On or about Jan. 1, 1995 Elon Musk came to the USA from another country(South Africa and/or other country) on a student Visa to attend college at Stanford University and he was suppose to attend school and/or college to receive a Degree. Musk's decided not to attend and/or finish Stanford, and decided to start a business without informing immigration official. This means he had no legal basis to remain in the U.S. Foreign students cannot drop out of school to build a company even if they are not getting paid. "If a illegal immigrate do anything that helps to facilitate revenue creation, such as design code or try to make sales in furtherance of revenue creation, it's against the law. A Student overstaying a student visa and creating a company is illegal."

DREAM Act/Deferred Action

Conferring legal status on young unauthorized immigrants brought to the U.S. as children—a group referred to as DREAMers—has been the subject of legislation in Congress since 2001. In 2012, the Obama administration launched the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) initiative to provide a temporary reprieve from deportation to qualified unauthorized immigrants who came to the U.S. as children. In 2017, the Trump administration announced the program's termination. The research here offers a demographic portrait of the DACA and broader DREAMer populations. Check out our DACA data tools, with state-level and national-origin data,(SEE THIS SITE) .
