the discovery of evidence. That warrant authorized Officer Fackrell to arrest Strieff, and once the arrest was authorized, his search of Strieff incident to that arrest was undisputedly lawful. The third factor, "the purpose and flagrancy of the official misconduct," id., at 604, also strongly favors the State. Officer Fackrell was at most negligent, but his errors in judgment hardly rise to a purposeful or flagrant violation of Strieff's Fourth Amendment rights. After the unlawful stop, his conduct was lawful, and there is no indication that the stop was part of any systemic or recurrent police misconduct. Pp. 6–9.

(2) Strieff's counterarguments are unpersuasive. First, neither Officer Fackrell's purpose nor the flagrancy of the violation rises to a level of misconduct warranting suppression. Officer Fackrell's purpose was not to conduct a suspicionless fishing expedition but was to gather information about activity inside a house whose occupants were legitimately suspected of dealing drugs. Strieff conflates the standard for an illegal stop with the standard for flagrancy, which requires more than the mere absence of proper cause. Second, it is unlikely that the prevalence of outstanding warrants will lead to dragnet searches by police. Such misconduct would expose police to civil liability and, in any event, is already accounted for by Brown's "purpose and flagrancy" factor. Pp. 9–10.

796, 804. But to ensure that those deterrence benefits are not outweighed by 2015 UT 2, 357 P. 3d 532, reversed.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

No. 14–1373

UTAH, PETITIONER v. EDWARD JOSEPH STRIEFF, JR.

ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE SUPREME COURT OF UTAH

[June 20, 2016]

JUSTICE THOMAS delivered the opinion of the Court.

To enforce the Fourth Amendment’s prohibition against “unreasonable searches and seizures,” this Court has at times required courts to exclude evidence obtained by unconstitutional police conduct. But the Court has also held that, even when there is a Fourth Amendment violation, this exclusionary rule does not apply when the costs of exclusion outweigh its deterrent benefits. In some cases, for example, the link between the unconstitutional conduct and the discovery of the evidence is too attenuated to justify suppression. The question in this case is whether this attenuation doctrine applies when an officer makes an unconstitutional investigatory stop; learns during that stop that the suspect is subject to a valid arrest warrant; and proceeds to arrest the suspect and seize incriminating evidence during a search incident to that arrest. We hold that the evidence the officer seized as part of the search incident to arrest is admissible because the officer’s discovery of the arrest warrant attenuated the connection between the unlawful stop and the evidence seized incident to arrest. 2 UTAH v. STRIEFF

Opinion of the Court I

This case began with an anonymous tip. In December 2006, someone called the South Salt Lake City police’s drug-tip line to report “narcotics activity” at a particular residence. App. 15. Narcotics detective Douglas Fackrell investigated the tip. Over the course of about a week, Officer Fackrell conducted intermittent surveillance of the home. He observed visitors who left a few minutes after arriving at the house. These visits were sufficiently frequent to raise his suspicion that the occupants were dealing drugs.

One of those visitors was respondent Edward Strieff. Officer Fackrell observed Strieff exit the house and walk toward a nearby convenience store. In the store's parking lot, Officer Fackrell detained Strieff, identified himself, and asked Strieff what he was doing at the residence.

As part of the stop, Officer Fackrell requested Strieff's identification, and Strieff produced his Utah identification card. Officer Fackrell relayed Strieff's information to a police dispatcher, who reported that Strieff had an outstanding arrest warrant for a traffic violation. Officer Fackrell then arrested Strieff pursuant to that warrant. When Officer Fackrell searched Strieff incident to the arrest, he discovered a baggie of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia.

The State charged Strieff with unlawful possession of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia. Strieff moved to suppress the evidence, arguing that the evidence was inadmissible because it was derived from an unlawful investigatory stop. At the suppression hearing, the prosecutor conceded that Officer Fackrell lacked reasonable suspicion for the stop but argued that the evidence should not be suppressed because the existence of a valid arrest warrant attenuated the connection between the unlawful stop and the discovery of the contraband.

The trial court agreed with the State and admitted

Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners relies on the complaint filed concurrently with this motion.

To date, Eric Holder, Lois Learner Does 1 thru 1,000,000,000,000 inclusive have conspired to obstruct justice; the committees investigation and have has defied this court order to produce documents and failed to comply with subpoena.(in which the Defendants as Public Officials and employee of the Government and/or Directors, agents of corporations duties are imperative [not discretionary] because it it in the interest of the people and/or United States – in the interest of national security it need to complete its investigation, in have a legal obligation and duty to cooperate with civil investigative demand by the Committee). Holder, Lerner and Does 1 thru 1,000,000,000 inclusive obstruction and/or failure to produce documents has hampered the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners discovery, preventing it completing its civil or criminal investigation. The Committee and Oversight “acting on behalf of the “United States and the interest of the American People and the Public” are person aggrieved and/or denied of legal right to books, documents, The Plaintiffs have a clear legal right to compel the Defendants to immediately produce documents, books, records(Furthermore, mandamus will typically not be granted if adequate relief can be obtained by some other means, such as appeal.^[21]. The class Defendant and/or Respondant have exhausted all administrative remedies and/or other remedies and have no other adequate remedies at law.

MANDUMUS DOCUMENTS

Rule 26(b)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provides for liberal discovery. St. Paul Reins. Co., Ltd. v. Commercial Fin. Corp., 198 F.R.D. 508, 512 (N.D. Iowa 2000) (citations omitted) In part, it provides that: Parties may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action, whether it relates to the claim or defense of the party seeking discovery or to the claim or defense of any other party, including the existence, description, nature custody, condition and location of any books, documents, or other tangible things and the identity and location of persons having knowledge of any discoverable matter. It is not ground for objection that the information sought will be inadmissible at the trial if information sought appears reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Courts have interpreted Rule 26 to provide for liberal discovery. St. Paul Reins. Co., 198 F.R.D. at 511 (citing cases). See also Liberty Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v. Centimark Corp., 08CV230-DJS, 2009 WL 539927, at *1 (E.D. Mo. Mar. 4, 2009) (holding that Rules 26(b) and 34 provide for broad discovery) (citations omitted). “Thus, as long as the parties request information or documents relevant to the claims at issue in the case, and such requests are tendered in good faith and are not unduly burdensome, discovery shall proceed.” St. Paul Reins. Co., 198 F.R.D. at 511 (citing M. Berenson Co., Inc. v. Faneuil Hall Marketplace, Inc., 103 F.R.D. 635, 637 (D. Mass. 1984)). See also Liberty Mut. Fire Ins., 2009 WL 539927, at *1 (holding that requesting party need only make a “threshold showing of relevance” under Rule 26(b)). The party resisting production bears the burden of establishing lack of relevance or undue burden. St. Paul Reins. Co., 198 F.R.D. at 511 (citations omitted). The objecting party “must demonstrate to the court ‘that the requested documents either do not come within the broad scope of relevance defined pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 26(b)(1) or else are of such marginal relevance that the potential harm occasioned by discovery would outweigh the ordinary presumption in favor of broad disclosure.’” Id. (quoting Burke v. New York City Police Dep’t, 115 F.R.D. 220, 224 (S.D.N.Y.1987)). Use of “boilerplate” objections such as: “the requested documents are neither relevant to the subject matter of this action nor reasonably calculated to lead to discovery of admissible evidence,” “the request is overbroad,” and “the request is oppressive, burdensome, and harassing,” are insufficient and “are textbook examples of what federal courts have routinely deemed to be improper objections.” Id. at 512. Instead, the party resisting discovery must show specifically how each request is overly broad, oppressive, irrelevant or unduly burdensome. Id. 6 (citing Redland Soccer Club v. Dep’t of Army, 55 F.3d 827, 856 (3d Cir. 1995); McLeod, Alexander, Powel & Apffel, P.C. v. Quarles, 894 F.2d 1482, 1485 (5th Cir. 1990); Paulsen v. Case Corp., 168 F.R.D. 285, 289 (C.D. Cal. 1996); Burns v. Imagine Films Entert., Inc., 164 F.R.D. 589, 592-93 (W.D.N.Y. 1996). Indeed, “[g]eneral objections are not useful to the court ruling on a discovery motion. Nor does a general objection fulfill [a party’s] burden to explain its objections.” Chubb Integrated Sys. Ltd v. Nat'l Bank of Wash., 103 F.R.D. 52, 58 (D.D.C. 1984). As discussed in detail below, Obama, Holder and Lynch’ generalized, refusal to comply with the Committee subpeana is boilerplate objections are insufficient.

III. ERIC HOLDER AND CO-CONSPIRATORS CONSTITUTE OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE AND OBSTRUCTION OF CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION AND FAILURE TO PROSECUTE LOIS LERNER AND OTHERS WHO OBSTRUCTED THE COMMITTEE’S INVESTIGATION CONSTITUTE CONSPIRACY TO OBSTRUCT A CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION AND VIOLATION OF USC SECTION 1505

The Plaintiff and/or Petitioners objects to any defenses; as any and all defenses are insufficient as a matter of law. Obama et al can not claim executive privilege or specific objection to each item the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioner request or requested. This court should overrule any and all of the Defendants objectives because it relates to national security, and further should object to any further obstruction by Obama et al .

A. OBAMA et al CAN NOT CLAIM ANY ACT OF PRODUCTION PRIVILEGE

In General Objection D, Obama and/or Lynch stated he “objects to Plaintiff’s requests to the extent that the act of production and Fifth Amendment privileges apply.” As an initial matter, there is no Fifth Amendment privilege regarding the contents of the documents the Commission requests. In re Grand Jury Subpoena Dated July 6, 2005, 256 F. The Fifth Amendment’s protections in certain limited circumstances may be implicated by the very act of producing the documents or records. United States v. Teeple, 286 F.3d 1047, 1049 (8th Cir. 2002) (citations omitted). This aspect of the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination is commonly referred to as the “act of production privilege.” The act of production privilege is limited to two situations: “first if the existence and location of the [requested] papers are unknown to the government and, second, where production would implicitly authenticate the documents” In re Grand Jury Subpoena, 256 F. App’x at 381 (internal quotations and citation omitted). In contrast, the privilege does not apply to situations where “the existence, possession, and authenticity of the documents are a ‘foregone conclusion’ and the [producing defendant] adds little or nothing to the sum total of the Government’s information by his act of producing the documents.” Teeple, 286 F.3d at 1050 (internal quotations and citation omitted). In other words, “where the government already possesses the knowledge that would otherwise be communicated, the question is not of testimony but of surrender.” Id. (internal quotations and citation omitted). For example, in Teeple, the Eighth Circuit held that the production of business documents pursuant to an IRS administrative summons did not implicate the act of production privilege because the individual’s possession of the requested documents was a “forgone conclusion” based upon the individual’s previous testimony in which he admitted to possession of such documents. Id. at 1051. As in Teeple, Obama and/or Lynch’ possession of the requested documents is a “foregone conclusion,” based upon Obama and/or Lynch’ previous investigative testimony and incomplete productions made pursuant to the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners administrative subpoenas as well as statements of his attorneys. In other words, Obama and/or Lynch’ production of the requested documents would not implicate any privilege against self-incrimination because the Commission already knows he possess the requested documents due to his previous investigative testimony, his partial, incomplete responses to an investigative subpoena, and the statements of his counsel.

B. Obama et al Cannot Limit Production To “Personal” Documents

The Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners request is not limited to Obama et al personal documents, but rather all documents in Obama and/or Lynch' possession, custody, or control. Whether Obama and/or Lynch no longer maintains control over an entity is of no consequence.

Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 34(a)(1), Obama and/or Lynch must produce any documents in his possession, custody, or control whether personal or not. Huggins v. Fed. Express Corp., 250 F.R.D. 404, 408 (E.D. Mo.2008) ("Control is defined broadly as the ability to obtain upon demand documents in the possession of another. The party to whom the discovery is directed need not have legal ownership or actual physical possession, but rather a practical ability to obtain the documents.") (citation and internal quotations omitted); In re Hallmark Capital Corp., 534 F. Supp. 2d 981, 981 (D. Minn. 2008) (same). A party need not have actual possession of documents to be required to produce them under Fed. R. Civ. P. 34. In re Domestic Air Transp. Antitrust Litig., 142 F.R.D. 354, 356 (N.D. Ga. 1992) ("A party need not have actual possession of the documents to be deemed in control of them. The test is whether the party has a legal right to control them.") (internal citations omitted). Courts have defined "control" as the legal right to obtain documents upon demand. Nor would the production of the requested documents "implicitly authenticate" them. The Plaintiffs and/or Petitioner may authenticate the requested documents in a number of alternative methods, including obtaining testimony from the sender or recipient of communications with Obama and/or Lynch or through the documents own distinctive characteristics. See Fed. R. Evid. 901(b)(1) & (b)(4). Searock v. Stripling, 736 F.2d 650 (11th Cir. 1984). "Production may be ordered when a party has the legal right to obtain papers, even though he has no copy, and regardless of whether a paper is beyond the jurisdiction of the court." Buckley v. Vidal, 50 F.R.D. 271, 274 (S.D.N.Y. 1970). In other words, the responding party cannot furnish only that information within his immediate knowledge or possession; he is under an affirmative duty to seek all information reasonably available to him. Weaver v. Gross, 107 F.R.D. 715, 717 (D.D.C. 1985) (declaring that "a party cannot take a purposefully restricted approach to discovery by furnishing only that information within his immediate knowledge or possession" and further adding that "a party has a duty to seek that information reasonably available to him from his employees, agents, or others subject to his control."). Contrary to the law, Obama and/or Lynch' responded to the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners requests for documents reflecting or relating to communications he had with the Investment Entities and investors are personal in nature and not under the custody and control of the Receiver . . ." Ex. C at specific objections 1 & 2 (emphasis added). As discussed above, Obama and/or Lynch must produce all documents in his possession, custody, and control. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 34, he may not unilaterally limit his production to communications that were only "personal" in nature. Id. See also, Huggins, 250 F.R.D. at 408.

(Requests 1 & 2), by stating he would only provide "documents responsive to [each] request that

IV. OBAMA AND/OR LYNCH' SPECIFIC OBJECTIONS

Obama claim executive privilege. No attorney-client privilege. Upon information and belief, Obama and/or Lynch failed to provide any explanation as to why each of the specific requests was overbroad, burdensome, and would not lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Quite the contrary, the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners' requests relate directly to the heart of the Complaint's allegations – namely, whether Obama and/or Lynch defrauded investors and misappropriated their funds for his personal use. As discussed in Section II above, such boilerplate objections, are insufficient as a matter of law, and should not be considered by the Court. St. Paul Reins. Co., 198 F.R.D. at 511 (citations omitted). Moreover, as alleged the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioner has reason to believe the Defendants are engaged in “predicate acts” and/or Racketeering Activity as defined in 18 USC section 1961. The Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners request the Defendants to compel production of documents as follows:

The class Defendant and/or Respondent have exhausted all administrative remedies and/or other remedies and have no other adequate remedies at law.

Wherefore the Plaintiff and/or Petitioners request this court ADJUDICATE TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND/OR GRANT THE PETITION FOR WRIT OF MANDAMUS. Plaintiff and/or Petitioner respectfully request this court to assist the Plaintiff and issue and/or write the court Judgment, order or mandamus.

COMPELLING FOREIGN CORPORATIONS TO PRODUCE DOCUMENTS

A domestic corporation may be considered to be a "person" within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. It is not necessary to treat a corporation as a person in all circumstances. United States case law is confusing concerning this matter when dealing with foreign corporations, and their operation within the United States. Especially troubling have been rulings concerning the Fourth Amendment of the United States Constitution and Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution. A foreign agent may not claim Fifth Amendment provisions against self-incrimination. Nor can records be withheld from subpoena duces tecum on the grounds that production of such documents would incriminate officers or other members of the foreign corporation. However, there is case authority in which foreign corporations have been protected from illegal searches and seizures, including documents and books.^[50] The matter of a foreign corporation operating as a "person" within the United States being afforded protection under the Fourteenth Amendment is discussed^[51].

THE PETITIONER HAS EXHAUSTED ALL AVAILABLE REMEDIES AND HAVE NO OTHER ADEQUATE REMEDIES AT LAW

There is no other adequate remedy in a court, because plaintiff is not offered the opportunity to rebut consular findings concerning the case, and because plaintiff is not permitted to appeal the termination due to the expiration of the four month validity period of the challenged regulations. United States Department of Homeland Security, United States Citizenship and Immigration Services ("USCIS"). As Director of USCIS, Mr. Mayorkas is responsible for the overall

DELIBERATE PROCESS PRIVILEGE

The deliberative process privilege "is not absolute, however after the government makes a sufficient showing of entitlement to the privilege, the district court should balance the competing interests of the parties. The party seeking discovery bears the burden of showing that its need for the documents out-weights the government's interest." Redland Soccer Club v. Dept. of Army of the Untied States, 55 F. 3d 827, 854 (3d Cir. 1995). See also The Government Privileges Monograph at pp. 21-22. In balancing the interests, courts consider various factors, including: (i) the relevant of the evidence sought to be protected; (ii) the availability of other evidence; (iii) the 'seriousness' of the litigation and the issues involved; (iv) the role of the government in the litigation; [and] (v) the possibility of future timidity by government employees who would be forced to recognize that their secrets are violable." The Plaintiffs

PRESIDENTIAL COMMUNICATION

Congress incorporated the principles underlying this privilege in exemption (b)(7) of the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. §552 (b)(7), which allows the Government to withhold: investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such records would (A) interfere with enforcement proceedings, (B) deprive a person of a right to a fair trial or an impartial adjudication, (C) constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, (D) disclose the identity of a confidential source and, in the case of a record compiled by a criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation, or by an agency conducting a lawful national security intelligence investigation, confidential information furnished only by the confidential source, (E) disclose investigative techniques and procedures, or (F) endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel. See, e.g., NLRB v. Robbins Tire & Rubber Co., 437 U.S. 214, 223 (1978); see also, United States Dept. of Justice v. Landano, 508 U.S. 165, 171-72 (1993); John Doe Agency v. John Doe Corp., 493 U.S. 146, 153-54 (1989). To successfully invoke this privilege, the Government must meet three requirements: (1) there must be a formal claim of privilege by the head of the department having control over the requested information; (2) assertion of the privilege must be based on actual personal consideration by that official; and (3) the information for which the privilege is claimed must be specified, with an explanation why it properly falls within the scope of the privilege.

In re Sealed Case, 856 F.2d at 271. Accord Landry v. F.D.I.C., 204 F.3d 1125, 1135 (D.C. Cir. 2000). The “head of the department” requirement has been broadly interpreted to include, in addition to the head of the department, “supervisory personnel . . . of sufficient rank to achieve the necessary deliberateness in assertion of the [privilege].” As alleged in the Plaintiffs affidavit and complaint the DOJ, Health and Human Services, HUD, and/or the US Treasury

In United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 686 (1974), the President of the United States sought “to quash a third-party subpoena duces tecum issued by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, pursuant to Fed. R. Crim. Proc. 17(c). The subpoena directed the President to produce certain tape recordings and documents relating to his conversations with aides and advisers,” to be used by a Special Prosecutor in a criminal case against third parties. The President argued, among other matters, that the Constitution provided “an absolute privilege of confidentiality for all Presidential communications.” Id. at 703. However, the Supreme Court rejected this claim, holding that confidential Presidential communications are only Pursuant to the state secrets privilege, “ matters the revelation of which reasonably could be seen as a threat to the military or diplomatic interests of the Nation - are absolutely privileged from disclosure in the courts . to a Senate Committee The Supreme Court explained: In this case the President challenges a subpoena served on him as a third party requiring the production of materials for use in a criminal prosecution; he does so on the claim that he has a privilege against disclosure of confidential communications. He does not place his claim of privilege on the ground they are military or diplomatic secrets investigating “‘illegal, improper or unethical activities’ providing support to the enemy, money laundering, jeopardizing, national security of the United States of America, its citizen occurring in connection with the Select Committee did not carry its burden of showing that “the subpoenaed evidence is demonstrably critical to the responsible fulfillment of the Committee’s [legislative] functions.” the Select Committee’s alleged need for the tape recordings “to resolve particular conflicts in the voluminous testimony it has heard,” id. at 731, did not outweigh the presumption of confidentiality. 141 S.S. Corp., 333 U.S. 103, 111 (1948), dealing with Presidential authority involving foreign policy considerations, the Court said: “The President, both as Commander-in-Chief and as the Nation’s organ for foreign affairs, has available intelligence services whose reports are not and ought not to be published to the world. It would be intolerable that courts, without the relevant information, should review and perhaps nullify actions of the Executive taken on information properly held secret.” Nixon, 418 U.S. at 710. The Court then weighed “the importance of the general privilege of confidentiality of Presidential communication in performance of the President’s responsibilities against” the interests in the “fair administration of criminal justice,” id. at 711-12, and concluded that the privilege was outweighed by those interests, stating: when the ground for asserting privilege as to subpoenaed materials sought for use in a criminal trial is based only on the generalized interest in confidentiality, it cannot prevail over the fundamental demands of due process of law in the fair administration of criminal justice. The generalized assertion of privilege must yield to the demonstrated, specific need for evidence in a pending criminal trial. Id. at 713. Accord In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d 729, 745 (D.C. Cir. 1997) (“the privilege is qualified, not absolute, and can be overcome by an adequate showing of need”). The Presidential communications privilege “is limited to communications ‘in performance of [a President’s] responsibilities . . . of his office’ . . . and made ‘in the process of shaping policies and making decisions.’ [T]he law enforcement privilege is qualified. The public interest in non-disclosure must be balanced against the need of a particular litigant for access to the privileged information.” In re Sealed Case, 856 F.2d at 272. Accord Friedman, 738 F.2d at 1341. The District of Columbia Circuit has ruled that in applying this balancing test the district court should consider: (1) the extent to which disclosure will thwart governmental processes by discouraging citizens from giving the government information; (2) the impact upon persons who have given information of having their identities disclosed; (3) the degree to which governmental self-evaluation and consequent program improvement will be chilled by disclosure; (4) whether the information sought is factual data or evaluative summary; (5) whether the party seeking discovery is an actual or potential defendant in any criminal proceeding either pending or reasonably likely to follow from the incident in question; (6) whether the police investigation has been completed; (7) whether any interdepartmental disciplinary proceedings have arisen or may arise from the investigation; (8) whether the plaintiff’s suit is nonfrivolous and brought in good faith; (9) whether the information sought is available through other discovery or from other sources; (10) the importance of the information sought to the plaintiff’s case.

NO FIFTH AMENDMENT PRIVILEGE FOR THE DEFENDANTS

Further, Barak Obama and/or Eric Holder et al, acted outside of scope of authority, acted in their private persons, conspired¹ under the color of Federal and/or State law with two or more persons and/or Corporations violated international law A person and/or corporation who fears a future criminal prosecution by a foreign country may not invoke the privilege. See United States v. Balsys, 524 U.S. 666, 698-99 (1998). Moreover, the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination applies only to natural persons, and not to corporations. See Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74-75 (1906). See also Mason v. United States, 244 U.S. 362, 367 (1917) (holding that a witness lacked reasonable cause to fear incrimination from his sought testimony about his participation in a card-game that was not itself illegal); Martin-Trigona v. Gouletas, 634 F.2d 354, 360-62 (7th Cir. 1980) (ruling that the Fifth Amendment privilege did not preclude a witness' testimony about his financial transactions that had "only the most tenuous relationship to any potentially incriminating financial transactions"). Aka Queen Elizabeth, Obama, Hillary et al are subject to criminal prosecution in other countries, in Brussels, Lybia, and other countries unknown to the Plaintiff. Thus the United States is entitled to all books, documents, etc. in order to complete its civil or criminal investigation and is entitled to injunctive relief.

THIS DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURT TO EQUITABLE AUTHORITY

Article III, Section 2 of the United States Constitution provides, in relevant part, that A[t]he judicial Power shall extend to all Cases, in Law and Equity, arising under this Constitution, the Laws of the United States, and Treaties Made, or which shall be made, under their Authority. The United States of America ex rel Sharon Bridgewater Private attorney General and/or . et al have filed formal criminal charges and filed a complaint and affidavit of probable cause and argues there are not other adequate remedies at law and further argues equitable remedies are enforceable by contempt of court or congress and there is not have a right to a jury trial to obtain equitable relief. Under these principles, courts have ruled that a wide variety of causes of actions constitute actions for equitable relief, including injunctions, disgorgement of wrongdoers ill-gotten gains, restitution of illegally obtained profits, divestiture or dissolution, appointment of a receiver and others to assist the court in executing its duties, and constructive trusts. Moreover, an action for money damages is a remedy at law."Teamsters Local No. 391 v. Terry, 494 U.S. 558, 570 (1990). However, an award of monetary relief is not necessarily legal relief. The Supreme Court has characterized damages as equitable where they are restitutionary, such as in actions for a comprehensive discussion of equitable remedies, disgorgement of improper profits or when a monetary award is incidental to or intertwined with injunctive relief. A claim could be deemed equitable if it sought a coercive remedy like injunction."As alleged in the complaint all associated with the Further a writ of mandamus is appropriate to compel surrender of documents in the possession of attorneys or other persons that have been illegally obtained under the abuse of a writ of attachment

In an 1893 case, the United States Attorney in Alabama refused to vacate his office, refusing to surrender books, papers and other materials in the possession of that office to the newly appointed U.S. Attorney. The federal court in Alabama issued a writ directing the previous attorney to relinquish the documents. He, in turn, sought relief from the Supreme Court, which denied his application, saying it would not interfere with the properly conducted internal matters of a court. In the case In re: Parson, the United States Supreme Court wrote: "If the orders be regarded merely as directions in the administration of judicial affairs in respect of the immediate possession of property or custody of prisoners, we cannot be properly called to, by reason of anything appearing on these records, in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction in this manner, to direct them to be set aside. And if the proceedings should be treated as involving a final determination as on issues joined to the right to such possession and custody, there was no complaint of want of notice or of hearing, and the summary made adopted did not in itself affect the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court upon the ground that it had exceeded its powers. Mandamus is the remedy where a lower court has clearly failed to issue compulsion to produce documents, or to allow the petitioner access to such documents as may be in the possession of the court or the parties to the action. Even further a Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel the quashal of a subpoena duces tecum for the production before a grand jury of attorney-client privilege and would apply to attorney work product. Oversight "have a clear legal right to the requested relief," money or property, e-mails, documents, printed, recorded, reproduced by process or written or produced by hand including, but not limited to books, records, reports, agreements, communications, including inter-department and intra department communications, correspondence, letters, telegrams, memoranda, financial statements, summaries, or records of personal conversations, tapes recordings, statistical statements, notebooks, charts, graphs, indexes, drawings, blue prints, minutes or records, or meetings, including directors meetings, minutes of conferences, drafts of any documents, and original or preliminary notes etc.

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL

THE DEFENDANTS LORETTA LYNCH IS GUILTY OF OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE AND/OR CONTEMPT OF CONGRESS AND CONSPIRING TO ENGAGE IN A PATTERN OF RACKETEERING ACTIVITY. Civil RICO, AND FURTHER .

Tam explicitly authorizes the Government to invoke collateral estoppel to prove its civil RICO charges, and provides as follows: A final judgment or decree rendered in favor of the United States in any criminal proceeding brought by the United States under this chapter shall estop the defendant from denying the essential allegations of the criminal offense in any subsequent civil proceeding brought by the United States. Collateral estoppel "means simply that when an issue of ultimate fact has once been determined by a valid and final judgment, that issue cannot again be litigated between the same parties in any future lawsuit.” Ashe v. Swenson, 397 U.S. 436, 443 (1970). Accord United States v. Console, 13 F.3d 641, 664 (3d Cir. 1993). Moreover, a party invoking collateral estoppel bears the burden of demonstrating that the issue of fact whose litigation he seeks to foreclose was actually decided in his favor by a valid and final judgment in an earlier proceeding. See Dowling v. United States, 493 U.S. 342, 350-51 (1990) (collecting cases); Console, 13 F.3d at 665, n. 28. To determine whether a party has carried his burden of establishing that a jury in a prior prosecution necessarily resolved a particular fact in his favor, “re.res a court to ‘examine the record of a prior proceeding, taking into account the pleadings, evidence, charge, and other relevant matter, and conclude whether a rational jury could have grounded its verdict upon an issue other than that which the defendant seeks to foreclose from consideration.’” Ashe, 397 U.S. at 444 (citation deleted). The Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners request is not limited to Obama et al personal documents, but rather all documents in Obama and/or Lynch’ possession, custody, or control. Whether Obama and/or Lynch no longer maintains control over an entity is of no consequence.

Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 34(a)(1), Obama and/or Lynch must produce any documents in his possession, custody, or control whether personal or not. Huggins v. Fed. Express Corp., 250 F.R.D. 404, 408 (E.D. Mo.2008) (“Control is defined broadly as the ability to obtain upon demand documents in the possession of another. The test is whether the party has a legal right to control them.”) (internal citations omitted). Courts have defined “control” as the legal right to obtain documents upon demand. Nor would the production of the requested documents “implicitly authenticate” them. The Plaintiffs and/or Petitioner may authenticate the requested documents in a number of alternative methods, including obtaining testimony from the sender or recipient of communications with Obama and/or Lynch or through the documents own distinctive characteristics. See Fed. R. Evid. 901(b)(1) & (b)(4). *Searock v. Contrary to the law, Obama and/or Lynch’ responded to the Plaintiffs and/or Petitioners requests for documents reflecting or relating to communications he had with the Investment Entities and investors are personal in nature and not under the custody and control of the Receiver” Ex. C at specific objections 1 & 2 (emphasis added). As discussed above, Obama and/or Lynch must produce all documents in his possession, custody, and control. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 34, he may not unilaterally limit his production to communications that were only “personal” in nature. Id. See also, Huggins, 250 F.R.D. at 408.

Congress incorporated the principles underlying this privilege in exemption (b)(7) of the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. §552 (b)(7), which allows the Government to withhold: investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes, but only to the extent that the production of such records would (A) interfere with enforcement proceedings, (B) deprive a person of a right to a fair trial or an impartial adjudication, (C) constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, (D) disclose the identity of a confidential source and, in the case of a record compiled by a criminal law enforcement authority in the course of a criminal investigation, or by an agency conducting a lawful national security intelligence investigation, confidential information furnished only by the confidential source, (E) disclose investigative techniques and procedures, or (F) endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel. 3. BUSH CRIME FAMILY
4. How the Bush Crime Syndicate funneled foreign cash into the U.S. political system in Florida

Experienced federal investigators, acting independently, have discovered a covert funding channel used by the 2000 and 2004 Bush-Cheney campaigns and the administrations of Jeb Bush in Florida and Bob Taft in Ohio to illegally funnel foreign and other questionable money into Republican coffers.

Ever since the brutal death of Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) investigator Ray Lemme in July 2003, the focus of investigators in Florida and Georgia has been on the political scandal Lemme was uncovering. After his official investigation of contract fraud, money laundering, illegal immigration, and election fraud was shut down on orders of Jeb Bush, Lemme continued to investigate the use of FDOT to launder cash for the Bush brothers and their allies. Lemme's focus was on the use of the Florida Turnpike system to launder cash for the Jeb and George W. Bush campaigns. It was an investigation that would ultimately lead to Lemme's body being discovered in a motel room bathtub in Valdosta, Georgia. A two-state police cover-up of Lemme's death, threats directed at Florida and Georgia investigators, and a virtual media blackout indicates that the GOP administrations of Jeb Bush and Georgia's Sonny Perdue wanted the Lemme story to go away—and fast.

The reason for the cover-up of Lemme's reported "suicide" is simple. Investigators have now discovered that foreign cash, including , Saudi, and Nigerian money, was laundered via the biggest state-run cash cow in Florida—the Florida Turnpike system. Because most of the transactions involving Florida's toll roads involve cash and huge amounts of it, it was easy for foreign and other questionable money to be laundered via FDOT.

Lemme had reportedly become aware of the use of FDOT to commit criminal acts. Valdosta, where Lemme went to meet a still unknown source, is a key center for international organized criminal activity, including illegal foreign worker smuggling, involving close political allies of George W. and Jeb Bush.

From Dec. 6. 2004 article "Texas to Florida: White House-linked clandestine operation paid for "vote switching" software," Yang's [Yang Enterprises] questionable billing activities with its Florida DOT contract came to the attention of Ray C. Lemme, a seasoned senior investigator with the Florida DOT Inspector General's Office and a combat veteran of the Vietnam War. Lemme had a lot of evidence to suspect that Yang was overbilling the DOT for "millions." After discovering Yang's dirty laundry, Curtis went to work for the DOT. Mavis Georgalis, the DOT's contracting officer for the Yang contract, was also aware of improprieties with the contract. As a result of pressure from the Florida State House, both Curtis and Georgalis were eventually fired by the DOT because of their complaints about the Yang contract. Someone was obviously trying to send Curtis a message when, on August 14, 2002, he discovered that someone poisoned his pet Pomeranian dog, Emily. Lemme was forced to stop his official investigation of Yang for similar reasons. However, he decided to continue an "unofficial" investigation of Yang and its practices on the side. It was a fateful decision.

According to DOT employees familiar with the Yang case, Lemme was aware that it was Jeb Bush who personally shut down his investigation of Yang. Lemme also leaked details concerning his investigation to the Daytona Beach News Journal. The investigator had previously requested a full audit of the Yang contract with the DOT, a request that was denied. Lemme also became aware of something else outside the framework of the DOT contract—that Yang had been involved in producing a prototype vote switching program for use with touch screen voting machines and that Tom Feeney was in on the scam. The last time Clint Curtis spoke to Lemme, he remembers the silver haired investigator excited about where his case was leading. Lemme told Curtis that the cover up of Yang was coming from "as high up as I could imagine" and that he had "proof" that was "shocking."

On Sunday, June 29, 2003, evidence indicates that Lemme drove from Tallahassee to Valdosta, Georgia, the home of Moody Air Force Base. A motel receipt indicated that Lemme checked in at the Knight's Inn off Interstate 75 at 6:49 p.m. Lemme's wife said that her husband left home for work on Monday, June 30, at 5:15 a.m., an hour earlier than usual. According to a Leon County Sheriff's report, Lemme's wife said she received a voice message after she returned home at 6:45 p.m. on Monday. The message was from her husband's supervisor, Bob Clift, who informed her that earlier in the day, at 6:15 a.m., Lemme called into work, left a message, and said he would not be coming to work that day. Clift said he was checking up on Ray Lemme. Mrs. Lemme called Clift and told him that her husband was not at home. Mrs. Lemme told police that her husband was working on a "big case." Mrs. Lemme filed a missing person report with the Leon County, Sheriff's Office. Clift later determined that Ray Lemme made his earlier call to work at 6:15 a.m., one hour after he supposedly left his home for work, from a pay phone at the junction of Interstate 10 and Highway 1 in Jefferson County, Florida. Shortly after 11:00 a.m. on Tuesday, July 1, the maid assigned to clean Lemme's room—132—received no answer when she knocked. The door was locked. There was no response when the maid called the room's telephone. The hotel manager then called the police.

The following is from the Valdosta Police Detective Report filed by Detective Craig Spencer and dated July 1, 2003: "On July 1, 2003 at approximately 1330 hours, I received a page advising me to be en route to Knights Inn at 2110 West Hill Avenue in reference to an unattended death." When Spencer and other police officers and detectives arrived at the motel, the manager told them that the occupant of Room 132, Ray Lemme, was to have checked out by 11a.m. The officers yelled through the slightly ajar door but received no answer and they discovered the upper swing latch was locked. The officers used a special tool provided by the motel to open the swing latch lock. Spencer said that one of the officers entered the room and found a suicide note and then proceeded to the bathroom where Lemme was found dead in the bathtub. Police also discovered that the inside of Lemmes's left elbow—the cubital tunnel—was slashed. There were spurts of blood on the wall but no blood found on the floor. A belt possibly used as a tourniquet and a double- edged straight razor blade were found on the side of the tub. A bath towel was unfolded and neatly placed on the floor next to the tub.

Later on July 1, the Georgia Bureau of Investigation Crime Laboratory in Moultrie informed the Valdosta Police that based on the "suicide" details, no autopsy would be performed on Lemme. Unlike Florida, Georgia does not perform mandatory autopsies. A doctor, with 25 years' clinical experience, who was interviewed for this story, claimed that the circumstances of Lemme's death appeared to him to be a classic "mob hit." If the Leon County Sheriff missing person report is to be believed, it is clear that someone other than Lemme checked into the Valdosta motel on Sunday evening using his name. Clearly, the Leon County Sheriff's report contains a number of details that directly conflict with facts found in the Valdosta Police report. In addition, the Lowndes County, Georgia, Coroner's report fails to indicate an estimated time of death based on a full medical examination—it surmised that the time of death was the same time as indicated on the suicide note: 8:10 a.m. on July 1.

An empty manila folder and a blank legal pad notebook were found on the hotel room's desk along with an undated and unsigned suicide note written on lined paper, which lacked any identifiable fingerprints, from Lemme's day planner. The note merely contained the time 8:10 a.m. with the following notation: "I love my family (family underlined once) with all my heart. I am sorry. I am depressed and in pain. Mary Ann (Lemme's wife), I love you." ("I love you" underlined twice). It was certainly not indicative of a person who was ecstatic that he was finally going to nail a long investigation that involved vote rigging, overbilling, and fraud abetted by the very top political leadership in Tallahassee. Interestingly, the last number on Lemme's pager (an 850 960-XXXX) ended with the number "911."

10. It is also interesting that Lemme's watch, when discovered by the police, was stopped at 12:34 p.m. on June 30—a possible indication that Lemme was trying to convey the time of a possible in extremis situation. Also, Lemme's Florida driver's license was in his room while his wallet was in the glove box of his car, which was parked in front of the room. Two motel receipts were found in Lemme's room by the police. One was a check-in receipt dated June 29 and timed at 6:44 p.m. The other was a receipt, without a notation of check-in or check-out, dated June 30 and timed at 6:54 a.m. A witness told police that Lemme's car was parked in front of his room on the afternoon of June 30.

Sergeant Eugene Bell of the Valdosta Police Department interviewed a 39-year old female guest who was staying in Room 236 over the weekend. She and her daughter noticed three men standing in the parking lot across from Lemme's room at 8 a.m. on the morning of July 1. The behavior of the men made the guest suspicious enough that the woman initially believed the men were engaged in a drug deal. According to the police report, the camera used to photograph the crime scene was later discovered to have a defect in the flash memory card. The defect resulted in no usable photographs being submitted with the official police report.

Later, veteran GAO and FBI investigative specialist John Caylor discovered that the Valdosta Police story about a defective digital camera memory stick and the purported lack of crime scene photos of Lemme's motel room was a ruse. Caylor was able to obtain the crime scene photos of Lemme from the Valdosta Police. Lemme's body, found in Room 132 of the Knights Inn bathtub, clearly shows that he was brutally beaten and strangled prior to his death—reported by police to have been from a self-inflicted razor cut to his arm.

It is unlikely that Lemme, who told former FDOT and Yang programmer Clint Curtis that he was on the verge of cracking a huge case that went straight "to the top," would have traveled to a state like Georgia, where autopsies are not mandatory, to commit suicide. Moreover, Lemme drove a beeline route to Valdosta, an indication that he was anxious to meet with his "source." Lemme had been informed that a Chinese sub-contract programmer for Yang named Henry Nee (aka Hai Lin Nee), who had been busted by Immigration and Customs Enforcement officers for illegally transferring missile parts to China, had been given the Social Security number of an Iowa resident. Although Nee had only been in the United States for five years, his Social Security number from Iowa had been issued to another individual 24 years earlier. Valdosta is a center for illegal smuggling and it was this nexus of illegal alien smuggling and money laundering that attracted Lemme to the city.

After Lemme's death, Valdosta criminal activities and bribes paid to Florida politicians became the subject of a grand jury investigation run by US Attorney for Northwest Florida Greg </x-tad-bigger><x-tad-bigger>Miller. Miller's investigation reportedly dovetailed with Lemme's probe of money laundering involving FDOT and Florida turnpike receipts. The chairman of the Florida Transportation Commission, who has control of FDOT and the turnpike system, is Earl K. Durden, a major GOP player in Florida who is close to both Jeb and George W. Bush. Durden was appointed to the Transportation Commission post by Jeb Bush. When Miller's investigation of money laundering was leaked, it was George W. Bush who personally flew to Florida from Washington to close down the entire probe.

Eight Florida Panhandle counties west of Tallahassee (Bay, Gulf, Okaloosa, Walton, Holmes, Washington, Santa Rosa, and Escambia) and the border counties of Georgia (Lowndes, Echols, Brooks, Thomas, Grady and Decatur) and Alabama (Houston, Geneva, Covington, Escambia, and Baldwin) have long been centers of illicit Bush activities dating back to the Iran-contra and savings and loan failures. Lowndes County, where Valdosta is located, is a major center for Bush-connected criminal activity. Gulf and Bay counties are centers for Jeb Bush-connected organized crime activity.

Now comes word that "Coingate" in Ohio is tied to the same criminal elements in the GOP that were responsible for turnpike toll money laundering in Florida. Durden's counterpart in Ohio, Tommy Noe, a Bush "Pioneer" contributor whom Gov. Taft appointed to the Ohio Turnpike Commission, is in the center of a major scandal involving missing state funds invested in rare coins and baseball cards. Shortly after the </x-tad-bigger><x-tad-bigger>Toledo Blade</x-tad-bigger><x-tad-bigger> began reporting on the Ohio coin scandal, Noe resigned from the turnpike commission.</x-tad-bigger>

<x-tad-bigger>An additional investigation of missing Ohio state revenue is focused on millions of state dollars invested in a hedge fund. Federal investigators are investigating charges that Noe laundered some of the missing $12 million from the state's coin fund into the Bush 2004 campaign. Mr. Bush has returned a mere $4,000 from Noe's contributions. Ohio and Florida were the scenes of major election fraud in 2004. It now appears that both states laundered hundreds of millions of dollars to engage in massive fraud involving all sectors of state government, from election officials and secretaries of state to state auditors and attorneys general.

Ohio and Florida have the highest turnpike toll rates in the nation coupled with the least oversight. Both states, rife with political corruption fostered by the patrician Republican Taft and Bush families, are now the center of Coingate scandals tied to political chicanery and money laundering.

Manhattan's veteran District Attorney Robert Morgenthau is on the verge of penetrating a major conduit for foreign money into the Bush family network and the American political system that parallels the campaign finance scandals in Ohio and Florida. Morgenthau's investigation of the notorious brothers, Sam and Charlie Wyly of Texas, the billionaires who spearheaded the Swift Boat disinformation campaign against John Kerry and a similar distortion effort against John McCain in 2000, is focused on a Wyly-controlled Isle of Man off-shore account tied to the Bank of America. In 1989, George H. W. Bush dispatched a Houston attorney to the Isle of Man to take charge of the secret Bush accounts. One of the accounts was Five Star Trust, a multi-billion dollar account used by the Bushes as a covert offshore money tranche for their political and business purposes.

PREDICATE ACT #

HIGH CRIME AND/OR MISDEMONOR

WILLIAM BILL CLINTON AND ERIC HOLDER'S (ACTING ATTORNEY GENERAL) IMPEACHABLE OFFENSE, OVERT ACT #1 CONSPIRACY ILLEGAL AIDING AND ABETTING A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE – MARC RICH

In furtherance of the unlawful agreement of Bill William Clinton and Eric Holder on or about 1993 and continuing thru the filing of this complaint, Plaintiff allege a billionaire financier and fugitive oil broker, who illegally bought oil from Iran during the American trade embargo, attempted to hide more than $100 million in profits by using dummy transactions in off-shore corporations and was indicted on 51 counts of racketeering, wire fraud, tax fraud, tax evasion, and the illegal oil transactions with Iran. On April 7, 1980, US President Jimmy Carter issued an executive order imposing a trade embargo on Iran. By the end of the month Rich and his co-conspirators began negotiating an oil deal with the Iranian Government and between July and Sept. of 1980 had wired more than $146 Million to the Iranian Government account located in London. Besides Iran he had also openly traded with other rogue regimes while under American sanctions, including North Korea, Gaddaffi's Libya, apartheid South Africa, Castro's Cuba, and others. At the same time Rich became obsessed with obtaining a pardon so he could return to his adopted New York City. Over the Years he when through high price attorneys only to have his plains rejected by a serious of US Attorneys. In 1999 Rich hired the ultimate insider Jack Quinn. Vice President Al Gore Chief of Staff and then had served as Bill Clinton's legal counsel before going into practice. Plaintiff believe and therefore allege by the time Quinn approached his friend Deputy Attorney General Eric Holder on behalf of his client(Rich) in Oct. 1999, Rich was listed on the interagency international fugitive list as WANTED by the US MARSHALL SERVICE, US CUSTOMS SERVICE AND THE FBI. Rich was also listed on the Justice Departments' website as an international fugitive. The posting further noted that the US will pay a reward for information that leads to the arrest, and even the IRS has offered a half-million dollar reward for his capture. Interpol had also posted Rich omits "Red Alert" list. Plaintiff believe and therefore allege Holder was more than eager to help Rich cause, and was later forced to admit that he and Quinn had discussed Holder becoming Attorney General in a potential Gore Administration. Holder acted as a go-between for Quinn and the US Attorney Mary Jo White, however she flatly requested the idea in February Of 2000. Quinn and the rest of Rich legal team changed strategy and moved toward Rich pardon from William Bill Clinton, and Eric Holder would eventually be called on again. Meanwhile, Rich-ex-wife, Denis, who had receive a generous divorce settlement from her former husband and had also happened to be close to the Clintons and had contributed to Hillary's New York Senate campaign had dramatically stepped up her campaign contributions to the Democratic Party and added another large donation to the Clinton Presidential library(which would bring the final total to $450,000. According to reports in the Israeli press, Rich himself funneled $120,000 to Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak's reelection campaign(and Rich would eventually press Barak for his assistance and had also donated 200 million dollars to Jewish and Israeli foundations over the coming months. In November, as Clinton's presidency was winding down Quinn approached Holder again. The plain they came up with was to go around the normal procedure and avoid contacting the US Pardon Attorney (Roger Adams) until the last minute. Adams would have to do a background check on Rich and Pincus Green) whom Quinn was also now reporting and then contact government attorneys and prosecutors involved with their criminal case. Holder told Quinn to contact the White House counsel Beth Noan, and have her to call him. On Jan. 19, 2001, on the eve of Clinton's final day in office, Quinn did just that, Holder than told Nolan that he was “neutral leaning favorable” toward pardon for Rich and Green. He also added that Ehud Barak was supportive. Nolan passed on the news to Clinton, but she express her opposition to the pardons Clinton would later use Holder recommendation as an excuse for his controversial action. But even at late hours there was still a chance to stop the pardons. Roger Adams would be required to sign the pardons, and when he was informed by White house staff that night, a perfunctory check was done. Adams was stunned to learn that Rich and Green both were fugitives. He tracked down Holder at called him at his home at 1:00 am that morning. Adam informed Holder that Clinton was giving serious consideration to pardoning the two fugitives. Holder told Adams he was aware of the fact, and the conversation abruptly ended. Holder has given numerous versions of his actions that morning. The narrative included ; that he was distracted that night; that he thought the pardon would never be issued; and that he assumed that Clinton had already made up his mind. On Jan. 22, after Clinton left Office, Holder was now “Acting Attorney General” and the Rich pardon was starting to erupt in the press. Holder personally advised Quinn to get “merits out of the case out publicly” including Barak’s support. Holder also advise Quinn to have travel and arrest warrants lifted for Rich and Green, to go to Manhattan Federal Court house and have indictments dismissed, and finally to contact Interpol concerning Clinton decision. During testimony before Congress that February, Holder was forced to admit under questioning by Bob Bar of Georgia that he never contacted the CIA, the FBI, the State Department nor the Federal prosecutors in New York in advance for Rich pardon. Holder would also insist his testimony that he only had a passing familiarity with Rich case even though he discussed it nine times with Jack Quinn between Oct. 1999 and Jan. 2001, and that he was unaware of who Rich was until he was first approached by Quinn. But during Holder’s confirmation to become President Obamas Attorney General in 2009, it was discovered that during the years that Holder was US Attorney in Washington in the mid 1990’s his office had settled a multi-million dollar fraud lawsuit against Rich, but Holder claimed that his staff had kept him in the dark.² .

From on or about 1993 and continuing to the present, in Washington, D.C., Defendants Eric Holder Jr. and William Bill Clinton co-conspirators for private gain and outside of their authority did unlawfully and knowingly use interstate mails and interstate wire communications to conspire with each other and with others to directly or indirectly, corruptly give, offer or promised something of value to other public official or person who had been selected to be a public official, directly or indirectly, to corruptly demand, seek,

² Pursuant to federal and/or State law, upon information and belief, the statue of limitation is tolled when a person aids and abets a fugitive from justice. Federal and/or State law requires the arrest, and investigation, prosecution and/or punishment for these crimes of William Bill Clinton and Eric Holder Jr.

‘Exposing’ Slave Practices of Rothschild Deflects Real Crime

Jurriaan Maessen
Prison Planet.com
Friday, July 3, 2009

Acting ‘greatly surprised’, British investment bank Rothschild ‘regrets that the firm is linked in any way to the inhumane institution of slavery.’ Supposedly big news to them, the ancient Rothschild establishment quickly mutters sounds of indignation after the report appeared in the new world order’s main media outlet, the Financial Times.

According to the FT, the chief archivist of the Rothschild family papers ‘reacted with disbelief when first told of the content of the records, saying she had never seen such links before.’ The archivist must either suffer from long-term memory loss, or her master has employed her because of her lying skills. Although called a ‘scoop’ by Lionel Barber in his

'pick of the week', the Rothschild links to slave trade have been thoroughly documented throughout the last decades by numerous independent researchers. But never mind that.

Carola Hoyas of the Financial Times nevertheless claims to have broken the story on June 27th that Nathan Mayer Rothschild benefited financially from slavery. According to Hoyas, records at the National Archives in Britain contain evidence that the family patriarch 'made personal gains by using slaves as collateral in banking dealings with a slave owner.' Well yeah. It should come as no surprise for anyone who has even superficially glanced over the annals of Rothschild history, that the family has engaged in slavery, not just 'with links' to slave-owners. They, like all other black nobility, are the slave-owners.

Should we be genuinely surprised about links to slavery from the man who told us 'I care not what puppet is placed on the throne of England to rule the Empire, (...). The man that controls Britain's money supply controls the British Empire. And I control the money supply.'?

Jacob Rothschild is Guilty for the Conspiracy Against Humankind

Many people do not believe that conspiracy exists. My interest in conspiracies arose when I found out that they exist in the case of the destruction of my homeland Yugoslavia. World media presented the destruction of Yugoslavia as an internal conflict amongst the Yugoslav people; this depiction was just a facade. The essence of the breakup of Yugoslavia was rooted in the colonization of the country. In 1990, the western republics, Slovenia and Croatia, elected parties that supported capitalism. Previously ruling communists won the Serbian election. As a result, Serbia impeded on the pro-Western reforms in Yugoslavia. I realized that the Western politicians and media supported the pro-Western republics and accused the Serbs for all of the problems Yugoslavia entered. This bias was the result of a conspiracy that aimed to alienate people and weaken them politically and economically, which is exactly what happened. The conspirators got power over the whole territory of the former Yugoslavia and cheaply took resources that were built by all the people of Yugoslavia. I have covered the causes of the breakup of Yugoslavia extensively here: "My debt to Yugoslavia."

People realize that injustice happens around the world. Many media accuse the corporations that rule the world and produce injustice but they do not blame the people who rule the corporations. In that way the media accept that nothing can be done against these rulers. Conspirators like such media because they spread general apathy in society. I have recognized that the allegations against corporations are useless and that it is necessary to find people who benefit from the ruling of the corporations in order to be able to stop them.

Ten years ago I wondered, who might have such great power that they could destroy Yugoslavia? Through investigation, I came to the conclusion that all roads lead to the Rothschild family, although they are very unexposed. The Rothschild family secretly governs the Western world, and so no one could hold them responsible for it. No one could remove them from power. Is that not the goal of conspiracy? At that time, I noticed that many religious people believed that doomsday is approaching and speculated on the identity of the Antichrist. They suspected George Soros, Prince Charles, and even the Pope. I tried to take advantage of the interest of Christians and suggested in the article "Has the Antichrist Come?", written in 2003, that Jacob Rothschild could be the Antichrist.

By the nineteenth century, the Rothschild family had already become the richest family in the world. Soon after that began the industrial revolution and the blossoming of colonialism where they became even richer; but then they withdrew from the public arena. Why did they do this? They certainly wanted to conquer the whole world. Taking into account that rulers were often unpopular, and for this they could even pay with their heads, the Rothschilds have decided to conquer the world secretly. They left to the families Rockefeller, Morgan, Goldberg and others to represent them in the ownerships of the world's biggest companies. Today, the Rothschilds are nowhere close to the list of the world's richest people but they still control the largest banks, most profitable companies and influential media. However, nobody knows it.

It is well spread opinion today that a dozen to up to five hundred families, owners of the largest corporations, rule the Western world. So then how would they make decisions? Is it possible that they practice democracy? No way. They are pirates who have been smoothly robbing the world in an organized manner for more than two hundred years. How would they split the profits from the attacks on Syria, Libya, Iraq, Yugoslavia? If these rich families were equal, they would by definition of piracy fight for supremacy and over the loot, but they never do. If there were only two equal families we would through their strife know who they are.

The Rothschilds, as the richest people in the world, have cleverly come to idea to make contracts with poor agents who then represent them in the ownership of companies. As a reward, these people usually get about 15% of the stock as a gift, while the rest belongs to the Rothschilds. These people were immediately able to buy mansions, yachts and planes. They are very grateful for it, loyal to the Rothschilds, and do their best not to disappoint them. For example: After the arrest of Mikhail Khodorkovsky for tax evasion in the oil company "Yukos" in Russia, Khodorkovsky tried to pass control of the shares over to Jacob Rothschild. Source Action Report Online.

Jacob Rothschild hides his power so much that he does not hesitate to use any means to present himself as a humble philanthropist. An insinuation: A photo of Jacob Rothschild taken by mistake in his home, Waddesdon Manor in England, with the "richest" man in the world, Warren Buffett, and California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, has recognized Jacob Rothschild as a very influential man. That is most likely why Jacob Rothschild decided to present Warren Buffett as a great philanthropist and himself as a man surrounded by such people. I think that Jacob Rothschild was behind Warren Buffett's statement that he intends to donate 85% of his wealth to charity. Of course in this case, this wealth belongs to Jacob Rothschild. The source: Reuters.

Recently, David Rockefeller decided to sell 37% of his Wealth Advisory and Asset Management Group to Jacob Rothschild for an undisclosed sum. Source Financial Services. It's no surprise they cooperate well, but this is not the problem here. When people buy something they usually need to pay taxes. There are some exceptions by the law and buying corporations is one of them. In this particular case even issuing a bill is not necessary. Why is the law so convenient to those who purchase corporations?

The old partners of the Rothschild family certainly have a larger share in the Rothschild family jointwealth, but they are dependent on them. They have also built their own structures of agents who are dependent on them. All relatives of the Rothschild family also own a major financial and economic power. They are all associated in a single hierarchical organization headed by Jacob Rothschild. Thus a secret organization was formed that has predominant financial power and like an octopus controls all power centers in the Western world . Thus, criminal policy has smoothly ruled the world for centuries.

The Rothschilds have such a huge financial power that they could easily redeem all the worth of the stock exchange. In addition, they offer investments to independent companies that the companies could hardly refuse. If the owners of the companies accept the terms of the investment, they may even retain control of their companies. It is critical for the Rothschilds that they are cooperative. If these companies oppose the Rothschilds, they cannot survive because the power of Rothschilds can easily remove them from the market. Presidents of major corporations receive astronomical bonuses because the overemphasizing of their importance reduces public significance towards the owners of the corporations. Thus, in the Western World, a secret monopoly power over companies is built. The same happens with entire countries. Saudi Arabia has been cooperative with the Rothschilds and therefore nobody touches it. The Rothschilds do not care what oil company exploits oil in the world as long as it belongs to them. If it does not, then the people who control the oil lose their power or even their lives like Muammar Gaddafi and Saddam Hussein.

One of the most important agents of the Rothschild family is George Soros. By portraying himself as a "great benefactor", he helped the reforms in Eastern Europe and donated to these countries one billion dollars through his organization "Open Society". The name he gave his organization is very ironic because he is one of the prominent members of the most closed society. He is a pirate who wounded many countries and peoples as a result of his greed. William Engdahl wrote about it in his article: The Secret Financial Network Behind "Wizard" George Soros. The article also presents Soros' connection with the Rothschilds.

Can you who do not believe in conspiracies explain why Soros has donated one billion dollars? Here is my explanation. It was not a gift but a big scam by which the agents of the Rothschild family's secret organization took the properties of Eastern European countries. I have no evidence. But if you think that the pirate Soros donated one billion dollars to the countries of Eastern Europe to let independent people get rich, then the Rothschild's conspiracy has successfully formed the way you think. By giving donations to Eastern Europe, Soros promoted capitalism as an ideal systemfinanced parties and media, and corrupted politicians. That allowed other agents of the Rothschild's to step in in organized manner and buy the state ownerships in these countries. That is how an investment of one billion dollars returned trillions. This is the only proper way to interpret Soros' philanthropy. It was organized crime. Some local people in these countries got rich as well, but they are agents who run the Rothschild companies and generally work for commissions.

The Rothschilds decide for whom people vote in the elections by investing large amounts of money to political parties that are most suitable to them and by promoting them through the media they control. In the end, it does not matter to them who will win because they finance, through their agents, all influential parties that follow their interests around the world. Thus they ensure that the policy that suits them would be accepted wherever liberal democracy exists. In the recent president elections in the US, both the dominant parties have spent around a billion dollars. There were more candidates for the presidential position but the Americans did not even know they exist. Where is the democracy?

It very rarely happens that things do not work out as the Rothschilds predict. But it happens. Serbs resisted the Rothschilds for ten years during the attack on Yugoslavia. Therefore, the Rothschilds have decided to commit an aggression against Yugoslavia by using NATO. President Clinton opposed their intention realizing that the aggression would be pure crime. Then, the Rothschilds set up the Monica Lewinsky case and blackmailed Clinton to be removed from the position if he did not command the aggression against Yugoslavia. The position, of course, was dearer to Clinton than the lives of thousands of people, and therefore he ordered the attack on Yugoslavia. Immediately after his approval, the Lewinsky case was completely forgotten. Please see the chronology at CNN. But it's not all. Clinton got a 500 million dollar donation to build his library in Little Rock, Arkansas. May it be the reward for the attack on Yugoslavia?

To prevent any opposition from the future U.S. president, the Rothschild family have chosen a man who was completely on their line - George W. Bush. I would say that he was too much on their line and therefore damaged America. There is one conspiracy theory that claims that the Bush administration carried out the assault on the World Trade Center in New York on 9/11/2001 to obtain a pretext for attacks on Iraq and Afghanistan, countries rich with minerals. I am sure that President Bush did not know about that because he was surprised and reacted very awkwardly when he heard that the planes hit the twin towers. This does not mean that the owners of corporations, who have more power than the US President, haven't been involved in the attack. They had a motive in getting people's support for the occupation of the independent countries and profiting from the military industry. They could even finance the terrorist act through Muslim alliances without the suicide terrorist knowing. There are indications that the prevention of the terrorist attack was inhibited. The investigation was sloppy.

Various conspiracy theories were put into circulation with the idea to fool people. There are experts who claim that building number 7 was demolished with explosives. This is not true. I am an architect and I know that steel structures are very sensitive to stress disorders as opposed to concrete structures. If only one pillar of the building breaks, stress disorder will move the whole construction a little bit. The focus of the building pressure will move from the center of all pillars. It creates large bending moments which significantly increase stress in all columns. Steel construction conducts high temperatures well, and then rapidly loses its carrying abilities, buckles, collapses, and destroys the building in the same way as if it were demolished by explosives. Unconvincing conspiracy theories create the opposite effect, so that people dismiss conspiracy theories as impossible in today's "democratic society". And that is a part of the Rothschild's conspiracy as well. Media today deliberately indoctrinate people by imposing misinformation and shallow values, because misinformed and stupid people are obedient and can not resist.

On the other hand, nobody investigates the real conspiracy. In the TV broadcast, Democracy Now on 2.3.2007, the U.S. General Wesley Clark said that immediately after 9-11, the Pentagon planned attacks on Afghanistan, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Libya, Somalia, Sudan and Iran. Is not that enough proof that there is a conspiracy? Clark is a true whistleblower because he unadvisedly betrayed the worst criminal action by the U.S. authorities. The U.S.

Army General's statement has not awakened any interest in the U.S. judiciary or the media. On the other hand whistleblowers Assange and Snowden have not said anything that is not well known, but still they are persecuted by the American justice system. Why? Because the U.S. justice and the media are controlled by the Rothschild family. The media have a purpose to remove public interest from the real issues by imposing endless useless public discussions. Assange and Snowden are victims created exactly for that purpose.

If you physically attack a man you will most likely end up in jail; if you attack Iraq and Afghanistan, kill hundreds of thousands of people to steal their resources, nothing will happen. It cannot be like this. Given that I am very well versed with the aggression against Yugoslavia, I recognized in the criminal aggression against Iraq and Afghanistan the handwriting of the Rothschild family. Have you ever asked yourself why the President of the US may be impeached for cheating on his wife but cannot be impeached for the criminal aggression against Iraq?

In order to decrease the dissatisfaction of the people in the United States due to bad policies of George W. Bush, the Rothschild family, aided by their agent David Rockefeller, chose the young and intelligent Barack Obama for the US presidential position. As a humane man, he attracted the American left and tried to remove the problems that the right wing Bush administration built in America. But he is not strong enough to succeed in doing so. Just before the nomination for the presidency, Obama graduated Harvard law. People who complete university must be obedient followers of authority otherwise they would not be able to complete their studies. The Rothschilds knew that they could relatively easily manipulate young Obama and that is why they chose him.

The Rothschilds made from an exemplary law student who believes that everyone is innocent until a court proves him guilty, a criminal and murderer. Obama signed an order for the predatory arrest of Osama Bin Laden that resulted in his cruel murder. He spat on his own diploma. Why has he done this? He felt pressure from the media and the U.S. government officials that surrounded him. They are all controlled by the Rothschilds because otherwise they could not be in the position they hold. No one has convinced me that Osama Bin Laden had anything to do with the terrorist actions that are attributed to him. If you noticed, all the media's gravest charges have been proved only by putting his picture on the television screen. It is possible that the death was the silencing of a man who was wrongly accused by the Rothschilds.

America, pressured by the Rothschilds, kills people around the world with the excuse that in this way they fight terrorism, spread democracy and human rights. That is a lie; this is only about the discipline of disobedient countries. Obama sends drones that kill people in Afghanistan daily under the pretext that it prevents terrorism and spreads democracy. This is terrorism. Could you imagine Afghan drones flying over the United States and killing people because America is an undemocratic and terrorist state?

Other heads of "developed" Western countries are also either corrupted or incompetent because other people have no access to such positions. The Rothschilds founded the Bilderberg group. It is a private organization that openly recruits and ideologically directs leaders of the Western world. No wonder that the presidents of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Turkey have recently adopted rebels in Syria as legal representatives of the government.

This is a crime. These rebels were secretly created and financed by the Rothschild family with the goal to take control over Syria. That is how the Rothschild family replaces disobedient governments of independent countries. Thus continuing the robbing of all the resources of this world that they do not have yet under control.

A few years ago, I saw on television the Israeli Prime Minister Netanyahu saying: "Do not worry we control the U.S. government." An intelligent man cannot afford such an arrogant statement if the process of the enslavement of American society is not completed. However, Netanyahu did not tell the truth because Israel does not control the U.S. government, but rather the Rothschild family does. The Rothschilds control the US parliament as well through the AIPAC (The American Israel Public Affairs Committee). If any senator or representative of the people opposes the Rothschilds, they will not be politicians any more because AIPAC has the power to dismiss disobedient politicians and they know it. It's no wonder any longer why purchasing corporations are not required to pay taxes. The American laws have been created in a way that suits the rich for centuries. America is a colony of the rich. This is confirmed by the National Security Advisor to President Jimmy Carter, Zbigniew Brzezinski. He recently said, "I do not think there is an implicit obligation for the United States to follow like a stupid mule whatever the Israelis do. I think that the United States has the right to have its own national security policy. "By reading these lines, I have the impression that this high ranked officer of the US does not know that the U.S. is a colony.

The Rothschilds control the judicial departments of Western countries as well. They have established the International court in Hague to judge the nations that oppose them. So that is why the Serbs are punished. Just recently, the judgments were made by which the Croatian generals Gotovina and Markač and Kosovar politician Hardinaj were declared innocent in the war in Yugoslavia while the Serbian general Tolimir received a life sentence of imprisonment. The civil war in Yugoslavia produced equal evil on all sides. General Tolimir is no more guilty than the other three people. The judgments are crimes of the corrupted court. Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic was killed in Hague. As the court had no evidence against him, the tension of the four-year stressful trial and most likely inadequate medical treatment for his ailing heart killed him. Vojislav Šešelj, president of the Serbian Radical Party, is in jail in the Hague tribunal for ten years now still without any judgment. The tribunal is waiting for his death as well because it has no evidence against him. That court is a crime itself and a shame for today's society. Judges from all over the world judge at this court and that means that judges all over the world are corrupt and that there is no justice anywhere. James Bissett, former Canadian ambassador to Yugoslavia claimed that George Soros, the agent of the Rothschild family, funded the International Court in Hague. This means that the Serbs were tried by the same man who attacked them. It says to me that Jacob Rothschild has an impact not only on governments around the world but also on the judiciary. Jacob Rothschild should be charged for the evil he produces but this, of course, is not possible with a corrupt judiciary. Besides, no one knows that he is responsible for it and therefore he produces the evil in the world uninterruptedly.

In short, power corrupts, and as long as there is power over people, there will be corruption. In my book, Humanism, I have proposed the elimination of power of man over a man. This is the only way to build a good future for humankind, but powerful and corrupted people do not accept such a system. Others are so indoctrinated by the system of education and the media that they could not recognize the benefits of the system I have proposed.

The conspiracy has absorbed science as well. Sometime early this year, I watched the video from the conference of "The Institute for New Economic Thinking." In this video, George Soros has called upon all economic schools, including Marxist, to contribute to finding a way out of the economic crisis. The call is not sincere because if it were, they would analyze the economic ideas I offered to them, but they had no such intention. They do not want to solve the economic crisis because it suits them better than the release from the economy crisis. What's that all about? The crisis of capitalism is not based on a lack of production, but on the lack of purchasing power of people. If the big businesses cared about bringing the economy out of the crisis, they need only to find a way for people to earn more. For this reason I wrote the article Let's Remove Unemployment where I offered shortening working hours proportionally to the unemployment rate. In this way, the ratio of jobs to workers would be equal. That would establish a fair market of work where the salaries of workers and profits of employers would be justly regulated. In such an economy, the owners of companies would have to attract workers by increasing wages. The increased purchasing power of workers would increase the trade of goods and services and that would bring businesses higher profits and would pull capitalism out of the crisis.

But it would also reduce the economic dependence of workers on businesses. That would free workers from fear of their economic future. Workers would no longer be interested in fighting wars for the interests of big business around the world, for example. Big business is not interested in making money because it already has all the money; it has an interest in controlling the people and its best bet is during a crisis. And that is the main reason the economic crises exist. All economic crises, including the U.S. Great Depression, are incurred through financial interest rate manipulation of the Rothschild family. Webster Griffin Tarpley wrote about that. Through economic crisis, the Rothschilds force independent entrepreneurs to bankruptcy and cheaply take their wealth. So Rothschilds wider circle of people depend on their power. Then workers, because of fear for their own future, silently accept unfairly low wages and their own powerlessness. And if they rebel against the injustice that is happening to them, they at best can oust government but that can change nothing. The policy controlled by the big business remains the same.

The shortening of working hours proportionally to the unemployment rate should be the first idea to come to the mind of an independent thinker in order to reduce the suffering of workers and improve the economy and society. But such an idea is nowhere to be seen. Why? Because it is forbidden by the conspiracy of the Rothschild family. Such an idea would start a transformation of society towards a better socio-economic system. That is why such an idea cannot be heard at universities or in media. None of the media, including those on the left, wanted to publish my article "Let's Remove Unemployment". Why? Because most of them are controlled by big business and the rest are indoctrinated by imposed knowledge. The indoctrinated people do not believe that such a simple measure can fix society and economy in the first place because they've never heard for it. An idea that does not have access to the public cannot be accepted by political parties either. So the cycle of powerlessness ends.

But why did Soros call the Marxists when he knew that they were the greatest enemies of capitalism? Then I realized that they are not afraid of Marxists. Probably half the professors of sociology in the Western world are Marxists. They openly teach Marxist philosophy in universities, which would not have been possible if Marxism could undermine capitalism in any way. I am deeply convinced that the Rothschilds consciously manipulate the Marxist-oriented professors by putting them on the wrong path. This way, they reduce the possibility of an appearance of a good left-social system that could defeat capitalism. I wrote about it in the article The Failures of Marxism and the Right Path to Socialism and Communism.

This conspiracy has been established a long time ago. Apparently Lenin returned to Russia from exile with suitcases full of money. The reason? Russian Czar Nicholas Romanov angered the Rothschilds with his support of the American government in a conflict with the Bank of England. Besides, the Russian Czar allegedly repaid the debt to the international bankers and did not want to continue to borrow money from them. That was enough for the Rothschilds to finance the revolution. Exactly the same thing is happening to Syria right now. This is possible only because no one can imagine that the Rothschild family is behind all of it. They realize their interests through crimes because no one can connect the crimes with them.

The Rothschilds have imposed a system of education that makes people stupid. I am not exaggerating. Such an education helps them to stay in power and rule over society. How did they do it? They have been supporting mistaken scientists for centuries who develop wrong or insufficiently right knowledge, and by the help from politics which they also control, they have imposed such knowledge to the system of education. Almost all social scientists may belong to such a group including Karl Marx, Sigmund Freud or such lesser-knowns as Bell, Weinberg and Hammersmith which I have mentioned in my latest article, "Homosexuality." These scientists have become authorities mostly by the help of the Rothschilds. University students have been forced to accept the incorrect or not enough correct knowledge of such authorities if they want to pass exams. Intellectuals who have accepted such knowledge became incompetent and could not find an escape from the problems of society. The best students of the wrong or insufficiently correct sciences became the most influential people in society and then spread false knowledge. In this way the Rothschilds have produced helpless and useless sciences. I wrote more about it in the article My Clash with Sciences. Scientists who are deeply indoctrinated with false knowledge cannot improve the world; nor understand or accept progressive ideas. That is the reason the world cannot move forward.

Conspiracy has affected food production as well. In my article "Epilogue", I wrote that indications exist that the Rothschild family deliberately poisons people with food in order to produce food cheaply and make more profits. Thus also hire medical and pharmaceutical industries more, over which they have control too. Furthermore, health care and pharmaceutical industry are not keen enough to treat people honestly, because healthy people are not spending money on medical treatment. There are indications that the Rothschilds deliberately poison people with food to reduce the Earth's population. William Engdahl in his book "Seeds of Destruction" states that the expansion of genetically modified crops and food all over the world today, have reached that scope that can and must be proclaimed as "genocide, crimes against humanity."

The conspiracy of the Rothschild family has reached every pore of today's society. Only cooperative people, those who follow the interests of big business have access to the media and are in influential positions in society. They are obedient because they are corrupted by their positions in society and by the markedly high living standards that the system gives to them. People believe that these corrupted individuals deserve everything because of their hard work and skills, but this is not true. They are only pawns of the people who actually run society. But that is not all, the Rothschilds control their opposition as well. They corrupt fighters for justice who publicly confront the existing system but do nothing to change it. They took control over the "Occupy" movement. Also they like to support indoctrinated fighters for justice who are unable to make progress. Noam Chomsky, for example, is an honest fighter for justice, but has his fight helped humankind? Has he offered a solution that might improve the situation around the world? He has not. And so the Rothschilds must love his contribution to the betterment of humankind. While people who might improve society, like me for example, do not have financial support, do not have access to universities, media, or politics, and cannot help. Everything is based on a deep conspiracy. People who believe media and follow fighters for "justice," actually work in favor of their own powerlessness.

The conspiracy is completely hidden so that public does not know anything about it. It is possible that only Jacob Rothschild has access to the entire conspiracy. He has far more power than any emperor in the history of humankind, but nobody knows it. I believe that his wife thinks he is just a successful businessman. Even his son Nathaniel until recently did not know how powerful his father was. When he learned that he would inherit his power, he suddenly transformed from an irresponsible adventurer to a very successful "independent" businessman. Of course, a narrow circle of his family were acquainted with the conspiracy, as well as several other family members, including of course, David Rockefeller, who rules in the name of Rothschild over the United States. In the hierarchy below them no one, I repeat no one, I believe not even Soros, knows how powerful Jacob Rothschild really is. That is why the conspiracy remains undiscovered.

So then how have I discovered how powerful Jacob Rothschild is? Around the turn of the millennium I became convinced that the Rothschilds rule the Western world by studying various documents over the Internet. Many documents and the genealogy of the Rothschild family suggests that the London branch manages the whole family. A variety of statements, articles, and documents indicate that Jacob is the head of the London branch. That is how I realized that Jacob Rothschild is the secret ruler of the world. He suits the role perfectly as a quiet man mostly known for his love of arts and flowers. This image is of course built up so that no one would have thought that he could be the leader of a global conspiracy. I have no solid evidence against Jacob Rothschild because it is impossible to collect it without the help of governments. State governments are corrupted, incompetent, or afraid of the power of corporations so that they have no intention to search for the evidence and accuse Jacob Rothschild. Anyway, by finishing my research, I concluded that there might be only a 0.1% chance that he is not at the head of the conspiracy hierarchy, and a 0% chance that he is not among the top five. He is certainly guilty for the conspiracy against humankind.

The situation in the world is only getting worse and so I have decided to act. It makes no sense to attack presidents, governments and corporations under media accusations of evil in the world because they are only highlighted puppets Jacob Rothschild has managed and protected. And so the bad situation in the world does not change. Once Jacob Rothschild is accused of evil he will then withdraw. Then the evil in the world will end.

(Before It's News)

By Susan Duclos

Iceland is perhaps to become the model on how to handled high level banksters committing illegal activities and fraud as the reports and video seen below will show.

First from March 28, 2014, via Daily Paul and titled “Iceland Dismantles the Corrupt – Then Arrests Ten Rothschild Bankers”:

“The truth of the matter is... No one, except the Icelanders, have to been the only culture on the planet to carry out this successfully. Not only have they been successful, at overthrowing the corrupt Gov’t, they’ve drafted a Constitution, that will stop this from happening ever again.

“That’s not the best part... The best part, is that they have arrested ALL Rothschild/Rockefeller banking puppets, responsible for the Country’s economic Chaos and meltdown. Last week 9 people were arrested in London and Reykjavik for their possible responsibility for Iceland’s financial collapse in 2008, a deep crisis which developed into an unprecedeted public reaction that is changing the country’s direction...”

Criminals are criminals and should be treated as such. It should not matter how high up the ladder they are in leadership positions, in any country, “we the people” can do what the people of Iceland did, not just to criminal bankers, but to our criminal politicians.

Not only can we, but we should. It is our responsibility to hold criminals in government accountable, an obligation citizens of the US have not lived up to.

The following is a transcript of Attorney General Eric Holder's remarks before the Senate Judiciary Committee, in which he discusses the idea that some banks are 'Too Big to Jail.'

Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa: In the case of bank prosecution. I'm concerned we have a mentality of 'too big to jail' in the financial sector, spreading from fraud cases to terrorist financing to money laundering cases. I would cite HSBC.

I think we are on a slippery slope and that's background for this question. I don't have recollection of DOJ prosecuting any high-profile financial criminal convictions in either companies or individuals.

Assistant Attorney General Breuer said that one reason that DOJ has not sought these prosecutions is because it reaches out to 'experts' to see what effect the prosecution will have on the financial markets. On Jan. 29, Sen. [Sherrod] Brown and I requested details on who these so-called 'experts' are. So far we have not received any information. Maybe you're going to but why have we not yet been provided the names of experts the DOJ consults as we requested on Jan. 29? We continue to find out why we aren't having these high-profile cases...

Attorney General Eric Holder: We will endeavor to answer your letter, Senator. We did not, as I understand it, endeavor to obtain experts outside of the government in making determinations with regard to HSBC.

Just putting that aside for a minute though, the concern that you have raised is one that I, frankly, share. I'm not talking about HSBC here, that would be inappropriate. But I am concerned that the size of some of these institutions becomes so large that it does become difficult for us to prosecute them when we are hit with indications that if we do prosecute — if we do bring a criminal charge — it will have a negative impact on the national economy, perhaps even the world economy. I think that is a function of the fact that some of these institutions have become too large.

Again, I'm not talking about HSBC, this is more of a general comment. I think it has an inhibiting influence, impact on our ability to bring resolutions that I think would be more appropriate. I think that's something that we — you all [Congress] — need to consider. The concern that you raised is actually one that I share.

Grassley: Do you believe that the investment bankers that were repackaging bad mortgages that were AAA-rated are guilty of fraud or is it a case of just not being aggressive or effective enough to prove that they did something fraudulent and criminal?

Holder: We looked at those kinds of cases. I think we have been appropriately aggressive, these are not always easy cases to make. When you look at these cases, you see that things were done 'wrong' then the question is whether or not they were illegal. And I think the people in our criminal division... I think have been as aggressive as they could be, brought cases where we think we could have brought them. I know that in some instances that has not been a satisfying answer to people, but we have been as aggressive as we could have been.

Grassley: If you constitutionally can jail the CEO of a major institution, that is going to send a pretty wide signal to stop a lot of activity that people think they can get away with.

Holder: You are right, senator. The greatest deterrent effect is not to prosecute a corporation — although that's important — the greatest deterrent effect is to prosecute the individuals in the corporations that are responsible for those decisions. We've done that in the UBS matter and try to do that whenever we can. But the point that you make is a good one.
